SCOTTSBORO VERDICT, DEATH

WORLD WATCHES ROOSEVELT USE SPECIAL POWER

Public Hopeful of Outcome.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 9.—[Special.]—The most amazing performance in our history has been going on for five weeks and is still going strong. Old timers are rubbing their eyes in contemplation of it and saying that anybody who predicted it 12 months—yea, two months—ago would have been classed with prophets of imminent ending of the world.

The President of the United States, clothed with enormous dictatorial powers by the congress of the United States, is slashing the cost of the federal government, reducing the bureaucracy, reorganizing the administrative branch and autocratically ruling the banking system and preparing to reorganize it.

He is about to ask equally autocratic powers to reorganize the rail transportation system. And congress is in process of crowning him dictator of agriculture with power to manipulate upward the prices of farm products and to scale down the burden of farm mortgage indebtedness.

Plans Cutting Home Mortgages.

He is about to broach a plan for the scaling down of the mortgages on city and village homes. He has been authorized to give employment at government expense to 250,000 idle men in forestry work and congress is about to pass a bill giving him 500 million dollars to distribute to the states as outright grants for relief of destitution.

In the immediate offing is a grant of power to reconstruct the tariff system through reciprocal agreements with other nations that will affect profoundly the protection of industries and the prices of manufactured products.

Under the authority so far granted and prospectively to be conferred the President will exercise a power, unprecedented in America, over the financial, agricultural, industrial and transportation structures, over prices and wages, that could be used virtually to remake the economic system of the country.

International Economic Parley.

On top of all this the President is about to enter upon discussions with the heads of the most important other nations the object of which is to reform the present economic condition of the world through the projection of the Roosevelt policies and the Roosevelt philosophy into international agreements.

Contemplating this gigantic undertaking, people are already saying that the result is going to make Mr. Roosevelt either a great benefactor of his country and the world whose reelection in 1936 will be a foregone conclusion or a well meaning but visionary failure as a chief executive whose retirement will be effected as speedily as our law permits.

At present Mr. Roosevelt is riding high in the esteem of his countrymen. While there is audible some murmuring of misgivings of the wisdom of some of his policies it is evident that the people almost universally, Republicans as well as Democrats, wish him and his administration well, even to the point of willingness to submit to governmental experiments of doubtful issue.

Political Honeymoon.

This is the period of political honeymoon which every President enjoys and which Mr. Roosevelt is taking advantage of to push through congress the most important legislation he desires to carry out his far reaching program. Ordinarily the political honeymoon does not last as long as five weeks and Mr. Roosevelt himself in that vast good humor of his has been heard to wonder when it is going to come to an end.

Although the American President is being clothed with powers that make him look like a dictator in comparison with his predecessors, it is still a far cry from Hitler and Mussolini to Roosevelt. If Roosevelt is a dictator it is because congress, representing the people, has made him so, and congress can unmake his dictatorship at any time it sees fit.

The fact is that the most amazing aspect of this amazing performance is that congress, unawed by bayonets and of its own free will, has set up this dictatorship to accomplish what it lacks the courage to do and what the democratic system, if left to its own devices, could not do speedily.

It is in effect a recognition of the dictum that a beneficent despotism is the best of all governments, or perhaps of Lord Lytton's observation

BEER AVERAGES 2.8% ALCOHOL, CHEMIST FINDS

Controversy Over 'Kick' Settled.

The controversy over the "kick" in the so-called 3.2 beer, which has split the forces of the drys, one side calling it a mere froth and the other blaming it for "indications of drunkenness on every hand," was officially settled by the government's chemist yesterday.

Analyses made by John W. Fonner, federal chemist, show that no 3.2 beer has been produced in Chicago, that the brewers have a considerable margin of alcohol content in which to strengthen their brew and still be within the law. The average of the products of Chicago's seven breweries was found by Mr. Fonner to be 2.8 per cent of alcohol by weight. This is four-tenths of one per cent under the legal maximum. The lowest alcoholic content found was 2.48 per cent and the highest was 3.18, which is only two-hundredths of 1 per cent below the legal maximum.

Recalls Battle in Congress.

The average of four-tenths of 1 per cent under the legal maximum alcoholic content makes a considerable difference in the strength of beer, experts declared yesterday. This deficiency served to recall to them the battle waged between the senate and the house over an alcoholic difference of .15 of 1 per cent. This difference was found to be equivalent to about 18 drops of alcohol to the eight ounce glass. On this basis the difference between 2.8 and 3.2 beer is about 48 drops to the eight ounce glass. The average of 2.8 is only .95 of one per cent more than the alcoholic content of the wartime 2.75 beer.

Two reasons are advanced for the low alcoholic content of the new beer as compared with the legal maximum. One is that brewers are afraid of exceeding the legal limit by a hundredth or a thousandth of 1 per cent and thus get into trouble with the law.

Made for Near Beer.

But the main reason, it was reported, is that the beer on sale now was originally made for near beer, under the prohibition formula, and there was no effort to make it measure up to a 3.2 or any other alcoholic standard, for the alcohol had to be extracted anyway. When congress passed the 3.2 beer bill the brewers were obliged to make use of the beer they had in their vats, because there wasn't sufficient time to brew a new batch and age it properly before April 7.

Although the brewers would not admit that their products were shy of the 3.2 per cent alcoholic limit, it was pointed out that Mr. Fonner's analyses of beer have been used by the government ever since there was prohibition as the basis of prosecutions when the strength was above the Volstead limit of ½ of 1 per cent.

Arrests Show Decrease.

The congressional approval of the new beer as nonintoxicating was borne out by Chicago police records, showing that only 63 persons were arrested for drunkenness and disorderly conduct in the entire city Saturday night and Sunday morning. This is about one-third of the usual week-end arrests, according to police, who said that those arrested for intoxication had manifestly indulged in something stronger than 3.2 beer.

The South State street station, where prisoners from the loop are taken, reported only 11 arrests for intoxication, as compared with a week-end average of 20. In the Des Plaines street district, which embraces the West Madison street addicts of "smoke" or "derail" [highly intoxicating prohibition era beverages, made of moonshine or cheap alcohol] at 20 cents a pint, there were only 15 arrests. The Maxwell street district, in the heart of the hard-boiled "valley," reported only one arrest for drunkenness since April 7.

Five at Chicago Avenue.

Other arrests by stations were as follows: Chicago avenue, 5; Hudson avenue, 8; Town Hall, 3; North avenue, 3; Irving Park, 1; Marquette, 1; South State street, 11; South Chicago, 2; Racine avenue, 2; Sheffield, 2; Summerdale, 2; Cragin, 3, and Stanton avenue, 4.

The development of an effective liquor control system, to prevent a return of the old time saloon, was urged yesterday by Dr. Edwin H. Sutherland, professor of sociology at train. A posse went out and took the Negroes off the train. The indictment, trial and sentence to death of eight of the defendants followed. Judge A. E. Hawkins, at Scottsboro, sentenced them to death on April 9, 1931, just 15 days after their arrest.

Communists Push Appeal.

Communist organizations then entered the case, employing attorneys to appeal the death sentences. Nearly a year later the state Supreme court affirmed the death sentences of all except Williams, but an appeal was taken to the United States Supreme court and the nine Negroes, seven under sentence of death and two held as material witnesses, remained in jail until the court handed down its opinion on Nov. 7 last year.

The ruling ordering a new trial for the condemned youths was handed down at Washington after police had had to crack the heads of a number of radicals who attempted to stage a demonstration before the chambers of the Supreme court. All of his colleagues except Justices McReynolds and Butler concurred in the opinion of the court prepared and read by Justice Sutherland.

He held that the record of their trial showed that the defendants had substantially been denied the right of counsel at a time when their lives were in peril. No lawyer was named to defend them up until the very morning of the trial, he found, and the failure of the court to give the defendants reasonable time to employ counsel constituted not only a substantial denial of fair trial, but also amounted to a "clear denial of due process" of law as guaranteed to citizens by the fourteenth amendment to the federal constitution.

Criticizes Trial "Atmosphere."

Justice Sutherland found, further that the evidence showed that instead of being tried in a calm judicial atmosphere the defendants had been tried, convicted, and sentenced to death "in an atmosphere of tense, hostile, and excited public sentiment." Every step taken, he remarked, from the arrest to the sentence, "was accompanied by the military."

The series of new trials, of which that in which Patterson was convicted today was the first, was preceded by several months of legal jockeying between the defense counsel and the prosecution staff, headed by Thomas E. Knight Jr., attorney general of Alabama.

The defense, seeking a change of venue, sought to have the trial moved to the metropolitan atmosphere of Birmingham, but lost its plea when the Scottsboro court directed that the case be transferred to Decatur, whose citizens are counterparts of the hill farmers and small tradesmen of Scottsboro.

Then, apparently with their eyes upon a second appeal to the highest federal court in the event of a second conviction, the defense attacked the jury roll on the grounds that it contained the names of white men alone. Attorney Liebowitz established this after threatening to subpoena every one of the thousand men on the jury roll, to prove that there was not a Negro among them.

Girl Repudiates Testimony.

In the interval between the first and second trials, Ruby Bates had disappeared, but Mrs. Price again took the witness stand and testified that she had been raped in the box car by six of the Negroes.

Each side in the trial hinted that the other had the missing witness hidden away. Then, in the closing days of the trial, Ruby made a dramatic appearance in the courtroom. She had just returned from a hitchhike trip from New York, she said.

She took the witness stand for the defense and asserted that she had perjured herself in the first trial when she accused the youths of attacking her. Her reversal of her previous testimony subjected her to violent attacks by the prosecutors.

She asserted that she had decided to come back to Alabama and change her story after talking to Dr Harry Emerson Fosdick, liberal pastor of the Rockefeller-supported Riverside church in New York.

But the prosecutors charged her with perjury, and spoke of "sinister influences" in New York. They contrasted her smart attire with the cotton dress worn by Mrs. Price. Judge Horton took cognizance of their charges in his final instructions to the jury.

"The law has a stern duty to perform," he said, "and when women of the underworld come before it, the jury must consider that fact."

Negroes Plan Protest March.

New York, April 9.—[Special.]—Plans were begun in Harlem today for about 50,000 Negroes from all parts of the country to go to Washington with a protest to President Roosevelt against the conviction of Heywood Patterson in Decatur, Ala. William Davis, publisher of the Amsterdam News, a Negro newspaper, posted a bulletin outside his office calling for signatures to a petition and promising to go to Washington.

The International Labor Defense announced tonight that an appeal would be taken immediately in the Patterson case and "would be fought to the Supreme court if necessary."

Taken by Death

FRED BENNETT JONES.

Fred Bennett Jones, 75 years old, former vice president of the Adams & Westlake company, manufacturers of railway supplies, died of heart disease at the Passavant hospital last night. He lived at 2100 Lincoln Park West and also maintained a home at Delavan, Wis.

Mr. Jones retired as vice president of the Adams & Westlake company in 1908, but had since, as one of its largest stockholders, kept an active interest in the business. He was born at Peoria, Ill., a descendant of a long line of New England ancestors.

He was a brother of the late Frank Hatch Jones, banker and lawyer. The latter's wife, who died in 1922, was Nellie Grant Sartoris, only daughter of President Grant. Fred Jones possessed a valuable collection of books, prints, trophies, and relics, among them being a clock dating back to 1664 and a copy of the Independent Chronicle and Union Advertiser, printed in 1777 by an ancestor, John Jones, as one of the first newspapers in Massachusetts.

Mr. Jones was a member of the Chicago club, the Chicago Athletic association, the Old Elm, Exmoor Country and South Shore Country clubs. A cousin is believed to be his nearest kin. Funeral services will be announced today.

LOVELORN SEALS LED TO ISLANDS BY NAVAL BOATS

Pribiloff Bulls Awaiting Their New Mates.

Seattle, Wash., April 9.—(AP)—A score of whiskery old bulls, vanguard of 1,500,000 commuting seals, wriggled around the Pribiloff islands in the Bering sea today ready to welcome the cows of the herd that now are swimming northward under chivalrous escort of the United States coast guard.

Cutters from California to the Aleutians are under orders to guard the flippered tourists from human pirates who want their pelts. Additional craft will augment the force as the season progresses and sleek brown heads dot the Pacific ocean.

The picturesque migration of Uncle Sam's glossy-furred wards from the South Pacific and Mexico up the coast for the mating season has occurred every year since mankind first saw them.

Battled to Death.

In the days of the czars Russia garrisoned its islands of the Bering sea with troops—and pirates and traders battled to the death for the chance to slaughter the seals. The rookeries of the Pribiloffs have reverberated to the roar of smoothbore cannon and the battle of musketry.

Today, following purchases and commercial treaties among the United States, Russia, Great Britain and Japan, American and Canadian cutters are strung along the coast, guarding the seals.

Only Indians are allowed the right of pelagic sealing—hunting in the open. They are permitted to attack the seals in their frail canoes with harpoons and other aboriginal weapons. White men with rifles and powerboats are barred.

Brave Sudden Storms.

The redmen's is a hazardous right, for the Indians adventure 20 to 30 miles off the coast in flimsy open craft braving the sudden storms of the region, which often wreak havoc in large fishing fleets. Indians try to sneak up on the seals as they sleep and harpoon them.

Arriving at the Pribiloffs a few at a time the seals will be examined by federal agents and some 3 year old males set aside for slaughter—probably 56,000 this year. Another group will be branded for reserve. The price of fur coats will be affected, for last year only 48,500 were killed and their pelts sold at auction. Thus the government protects breeding herds.

In the days before the treaty of 1910 seal hunters of many nations descended on the Pribiloffs, slaughtering seal cows and leaving thousands of their pups to die, whimpering like babies, of starvation and drowning.

Must Learn to Swim.

Seals cannot swim when they are born and must learn from their mothers. While learning, they are truly "rocked in the cradle of the deep," tucked under their mother's flippers.

The big bulls, six feet long, weighing 500 pounds, pick favored homes on the rocky islands and await the arrival of the cows. Furious battles and bellowings follow as each seeks to add to his harem. The cows loll complacently by.

Over toward Alaska the Nunivak Eskimos are sharpening harpoons. During the sealing season the men separate themselves from women and children, believing that thus they will be assured a good catch of seals which supply them with food, clothing and light.

Balchen Completes Flight in South Pole Monoplane

Hasbrouck Heights, N. J., April 9.—(AP)—Bernt Balchen, former member of the Byrd Antarctic expedition, landed at Teterboro airport this afternoon from Kansas City, completing his cross-country flight with the monoplane which he plans to take on a second trip to the south pole.

Balchen was accompanied by his mechanic, and made the trip from Kansas City in five hours and thirty-five minutes. With good flying conditions the trip was made without difficulty.

Balchen will join the Lincoln Ellsworth transantarctic expedition.

GERMANY'S WAR ON JEW CRIPPLES BUSINESS LIFE

BERLIN, April 7.—The collapse of the bourse caused by the Hitler régime's war against Jews was terminated by the purchase of securities by banks, which, it is understood, was done at the government's behest. Business now is occupied in counting the losses which fell indiscriminately on both Jews and gentiles through the checking of trade and the dislocation of the most important branches of economic activity.

Smaller Jewish tradesmen have some hope of recuperating and department store corporations have sought to save themselves by jettisoning their Jewish directors, as in the case of Leonihard Tietz, A. G. This chain store's shares consequently had a substantial recovery on the bourse.

The worst results are due to the creation of complete beggary for the Jewish professional class.

Non-Jewish Stores Hurt.

Non-Jewish stores report declines in turnover owing to the loss of Jewish customers.

The question of the fate of the Jewish element in banking has not been answered yet. It is understood that Chancellor Hitler's Nazi ministers desired to expel Jewish directors of all the big banks immediately, but that Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, and Dr. Alfred Hugenberg, minister of food and economics, successfully opposed them, warning them of the result of a financial panic. It is likely that the first steps will be taken against private banks, which are overwhelmingly Jewish.

Already small banks report frightened depositors transferring their accounts to the big banks. The heaviest immediate losses have fallen on real estate owners. Jewish professional tenants at the end of March gave notice of wholesale termination of leases at the end of June. Here the loss has fallen mainly on Christians.

Confiscate Bank Accounts.

The authorities have begun to confiscate the bank deposits of individual Jews. Unscrupulous Gentile debtors are either refusing to pay Jews or are making offers of part payment with the threat that if not accepted the Jewish creditor will get nothing. These two actions alone have badly shaken confidence and impaired the ability of Jewish debtors to meet their liabilities to Christians.

Expulsion of Jewish brokers from the Berlin bourse on April 1 resulted in a delay of one hour in issuing official quotations, and the banks believe that numerous quotations were unintentionally falsified. Die Bank and other economic journals are publishing veiled criticisms of the government's deliberate reduction of national buying power. This reduction is certain to hit the reich's revenue. The income and turnover taxes will suffer severely.

In litigation there is confusion in consequence of the government's announcement that plaintiffs, who before April 8 failed to replace Jewish lawyers with Gentile counsel, cannot expect judgments. The Prussian government's action in depriving Jewish notaries of the right to practice has caused anarchy in the real estate markets with hundreds of pending sales held up.

Finds Atrocity Cases in Saar.

PARIS, April 9.—About 500 Jewish fugitives and 100 socialists and communists from Germany have fled into the Saar basin, due to Nazi persecution, the director of the interior department of the Saar told a reporter for the Pairs Soir. The reporter toured the whole Saar district, interviewing fugitives.

The newspaperman found three authenticated cases of Nazi brutality. A Mannheim shopkeeper, his wife and their two daughters all bore marks of beatings on their faces. The wife's left arm was broken.

Another case, of which the correspondent saw only photographic proof, concerned the Socialist Deputy Sollman. The deputy's friends in Saarbrucken told a vivid story of his torture at the hands of Nazis. The last case was of a Jewish doctor, who described and showed evidence of a beating received from three Nazis.

[The Saar is governed by a league of nations' commission of five, of whom one is French.]

Stone German Consulate.

LODZ, Poland, April 9.—(AP)—The German consulate, a German newspaper office, a German school, and a German library were attacked in riots here today.

A group of Jews stoned the consulate building and slightly damaged the coat of arms. Police dispersed them but almost at the same time three other groups attacked the office of the newspaper, the Freie Presse, the school, and the library.

Reds Urge Armed Revolt.

MOSCOW, April 9.—(AP)—The communist internationale today appealed to the German laboring masses to overthrow the Hitler government by an armed revolt and to establish in its stead a dictatorship of the proletariat. The appeal was in a statement issued by the presidium of the communist internationale's executive committee which was published in the newspaper Pravda.

Spring Weather Brings Out the Sandlot Ball Players

May Rain Today

Freakish April winds played tricks with the thermometer yesterday as thousands of Chicagoans enjoyed the spring weather in parks and on highways. At 9 a. m. the mercury stood at 47 degrees. A southeast wind shot it up to 65 by 11 a. m., but in the next hour the wind shifted to the northeast and at noon the mercury rested at 46, a drop of 19 degrees.

Hopes for a continuation of fair weather today are likely to be upset by occasional rain, according to C. A. Donnel, chief weather forecaster.

"There's an even chance for rain," said Mr. Donnel. "The day will probably be cloudy. The temperature will be in the 40's."

At the Flossmoor Country club purple martins made their first appearance of the year yesterday.

Von Papen in Rome; Will Talk with the Pope and Mussolini

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, April 9.—As a prelude to an encounter between Premier Mussolini and Chancellor Adolf Hitler of Germany, Franz von Papen, German vice chancellor, arrived here today. He will be joined tomorrow by Capt. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Hitler's right hand man and minister without portfolio, who is arriving by airplane. The two cabinet members will spend the week in Rome conferring with Mussolini and Pope Pius.

Coincident with the arrival of the German ministers, Henri de Jouvenal, French ambassador, returned to Rome tonight after a week in Paris, spent in conferring with his government. It was announced that de Jouvenal is not bringing back, as expected, the French memorandum suggesting modifications of Mussolini's four power peace plan.

Preach Treaty Revision.

This plan, together with Germany's desire to persuade Mussolini not to allow the principle of treaty revision to be eliminated from it, will be the chief topic of discussion between the Germans and Italians. It also is believed that Von Papen and Capt. Goering will arrange a meeting between the leader of Italy's black shirts and the leader of Germany's brown shirts.

A general understanding as to how the four power peace pact is to be framed has been subjected to delays. Advices are that the Germans, who want to get the agreement definitely committed to revisionism for reasons of prestige for Hitlerism, now fear that Mussolini is willing to compromise with the French and British and dilute the pact down to either not mentioning revision or leaving it to the routine league of nations' machinery.

Von Papen, who is a stanch Catholic, also is expected to talk with the pope concerning the relations between National Socialism and the church with the idea of enlisting complete Catholic Centrist support for the Hitler dictatorship.

May See Pope Today.

Von Papen will see the pontiff probably tomorrow. If the church opposition to Hitlerism can be restrained and Mussolini's backing of revisionism maintained, Hitler will gain the prestige required at a critical moment, it is pointed out here.

Mussolini, however, is said to have become more prudent on the practical aspects of revising the post-war treaties. At present he is working on a plan which would be very limited, involving only the Polish corridor and rectification of the Hungarian frontiers, it is declared.

The reason for Goering's visit is more obscure. He has spent some time in Italy and is a strong exponent of the early methods of Fascism, for the application of which in Germany he has been held responsible. Officially Goering will visit Rome to confer with Gen. Italo Balboa, minister of aviation, on air traffic regulation between Germany and Italy.

Met by Ambassadors.

At any rate the belief is held tonight that next week may see important developments in how the proposed four-power European directorate takes shape. Von Papen's visit is semi-official only. He was met at the station by representatives of the foreign office and by the German ambassadors to Italy and the Vatican.

Von Papen is not staying at the German embassy but took lodgings at a modest hotel. He visited Rome's show places this afternoon and also the exposition of the Fascist revolution.

Spectator Saves Mascot as Firemen Fight Blaze

Bozo, dog mascot of squad No. 2 of the fire department, nearly lost his life yesterday while the squad was fighting a fire in a warehouse at 727 Meridian street. The dog was leashed to the truck and fell off. A spectator rescued him before he was strangled. The blaze, for which a 2-11 alarm was sounded, caused damage estimated at $5,000.

Shoe Store Owner Killed By Monoxide from Auto

Werner Hart, 50 years old, of 107 West 74th street, owner of a shoe store, was killed last evening by carbon monoxide fumes from his automobile in a private garage in the rear of 102 West 74th street. He had been working on his car.

JEWS HERE CALL HITLER REGIME CURSE OF EUROPE

Rabbi Freehof Fears Effect on World Peace.

Rabbi Solomon B. Freehof yesterday pictured the policies of the German Nazi government as "a distorted nationalism which has become the curse of modern Europe." He was the principal speaker at the annual meeting of the Chicago Hias, a branch of the international Jewish organization for the relief of oppressed peoples. The meeting was held in the Masonic temple, 32 West Randolph street.

"The world today needs an international spirit," said Rabbi Freehof. "Otherwise it will be torn apart by nationalism. The oppression of the German Jews may have ceased, but the problem of the Jew in Germany is graver now than it was two weeks ago.

"Jews are considered aliens in their native land. They are being deprived of official positions and it is clearly the purpose of the Nazi government to bring the Jew to a point of starvation. This attitude is not one born of passion, but based on a racial principle. As long as Hitler is in power the situation of the Jew in Germany will become increasingly intolerable.

"The anti-Semitic movement avowed by the father of German nationalism has changed from an acute disease to a chronic ailment. Degradation of the Jews is publicly acclaimed by the men in power, who have decreed that democracy is a thing of the past. In Germany democracy is dead.

Jew an Internationalist.

"The Jew is an internationalist. We are the bridge over the boundaries of nations, the cement of international good will. No other people in history can claim this unique and valuable contribution to the world."

Rabbi Freehof then urged the members of the Chicago Hias to make and keep their organization strong so as to be in a position to help oppressed Jews of Germany and other countries. Preceding his talk Adolph Copeland, president of the Chicago Hias organization and vice president of the International Hias, gave the annual report of activities.

Leo Lange, noted European cantor, who arrived in Chicago yesterday, said he was detained for three weeks by Nazi forces in a hotel in Bremen on his journey to Chicago. Lange lives in Moscow and he was brought here to sing at the Passover services in Congregation Knasses Israel, 1308 Independence boulevard.

American Effects Release.

Cantor Lange has attained fame in continental Europe by numerous tours, but had never before made a trip to America. He informed a group that met him yesterday at the Union station, on his arrival from New York, that his luggage was confiscated and he was kept a prisoner in his Bremen hotel room when he tried to cross Germany on his way to America. His property was restored and he was permitted to resume his journey as soon as an American consul, at the behest of Congressman Adolph Sabath, interviewed the Hitler agents. Lange speaks no English.

BANKER SHOOTS YOUNG BURGLAR LOOTING HOME

Clarence Sanowski, 16 years old, 2502 Southport avenue, who was released from the St. Charles school three months ago, was shot near the heart last night while fleeing from an apartment at 4925 North Menard avenue which he and two other boys were said to have robbed. At the Belmont hospital it was said he probably would die. Young Sanowski was shot by Irving Block, occupant of the apartment and a teller at the Northern Trust company, after Block had returned home and routed the burglars. In the boy's pockets were found several articles of jewelry taken from the Block home.

The Sanowski boy was later removed to the county hospital and not long afterward one of his suspected companions, Leonard Peplinski, 16, of 2415 High street, was seized. Police said Peplinski was carrying a gun and eight watches and admitted his part in the burglary.

BOY, 14, WOUNDED BY CROSSFIRE IN BANDIT CHASE

A few minutes earlier Policemen Edward Quinn and Luttrell White of the Marquette station had sighted the two thieves in the neighborhood. A chase started.

Policeman Quinn fired several shots at the men. The latter, rounding Oakley avenue into 20th street, sent four or five shots at their pursuers. One of these bullets pierced Walter's hand and penetrated the thigh. The gunmen escaped. Walter was taken to the county hospital.

Kayo, a large collie, was the hero of the neighborhood yesterday in Rogers Park. He was at home to visitors at 7543 North Western avenue and there were many who stopped to pay tribute to his intelligence and devotion as the family dog in the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. King. On Saturday Mrs. King took her husband, a world war aviator, to the Edward Hines Jr., hospital. On returning home she collapsed in a dead faint. Kayo knocked over the telephone stand and then kept barking into the mouthpiece until the telephone operator called the Rogers Park police station and two policemen were sent there. They obtained medical aid for Mrs. King and she was recovering yesterday.

BE GOOD SPORT ON BEER, PLEA TO MRS. BOOLE

Call on Her to Support Decimal Brew.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 9.—[Special.]—This seems to be a proper time to call on Mrs. Ella Boole, the president of the W. C. T. U., as a law abiding American to respect the decision of the people's representatives in congress and acknowledge the nonintoxicating character of the new decimal beer. I notice that Mrs. Boole disagrees with congress on this point, but I hope she was misquoted because I have a distinct recollection of an interview with her at her home in Brooklyn just before the prohibition law became more or less effective, in which she called upon all Americans to obey the law as a patriotic duty.

Mrs. Boole admitted that it would annoy some citizens to be deprived of alcoholic beverages, but she put it up to one and all to be good sports and good citizens and yield obedience and respect to the law of the land. She seemed very sensitive about the sanctity of the law and the will of the people as expressed by congress and the legislatures, and it would be disillusioning to learn now that she is one of those who select those acts of congress which they wish to acknowledge but repudiate others which happen to be distasteful to them.

"Cannot Pick and Choose."

That way, as she said with great feeling, lies disrespect for all law and anarchy.

I remember almost her identical words. "We cannot pick and choose between laws. We must respect the law because it is the law."

Mrs. Boole became personal to the extent that she pleaded with me individually to obey the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act and never to write anything which would tend to discredit them.

"Be a good sport," Mrs. Boole said. "We are a sport loving country and we respect a good loser. Those who opposed prohibition and lost the fight ought to show their good sportsmanship now. That is the American way."

So, in the present circumstances it would seem permissible to call on Mrs. Boole herself to be a good sport, step up to the bar and drink a few of those nonintoxicating beers. She need not join in the singing of "Down Where the Wurzburger Flows," although by doing so she would indicate that hearty acquiescence in the will of the people which she bespoke for her law at that time. I could coach her in the words.

Then You Cry, "Prosit!"

It starts out, "Down, down, down where the Wurzburger flows, flows, flows," and she would bang her seidel on the table to mark the beats and cry, "Prosit!" Mrs. Boole need have no qualms for her pledges against intoxicating beverages, either, because this beer is guaranteed to be harmless by act of the great United States congress, for all of whose acts, without discrimination, she entreated patriotic submission, at whatever sacrifice of personal conviction, the day I interviewed her in Brooklyn so long ago.

To be sure, the act does not oblige her to drink any of these decimal beers, but there seems to be an implied call on all citizens to do their best in the message of the President which occasioned the beer law.

I think an open, public endorsement of this nonintoxicating beverage by Mrs. Boole would tend to release thousands, perhaps millions of other ladies who look to her for example and guidance, from that interpretation of their vows of abstinence which deters them from the performance of this patriotic service.

Of course, they might not like beer, but a patriot would not be daunted by that and anyway there were a great many citizens in 1919 who did not like the red or yellow pop, whose manufacturers contributed to the passage of Mrs. Boole's law and which the good sports were asked to confine their drinking to.

For that matter, inasmuch as the Rev. Bishop Cannon, the Rev. Clarence True Wilson and Scott McBride in those days made much talk of their patriotic motives, perhaps they would be willing to join in a beer evening by way of endorsing to their following, if any remains today, this nonintoxicating beverage which contributes a tax of $5 a barrel to a busted U. S. treasury and other incidental taxes to the busted treasuries of the states and towns.

I think I could sell the moving picture rights to this scene for more than enough money to buy all the beer and bologna and pretzels required and radio rights to the male quartet of Cannon, Wilson, McBride and the Rev. Deets Picket singing "Old Budweiser's a Friend of Mine" could be turned over to the treasury direct.

Treasury Is Calling.

I don't suppose they would turn down this proposition, because in the first place the law says this beer is all right under the constitution and in the second place one of their great objects has always been to promote prosperity. They were going to make the working man prosperous. I will not dwell on that, but now the treasury is calling and I know they will not fail. Besides, they might have a hell of a good time.

I will have to admit that I have not been the thorough good sport about prohibition which Mrs. Boole asked me to be in 1919, but then I didn't promise. In fact, I believe I said I wouldn't. But at least I have been consistent through these years at some cost in occasional katzenjammer and I have no way of knowing what price in funds over and above the normal cost of alcoholic beverages.

Mrs. Boole, however, will be different. She reveres the law whether or not it pleases her and she is a good sport who knows how to lose gracefully.

I am sure Mrs. Boole must have been misquoted. She is always being misquoted.

President Visits Hoover's Old Camp on Rapidan

Leisurely Trip

Washington, D. C., April 9.—(AP)—President Roosevelt returned to the White House at 6:30 p. m. today after a drive through Virginia to former President Hoover's camp on the Rapidan.

Taking his first full day off in more than a month the President, accompanied by Mrs. Roosevelt and a party approximating a dozen, drove at a leisurely pace under a balmy sun to the rustic retreat on the Rapidan.

The party had luncheon at the mountain camp and drove over the new skyland trail and down the mountain into the valley of Virginia again.

Mr. Roosevelt drove throughout the day in an open car. His return to Washington was slowed by heavy traffic.

The machine carrying Secretary Ickes crashed into another car near Falls Church, Va., but the only damage was a couple of broken fenders.

In addition to Mrs. Roosevelt and the secretary of the interior, John Roosevelt, son of the President, was among those who enjoyed the outing in the springlike weather.

MICHIGAN GOES ON RECORD FOR REPEAL TODAY

State Will Be First to Ratify Amendment.

Lansing, Mich., April 9.—[Special.]—Michigan will supply the first lever tomorrow toward prying the 18th amendment out of the United States' constitution.

One hundred delegates, 99 of them pledged to support the proposed 21st or prohibition repeal amendment, will asemble in the capitol promptly at 10 o'clock for a ratification convention at which this state will lead all others in repudiating national prohibition.

Plain Civic Celebration.

A civic celebration after the formal action by the delegates is planned, but the actual convention ceremonies are expected to be brief and simple. Lieut. Gov. Allen Stebbins will call the convention to order and organization formalities will be disposed of in the morning. Adjournment will be taken for lunch, according to plans, with the formal vote on the ratification resolution scheduled for the early afternoon.

There will be no debate on the issue involved as the Heidekamp act which provided for the convention stipulated that the delegates must vote as instructed by the voters who were given their choice, April 3, between selecting wet or dry delegates. The result was a popular vote for repeal in excess of three to one while the vote by districts brought election of only one dry delegate, Dr. Eugene Davenport of Hastings, representing Barry county.

Main Section of Measure.

The main section of the resolution to be acted upon states:

"Resolved, by the delegates of the convention of the State of Michigan that, in the name of, and on behalf of the people of the State of Michigan, we do hereby ratify, approve, and assent to the proposed 21st amendment to the constitution of the United States."

Mrs. Mary E. Alger, Detroit, wife of Col. Fred Alger and one of the leaders in the Woman's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, is to have the honorary position of president pro tempore of the convention.

SEIZE CHICAGOAN, TIE HIM TO TREE NEAR KENOSHA

Kenosha, Wis., April 9.—(AP)—Carl Saaf, 36, Chicago insurance salesman, reported to police here late Saturday night that he had been seized by three men on a Chicago street, brought here in his own automobile and tied to a tree west of the city.

Saaf slipped out of the rope by which he had been tied and walked to Kenosha. Officers found tracks of several men in soft earth at the tree and one of Saaf's business cards.

Saaf said that Saturday night he took his wife and two children to a home of a friend, John Voss, 6208 Irving avenue, Chicago, and then he drove to Winthrop and Hollywood avenues to collect a bill. When he returned to his parked automobile three men forced him into the car, blindfolded him and made him give up keys of the machine.

Once the men stopped for gasoline, taking $2 from his pockets to pay for it, Saaf said. From remarks he overheard he got the impression his abductors planned to use the automobile for a robbery.

Dalrymple Rules Against Husband, Wife Employes

Washington, D. C., April 9.—(AP)—A. V. Dalrymple, newly appointed director of the prohibition, today declared in a statement that he had ordered an immediate investigation to determine whether there were any cases where a husband and wife both were on the pay roll of his service, and that if such instances were found one or both would be dismissed.

the University of Chicago. Dr. Sutherland said the country was faced by the alternatives of preventing the return of the saloon or the return of prohibition.

Intoxication Is Dangerous.

"All who have advocated the repeal of the 18th amendment agree that we do not want the old saloon," he said. "Yet few states, under the new beer provisions, have made plans to prevent its return. Intoxication in modern society is an extremely dangerous and expensive thing, particularly because of the automobile and other mechanized features of our civilization."

Dr. Sutherland said there should be no fear of an increase in major crimes because of the return of beer, or even if the 18th amendment were repealed.

"Little relation has ever been demonstrated between the sale of liquor and major crime," he said. "An effort to find a correlation was made at the beginning of the prohibition era, but the data were inadequate. If intoxication could be reduced, that in the long run would tend to reduce crime, though the effect would not be marked. On the other hand, the legalization of liquor may reduce the crime that results from organized bootlegging."

Dr. Sutherland said England had gone far toward solving the liquor problem through education in self-control and restricting the hours of sale. Prosecutions for drunkenness in that country, he said, have dropped from 208,664 in 1913 to 63,937 in 1930.

Green Wars on Hijackers.

Hijacking of beer trucks in interstate commerce will be prosecuted under the federal law, United States District Attorney Dwight H. Green said yesterday following the seizure by four gunmen of a truckload of beer being taken from Milwaukee to Chicago Saturday.

"Any theft from interstate shipments brings hijackers under the powers of federal prosecution," Mr. Green said. "These gangsters will be dealt with to the full extent of the federal law."

Clark Re-elected President of Benton School Board

BEER ON SALE; ARRESTS FEWER IN PHILADELPHIA

Philadelphia, Pa., April 9.—[Special.]—With beer back on sale, police officials were pleased today as they read the blotters and found that Philadelphia had fewer arrests for intoxication than it had had in months.

There were virtually no arrests for intoxication from 4 p. m. Saturday until 4 p. m. today, one official said. The actual number, he said, was five, and three were habitual drunkards.

BEER SHORTAGE IN WASHINGTON AND IT'S WARM

Sale in U. S. Restaurants Still in Doubt.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 9.—[Special.]—The capital of the United States is taking its beer and liking it, not only to the extent of some 2,000,000 glasses a day but to the despair of brewers who just can't bottle the stuff fast enough.

So today, which was really the first warmish day Washington has experienced this spring, a day in which a cooling draught of fine amber beer would cheer the soul of you, there wasn't near enough of it to go around.

Along with this temporary beer drought—to be dispelled when trainloads arrive from Milwaukee, Chicago, Cincinnati and other points—Washington is truly pestered by doubts as to whether the governmental fathers will allow this most innocuous, nonintoxicating and respectable libation to be served in restaurants on government property.

Clerks Are Wondering.

Thousands of federal clerks, to say nothing of higher officials, even unto congressmen and senators, wonder if they are to be denied the privilege of having a stein of beer at their elbows when they lunch at the official restaurants.

The head of the government seemingly is in sympathy with the thirsty ones. At the press conference the other day reporters found President Roosevelt with a huge beer glass, of at least a quart capacity, at his elbow.

The social mentors at the White House, somewhat aghast these days because the Roosevelt family acts like the average American family instead of like a reigning family, has not officially recorded the serving of beer on the dining tables, but it may be stated authoritatively that beer has been consumed at the White House.

Tongues Are Wagging.

Some departments put beer freely on sale in government controlled restaurants and stores, but one of the exceptions has set Washington tongues to wagging. This concerns the postoffice department.

While Jim Farley, postmaster general, was in New York his first assistant, Joseph O'Mahoney, issued an order yesterday prohibiting the sale of beer on any postoffice properties anywhere in the United States.

Mr. O'Mahoney declined today to reveal whether he had consulted Mr. Farley before issuing the order.

The senate and house of representatives are going into solemn deliberations about the question of whether beer shall be sold in restaurants at the capitol building. The house committee on accounts has the matter in charge on that side, and according to reports in a day or two will make an application for a license to sell beer in the house restaurant.

Senators are conceding that they must follow the house if the house restaurant goes beerish because if they don't the senate restaurant will have little business.

The army and navy departments have issued orders allowing beer to be sold in any camps in the country where state laws do not conflict, but while the navy department has refused to allow beer to be sold in its restaurants within the district the war department has already made application for a license to sell beer at the war college.

Most of the restaurants and cafeterias on government property are operated by the Welfare and Recreational association, a non-profit making organization which gives half of its surplus to the federal treasury, and the other half to various philanthropic purposes.

Will Apply for Licenses.

Capt. Frank Hoover, general manager of the association which is directed by a board of trustees, comprised entirely of government officials, said tonight that he would apply tomorrow for licenses to sell beer in three restaurants, at the Haines Point tea house, the Anacostia golf course, and the Washington tourist camp. These are patronized by the general public.

Capt. Hoover said he would confer with department before applying for beer licenses in the other restaurants, which are operated for the employés of the departments of interior, commerce, internal revenue, the shipping board, Red Cross, and parts of the army and navy departments.

Find Painting Lost for Century

Portrait of Byron

In a small Chicago art shop recently a soiled and fading painting was purchased for a small sum. The new owner carried it to the studio of Gerda Ahlm in the Auditorium towers, to be renovated and identified if possible. Miss Ahlm, who has had years of experience in restoring old paintings, noticed as the grime of years was removed that the subject of this painting bore a striking resemblance to Lord Byron, the poet, and that the work was much like that of George Henry Harlow, student of Thomas Lawrence.

Research in the reference works of the Chicago Art Institute revealed that Harlow had painted such a portrait of Byron, presumably in 1818, when both men are known to have been in Rome. Confirmation of Miss Ahlm's theory that the picture was the one mentioned in the books was furnished when she discovered a sketch of Byron by Harlow, similar to the restored portrait. Miss Ahlm refused to name the purchaser or to estimate the worth of the portrait.

SLAYER OF FOUR FOUND SUICIDE ON RIVER BANK

Beaumont, Tex., April 9.—(AP)—Dallas Barksdale, 65, sought in Texas and Louisiana in connection with the killing of four persons—his estranged wife, her daughter and son-in-law and their infant son—was found dead today, a suicide.

The dead were:

Mrs. Laura Franklin, 45, wife of Barksdale.

H. M. Hastings, 30, her son-in-law.

Mrs. Hastings, 16, daughter of Mrs. Franklin.

H. M. Hastings Jr., 3 months old

The bodies of Hastings and Mrs. Franklin were found outside the dwelling and the bodies of Mrs. Hastings and the baby were in the house.

Barksdale's body, a bullet wound through the forehead, was found on the Trinity river bank in Liberty county, near the town of Liberty and the Hastings home where the quadruple killing occurred.

Neighbors said Barksdale came there from San Jacinto county Friday and quarreled with Mrs. Franklin and the Hastings family.

Bodies of the four were found last night. All had been killed with a .22 caliber rifle.

Officers said they believed Frances Franklin, 11, daughter of Mrs. Franklin and sister of Mrs. Hastings, owes her life to the fact she was visiting neighbors at the time of the shooting.

Deputy Sheriff W. A. McGee of Liberty county said Frances reported Barksdale had caused trouble in the family previously. She said she did not know whether her mother was divorced from Barksdale.

YEARS PILE UP GOLD FOR LOST CHICAGO HEIRS

Half Million Awaits Them in Musty Vault.

Mitchell C. Robin, clerk of the Probate court, wants to give away a half million dollars. And he has the half million to give away.

The half million is the total of unclaimed legacies and estates in the history of Cook county. The amount is increasing at the rate of $10,000 a year. It is estimated that if all the claimants were living they might constitute a city of more than 30,000 persons.

Records of the estates and data on the missing heirs are carefully guarded in the vaults of the Probate court. The caution is exercised to prevent a flood of fictitious claimants. It is feared that persons posing as descendants of alleged heirs might bring court actions contesting title to now valuable real estate. Such property has been sold by the county, but heirs, if able to prove their descent, might claim the property even after a lapse of generations.

Romance in Musty Records.

The yellowing records of some estates read like romances. Other records have no information except the name of the missing heir, his last known address and a dull recital of efforts made to find him.

In the musty vault is the story of Jeff Withers. Jeff, 20 years old, worked in the store of his uncle, Hiram Withers, in the troublous days before the civil war. At the outbreak of the war he enlisted in the Union army and fought at Shiloh. While he was in the army his uncle died, leaving him $5,000.

Notices of the legacy were mailed to Withers in care of the army of the west. The notices followed him when he went to the eastern battlefields with Sheridan. They missed him at Five Forks, Cold Harbor, and other bloody fields.

Vanishes After the War.

Sergt. Withers was last seen marching up Pennsylvania avenue in Washington in the great review after the war. As far as is known he vanished then as certainly as though some unseen hand reached down and plucked him from his place in the ranks. If he is alive or children survive him the money is waiting.

The money is deposited by the clerk of the court with the county treasurer. If the heir does not appear within ten years the money is turned over to the county. Lawyers declared, however, that the county must return the money to the heir or his descendants upon presentation of proof. Under the law no interest is paid on legacies.

Another story in the files of the court is that of Fred Culter. With the discovery of gold in Alaska in 1898 Culter departed for the Yukon, leaving his father, mother, two brothers and a sister. While he mushed icy trails the father died, leaving Fred $3,574 as his share of the estate.

Never Returns from the Yukon.

Letters failed to reach Culter. It is not known whether he found the fortune he sought. Because he did not return and no record exists of his death, it is presumed he failed in his quest. At any rate, he never knew, while he sought to dig gold from the earth, that gold was awaiting him at home.

The most common story told in the records of the court is that of the stern parent and the wastrel son. Hundreds and hundreds of the bequests are only $1. The wills carry the lines, "To my son, ——, whom I have cast off, $1." Rarely among these is a daughter.

In many of these cases the missing heir was found, but spurned his legacy. Some of the heirs returned notices with heated replies declaring they wished no part of the estate. Others ignored the letters.

Court Must Seek Heir.

Under the law the clerk of the court must advertise for the missing heir for eight weeks in a publication of general circulation. He must also write to the last known address and to persons who might know of the whereabouts of the heir. Advertisements are now made in the Law Bulletin.

In the last two years unclaimed bequested totaled $21,622. The bequests average between $200 and $300. A few reach into tens of thousands of dollars.

Member of Post

Memorial services for Rear Admiral William A. Moffett and members of the crew who perished in the Akron disaster were held yesterday in the Naval Reserve armory at the foot of Randolph street under direction of Naval post, American Legion. Admiral Moffet was a member of the post.

The Rev. Grover C. Whimsett, past department chaplain of the legion, gave the principal address, "In Memoriam." Addresses were also given by Capt. Frank H. Roberts, U. S. N., representing the navy; former Lieut. Commander George W. Weichelt and Charles W. Schick, past commander of the Legion, department of Illinois.

Capt. Edward Evers, commander of the 4th area naval reserve, introduced the speakers, and Newman A. Dumont, commander of the Naval post, opened and closed the services. Rear Admiral Wat T. Cluverius, commandant of the Great Lakes naval station, and his staff attended. Music was furnished by the naval reserve band, which accompanied vocal numbers sung by Edward C. O'Connor.

Teaching of Marital Facts Planned by Church Group

New York, April 9.—(AP)—A marriage code for ministers, recommending that clergymen guide couples both before and after marriage and condemning "stunt" weddings, was issued tonight by the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America.

Addressed to the clergymen of the council's member denominations, which include almost every major Protestant group in the country, the statement recommended that pastors give premarital interviews to couples contemplating marriage and organize classes or clubs for young married persons.

For Further Teaching.

"Studies in unhappy marriages and the experience of family consultation institutes reveal that ignorance and maladjustment of the sex relationship appear in most cases," the statement declared.

"The pastor cannot be certain that those who come to him for marriage understand these vital relationships which God himself has ordained and sanctified.

"If there is inadequate understanding the pastor may render the new family a service of the greatest importance through the instruction which he gives them.

"Whatever is offered, while frank and thoroughgoing, should be reverent in tone and in keeping with the seriousness of the occasion."

Led by Professor.

The statement was drafted by the council's committee on marriage and the home, of which Prof. Howard Chandler Robbins of New York is chairman, and Dr. L. Foster Wood, formerly of Colgate-Rochester Divinity school, is secretary.

Ministers "need to engage seriously in the study of methods of personal and family adjustment," it asserted.

Through classes or clubs in the church, it continued, "homes may be brought to a higher religious level and help will come in parent-child relationships, marital adjustments, emotional difficulties and personality problems."

Commercialism Opposed.

"Commercialization of weddings whether by ministers or civil officials," the statement said, "and degradation of marriage by stunt weddings, by advertising for them, or by using them for advertising purposes, is shocking and antisocial."

The minister should make the wedding ceremony "impressive, dignified and beautiful," and should encourage simplicity. "Above all," the statement added, "he should do all in his power to give it religious significance."

Fifth Serum Injection Aids Sleeping Sickness Patient

Following the treatment, her parents reported yesterday, she showed a marked improvement in muscular activity, though she is still unable to speak.

Judge Jarecki to Enter Battle Creek Sanitarium

Judge Edmund K. Jarecki of the county court left yesterday for the Battle Creek sanitarium at Battle Creek, Mich., to undergo observation for an intestinal ailment. A short time ago he rested for two weeks at a Chicago hospital. Dr. Francis A. Dulak, Judge Jarecki's physician, accompanied the judge to the Michigan sanitarium. The doctor said that Judge Jarecki's condition is much improved, but that additional observation was deemed necessary.

Identified as Commanders McCord and Berry.

New York, April 9.—[Special.]—The bodies of Commander Frank Carey McCord, who was in command of the naval airship Akron when it crashed at sea off the Jersey coast last Tuesday, and of Commander Fred Thomas Berry, who commanded the naval air station at Lakehurst, were picked up about 40 miles east of Atlantic City this afternoon by the coast guard destroyer Tucker.

The bodies were found about four miles apart in an area approximately 28 miles southeast of Barnegat lightship and eight miles from the spot where the Akron is believed to have fallen. The recovery of the two bodies, of a flying suit with a notebook containing details of the Akron's last flight and of additional bits of wreckage, spurred the search by naval and coast guard ships, which has been continued for the last five days.

Resume Inquiry Today.

Capt. Herbert F. Leary, commanding the cruiser Portland, who is directing the search, announced that all available patrol planes and amphibians from the third, fourth and fifth naval districts will augment tomorrow the surface fleet of about 30 vessels, some of which have been dragging the bottom day and night since shortly after the disaster.

While the search is continued the naval court of inquiry, which has been directed to investigate the wreck of the giant airship and the subsequent crash of the "blimp" J-3, will convene at Lakehurst tomorrow morning. Rear Admiral Henry V. Butler, president of the court, and his two associates will call before them the three surviving members of the Akron's crew and will study the bits of debris which have been picked up by the searching fleet and ferried to Lakehurst by naval planes.

Find Berry's Body First.

The body of Commander Berry was the first one recovered today. It was picked up about 2 o'clock about 40 miles east of Atlantic City. Later in the afternoon at about 4:30 p. m. the Tucker recovered the body of Commander McCord.

Both Commander Berry and Commander McCord were veterans of lighter-than-air work, and both had served in the navy for more than a quarter of a century. Commander Berry, in his capacity as commander of the rigid airship training and experimental squadron had the Akron as his "flagship," with Commander McCord as the captain of the airship. Commander Berry was the commanding officer of the Los Angeles until last July when she was put out of commission.

The flying suit which was found floating on the sea in the same general vicinity in which the bodies were recovered was marked with the name of Lieut. Hammond J. Dugan, one of the Akron's officers. In the pocket of the suit was found a notebook with entries recording the time of the take-off of the Akron with seventy-five men aboard, and a record of the dropping of ballast. The searching vessels also recovered today an 120-gallon cylindrical gasoline tank and a mess bench.

The bodies found today brought to three the total that have been recovered in the six day search. Sixty-nine bodies are still missing.

Public Is Hopeful of the Outcome.

Public Reaction Felt.

What put congress in the mood to do these unprecedented things is unquestionably the well-nigh universal reaction against what now appears to have been the mistakes and excesses of the past, against everything that conceivably contributed to our distressful condition—against uncontrolled orgies of speculation, against high tariff walls, against predatory corporation practices, against loose banking methods, against prohibition that produced naught but a saturnalia of crime and deprived government of billions of dollars of revenue, against pork barrel extravagance in government, against the growth of paternalism in the federal government, to mention a few of the observable popular revulsions.

To wipe out these mistakes and excuses and get government back to the first principles from which it strayed so far is the patent mandate of the people which congress has commissioned the President to carry into effect as speedily as possible.

Scarcely a day passes that does not yield fresh evidence of the almost yearning of the country for a leader to whom it can look for rescue from its plight and of the hope if not the conviction that it has found one in Mr. Roosevelt. To this leadership Mr. Roosevelt has succeeded with a calm though modest confidence that he can guide his country out of the economic wilderness.

Every few days he asks for a grant of autocratic power and gets it. He sends a message to congress asking what he wants and sends along a bill drafted by his advisers to give him what he wants. Congress passes the bill substantially in the form submitted with a degree of dispatch varying in proportion to the emergency.

Both houses passed the bank dictatorship bill in a few hours, though hardly a score of members had read it. Democratic senators started a revolt against the farm relief bill but the President quickly snuffed it out. When the house interstate commerce committee was puzzled as to whether all security issues were to be regulated it inquired the wishes of the President, who promptly told them what he wanted.

Contrast of Administrations.

The contrast of the Roosevelt with the Hoover administration has attracted universal notice, but in no respect more so than in the character of the President's advisers. Mr. Hoover relied conspicuously upon the advice of successful big business men. Mr. Roosevelt is adopting policies molded largely, if not exclusively, by college professors.

Prof. Raymond Moley, Ph.B., Ph.D., who still holds the chair of public law at Columbia university, is an assistant secretary of state but is occupied not so much with diplomacy as with the development of the President's economic policies. He is reputed to be closer to the President than any member of his cabinet, not even excepting Secretary of State Cordell Hull, under whom Dr. Moley serves.

The assistant secretary of agriculture is Rexford Guy Tugwell, B.S., A.M., Ph.D., who was professor of economics at Columbia university. He and Prof. Mordecai Ezekiel drafted the farm commodities bill. Both have the reputation of being somewhat radical, both have visited Russia and have come back with a good deal of admiration for the communistic experiment. Dr. Tugwell is a member of the Socialistic Peoples lobby headed by John Dewey.

Berle Will Write Act.

Adolf Augustus Berle Jr., professor of law at Columbia, has been one of the advisers of the President both before and after taking office. He helped write the economy act. William Irving Myers, B.S., Ph.D., obtained leave from Cornell university, where he was professor of farm finance, to become assistant to Gov. Henry Morgenthau Jr. of the new farm credit administration. He frequently advised Mr. Morgenthau when he was Gov. Roosevelt's conservation commissioner at Albany.

The general counsel of the farm credit administration is Herman Oliphant, A.B., J.D., professor of law at Johns Hopkins university, but formerly at Columbia and brought into the Roosevelt circle of advisers by Moley and Tugwell. Myers and Oliphant wrote the farm mortgage bill.

To the post of assistant secretary of commerce Mr. Roosevelt appointed John Dickinson, A.B., A.M., Ph.D., LL.B., LL.D., professor of law at the University of Pennsylvania. He was appointed, however, not so much for professorial advice as for the fact that he formerly was law partner of William G. McAdoo, whose close political associate, Dan Roper, is secretary of commerce.

Veteran Conductor Dies; Stricken on Chicago Train

Clinton, Ill., April 9.—(AP)—Patrick Haley, about 70, veteran Illinois Central conductor, was fatally stricken today while in charge of the Daylight special running between Chicago and St. Louis. He died in a hospital here.

DETAILS OF NEW FARM MORTGAGE RELIEF DRAFTED

Expect Passage of Bill This Week.

Washington, D. C., April 9.—[Special.]—Anticipating that congress will during the coming week pass the administration farm bill, carrying with it the legislation aimed at easing the farmers' mortgage burdens, Henry Morgenthau, chairman of the federal farm board, is getting his department fully prepared to speed the actual application of the relief.

Some delays in putting into effect all the credit relief facilities planned by President Roosevelt and Mr. Morgenthau will be occasioned by reason of the fact that the consolidation order under which the President joined all farm credit activities doesn't become effective for some six weeks yet.

Prepares for Prompt Action.

But Mr. Morgenthau has reached out into the other agencies which soon will come under his head, and as soon as the credit bill becomes law he expects to bring about a prompt organization of the work of issuing 4½ per cent bonds to be exchanged for the present farm mortgages averaging higher than 6½ per cent.

President Roosevelt is reported to be firmly of the opinion that the biggest help that can be given to the farmers at this time is a loosening of their credit. Once the farmers' debts are eased, debts contracted when land values were high and crop prices up, it may not be necessary, in the opinion of many of the administration advisers outside the group controlled by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, to resort to price fixing and allotment schemes, to help the farmer to a comfortable economic existence.

Mr. Morgenthau after the President's order of consolidation takes effect will be titled: "Governor of the farm credit administration" and will have complete responsibility for operating all farm credit work.

"Four Subordinate Directors.

He plans to appoint four subordinates to head separate branches of his department, but he has emphasized that he will maintain a close organization and that it will not develop into the previous complicated mass of boards and bureaus as in the past administration.

The chief post to be created will be that of farm mortgage loan commissioner, and his duty will be to see to the issuance of bonds by the federal land banks under which farm mortgages will be assumed at the lower rates of interest.

A coöperative loan commissioner will take over the duties heretofore constituting the major function of the federal farm board in issuing loans to coöperative associations of farmers all over the country. The loans in large part are covered by elevators, buildings, and other physical properties owned by the coöperatives.

Commissioner of Credit Banks.

A third post will be that of the commissioner of intermediate credit banks, which will maintain jurisdiction over loans issued to associations and individuals holding large amounts of commodities, upon which the loans are made. These are short term loans.

The last branch will be headed by an emergency loan commissioner who will supervise the issuing of loans direct to farmers for the purchase of seeds and cultivating materials. In the past this activity has been separately and confusingly conducted by both the R. F. C. and the department of agriculture.

• A mistake in the selection of refrigeration costs money. In a short period of five weeks our sales revealed the following:

Original cost of "prominent" refrigerators replaced by General Electric in Chicago and vicinity	$37,325.00
Salvage value after refrigerators had been used for an average of 2 years and 9 months	3.037.00
Total loss to original purchasers	$34.288.00

These buyers would not have lost one cent had they installed General Electrics in the first place. You can avoid such waste.

• Avoid the double expense of doubtful refrigeration by installing General Electrics now. A mistake in the selection of refrigerators will cost money for service and replacements. It will drive tenants to buildings with more dependable refrigeration.

Thousands of owners of Chicago apartment buildings have proved that General Electric refrigerators help rent apartments. They keep tenants satisfied. Prepare yourself to meet the competition of apartments equipped with General Electric refrigerators.

Be guided by this fact: There is an overwhelming public preference for General Electric refrigerators. Recent impartial surveys prove that three out of every four people prefer General Electric to any other refrigerator. Your tenants may be among those who have expressed this preference.

Let us prove to you that General Electric refrigerators have been the deciding factor in the rental of thousands of apartments. Learn from men who have had the experience. Get the facts. Phone Franklin 5720.

CHINESE PUSH BACK INVADING ARMY AT WALL

Japanese Bombard Pass to Check Advance.

TIENTSIN, China, April 9.—(AP)—The Japanese, allegedly seeking to oust the Chinese from the area east of the Lwan river, appeared today to have struck unexpected opposition.

(Chinese commanders last week said they had received Japanese demands that the Chinese evacuate the entire area south of the great wall as far as the Lwan river. At the same time the Japanese war office disclaimed responsibility for the advance on Chinwangtao, seaport 10 miles southwest of Shanhaikwan by Manchukuoan forces.)

The Chinese not only retain Chinwangtao, according to official foreign advices, but have driven back the Manchukuoan army from Haiyang and Liukang, forcing them to throw up defense lines at Shihmenchai seeking to halt the Chinese advance. Shihmenchai, northwest of Chinwangtao and between that point and the great wall, was reported taken several days ago from the Chinese.

Push Back Invaders.

Despite Japanese official claims that the Manchukuoan forces had occupied Chinwangtao, the Chinese appeared to have thrown heavy reinforcements into action from the direction of Lanchow which had halted and pushed back the Manchukuoan advance south of the great wall.

Japanese military officials here were silent concerning developments east of the Lwan river, while Chinese authorities claimed their troops had advanced north of Shihmenchai toward Chiumenkow Pass. This, it was said, had caused the Japanese to reinforce Shanhaikwan, which the Chinese movement threatens. (Shanhaikwan was occupied by Japanese soldiers last January.)

Japanese artillery and airplanes were reported bombarding Hsifengow Pass through the great wall, where a Chinese attack was said to have been launched.

See "Large Scale Hostilities."

Foreign circles anticipated that in the event the Chinese successes continued, Japanese regular troops, which leaders of those forces claim have not yet pushed south of the wall, will enter the campaign.

British naval authorities at Shanghai announced today that British marines had landed in Chinwangtao.

A report from Hongkong said 8,000 men of the nineteenth route army, which participated in the Shanghai campaign last year, were preparing to entrain for Hankow, where the southern army will be assembled under Gen. Tsai Ting-kai to assist in the northern campaign. Tsai was the hero of the Shanghai engagements.

BODY TAKEN FROM LAKE.

TELEPHONE TIP HALTS ROBBERY; 3 MEN ARRESTED

Three men, two of them armed, who police say planned to hold up the Liggett drug store at Irving Park boulevard and Sheridan road were arrested in the store last night as they tried to slip into a storeroom. Several nights ago Lieut. William Lange of Town Hall station received anonymous information that on Sunday night two or three men would try to rob the store. Detectives Michael Fay and Clarence Sweeney were detailed there.

Last night Vernon Spearse, 3208 Sheffield avenue; Andrew Kuntz, 6215 Kimbark avenue, and Haywood Waller 3214 Sheffield avenue, entered the drug store. They tried to slip into the storeroom. Detectives Sweeney and Fay arrested them. Spearse and Kuntz were armed. Police said the trio admitted a number of robberies.

Three youths were arrested by police last night shortly after they had allegedly stolen $15 in a robbery on George Alard's grocery at 340 West 77th street. The prisoners are William Seeley, 17 years old, 2309 East 79th street; Jack Wright, 19, of 7865 Escanaba avenue, and Robert Thornrose, 17, of 7653 Coles avenue. Police found two revolvers in their car. Alard identified the youths.

SENATE TO ACT THIS WEEK ON FIREWORKS BAN

A bill to prohibit the manufacture, sale and use of fireworks in Illinois will probably be considered in the senate judiciary committee at Springfield this week. The bill was introduced by Senator Edward P. O'Grady, Democrat from the 29th [near north side] district, Chicago.

Chairman Harold G. Ward, Democrat from the Lakeview district, is expected to call the bill in the committee tomorrow or Wednesday. Fireworks manufacturers will probably demand a hearing but Senator O'Grady said yesterday that he would oppose any extensive delay.

Peru's President Rejects Resignation of Cabinet

LIMA, Peru, April 9.—(AP)—President Luis M. Sanchez Cerro today refused to accept the resignation of the Peruvian cabinet.

The Peruvian cabinet was reported to have tendered its resignation last week to allow President Sanchez Cerro a free hand in forming a new government coincident with the promulgation of a new constitution which it was believed would be offered today.

NILES CENTER BANKER DIES OF HOLDUP WOUND

State Association Probes Wave of Crime.

Harry Mueller of 8715 School street, Morton Grove, teller of the National Bank of Niles Center, who was shot Friday when he attempted to disarm one of three bandits who held up the bank and took loot of $6,000, died last night in the St. Francis hospital in Evanston.

Mueller, who was 40 years old, was not in the bank when the bandits entered. He had gone out to buy a cigar. When he returned he saw the bandits with drawn guns. He grappled with a bandit near the door and was shot in the left leg below the hip. His condition was grave from loss of blood and a blood transfusion was resorted to Friday night. He rallied for several hours and then suffered a relapse. A pint and a half of blood was given by Edward H. Harms, a candidate for president of the Niles Center village board.

Second Teller Recovering.

Carlton White, 28 years old, 3540 West 64th street, teller of the University State bank of Chicago, was reported recovering from a bullet wound received in an attempted holdup of the bank by three robbers Saturday. The bandits fled when they became frightened by a woman's screams. White is paralyzed below the waist, but physicians at the Chicago Memorial hospital said the paralysis probably would disappear.

Investigation of the bank holdups in which Mueller and White were wounded and a third robbery, that of the Oak Lawn Trust and Savings bank, which was invaded Thursday by three bandits who escaped with $2,300, is under way by the Illinois Bankers' association. The association is convinced the holdups were the work of amateur robbers.

Probably Nervous Youths.

"Three holdups in three days is a serious wave of bank robberies," said M. A. Greattinger, executive vice president of the association. "From the results of investigation to date it would seem that the robberies were not the work of organized bands of bank robbers.

"Two shootings would indicate that the robbers are nervous youths fortified with the false courage of dope. It may be that the banks were invaded by minor beer hoodlums who have been pressed to seek other fields now that beer has been legalized.

"So far we are certain that known gangs had no part in the work. This fact makes our investigation more difficult because we must ferret out new criminals."

WIFE TOLD HER HUSBAND IS ILL; DIES OF SHOCK

Mrs. Maude Gordon, 54 years old, of 1555 Hollywood avenue, died yesterday in St. Francis' hospital, Evanston, of a skull fracture and shock suffered when she was notified the day before of the sudden illness of her husband, James A. Gordon.

Her husband, a department manager for the Commonwealth Edison company, was seized with a kidney attack Saturday forenoon. A friend telephoned Mrs. Gordon, who was at home. The news stunned her and she fell on the floor, fracturing her skull.

At the hospital it was said she also suffered a stroke of apoplexy. Mr. Gordon was notified at the Augustana hospital of his wife's death. The news aggravated his condition, but he is expected to recover.

HOMER, MICH., MAN DIES AT 81.

Coldwater, Mich., April 9.—[Special.]—William McCosh, 81, of Homer, retired employé of the New York Central railroad, is dead of injuries received in a fall several weeks ago.

N. Y. PARTIES AGREE ON WET SLATE FOR REPEAL CONVENTION

New York, April 9.—[Special.]—James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic state committee, and W. Kingsland Macy, chairman of the Republican state committee, reached an agreement today whereby the two parties will name a joint ticket of 150 wet delegates to be elected to the state convention for ratification of the repeal of the 18th amendment, which will be held at Albany, June 27.

Details of the arrangement will be worked out later. It is expected, however, that the candidates for delegate will be divided, 75 to each party, but the Democrats, in view of their preponderance as shown in the last election will receive the chairmanship of the convention. Other officers of the convention will be divided.

Neither Mr. Farley nor Mr. Macy, it is believed, will be a candidate for delegate. It is their hope to disassociate the convention as far as possible from politics. They will undertake to select candidates of outstanding reputations in their own communities who have been associated with the repeal movement regardless of politics. The type of delegate which they desire is represented in such persons as Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, Alfred E. Smith, Mrs. Charles H. Sabin and Morgan J. O'Brien.

NEW YORK BEER CONTROL TO GO TO COMMISSION

Albany, N. Y., April 9.—(AP)—The New York legislature will end its 1933 session tomorrow with the passage of a Democratic-Republican compromise beer control bill and the consideration of odds and ends left over from the feverish Saturday night and Sunday morning activities.

Racing through a long list of contemplated legislation, the legislature last night and early this morning completed the revenue program and passed the Pitcher Milk Control act, which incidentally ended a milk producers strike in western New York.

The beer control deadlock was broken when Gov. Lehman and the Republican leaders agreed late yesterday on a bill that calls for the creation of a state commission and provides for a modified joint county control of the issuance of licenses. Until the state assumes control of the issuances of licenses to brewers and retailers, municipal control in effect since April 7 will continue.

The municipalities will retain the license fees collected, the amount they collect from beer sellers to be deducted from the 50 per cent of income they will receive under the protective law.

Under the compromise agreement beer may be sold over bars but not in "saloons," as they existed before prohibition. Public drinking is provided for in beer gardens, hotels, restaurants, on trains and steamers. Beer for home consumption will be sold in grocery and drug stores.

JEWS LAUNCH CHARITY DRIVE; PLEDGE $102,400

Gov. Horner Makes Appeal for $400,000 Fund.

Gov. Henry Horner was the principal speaker last night at a meeting in the Hotel Sherman which opened a special drive of the Jewish Charities of Chicago to raise an additional $400,000 for the annual budget of the organization. The pledges totaled $102,400 before the meeting ended. More than 5,000 attended.

The governor's address was an appeal to the Jews of Chicago to give their financial support to the work of the charities.

"I am under no illusion that this occasion is for the purpose of honoring me," he said. "We are here for a much more serious and unselfish reason. This is a drive for money and what we do in this drive will be an inspiration, not only to our fellow Jews but to the state and nation.

A Problem for All.

"I face many problems and many burdens as governor of Illinois, but I do not ask sympathy for those burdens. I am going to give all I have got to meeting and solving the problems of my office. The problems of the Jewish charities, however, are problems all of us here must share and meet.

We have had a pretty bad time in our state. The sales tax was an heroic effort to provide emergency relief.

"If those who must be fed and clothed do not get the bare necessities of life from organized society, they may turn to other elements in the community for leadership.

Meet Home Obligations.

"See what has happened in the last few weeks to the Jews in Germany. If our protests and demands for justice are sincere we cannot make them unless we meet our own obligations at home. The boycott of our own conscience will be as severe as any imposed against Jews in Germany."

Among the contributions pledged at the meeting were: Lawyers' group, $20,000; Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Freund, $4,500; brokers' group, $4,000; Sol H. Goldberg and family, $3,000; Alfred Cohen, $2,000; B. J. Rosenthal, $2,000; Maurice L. Rothschild, $1,500; Maurice Berkson, $1,600; Edward Sonnenschein, $1,250; Hugo Sonnenschein, $1,250; estate of Joseph Weissenbach, $1,100; Goldblatt brothers, $1,000; Harry Kunin, $2,000; Robert Mandel, $1,000; Isaac H. Mayer, $1,000, and Mrs. Gerhard Foreman, $1,000.

SEE ROOSEVELT RULING FATE OF 30 HOUR WEEK

Washington, D. C., April 9.—(AP)—With administration chieftains wrapped in study today over the senate approved thirty hour week bill that controverted measure faced an uncertain future with its fate apparently resting upon the decision of President Roosevelt and his advisers.

The administration attitude will be revealed this week, probably through Secretary Perkins of the labor department, who was given the assignment by President Roosevelt to look over the legislation.

Because of the hesitancy of the chief executive and his advisers in giving immediate approval, it was believed in some quarters that modifications, at least, will be proposed.

Speaker Rainey, who says "there is dynamite" in the bill in its present form, is holding up house consideration awaiting the White House report.

GUN MISHAP SAVES LIFE.

Coldwater, Mich., April 9.—[Special.]—The jamming of a revolver saved the life of Joy Guy, 50, reputed wealthy bachelor at Bronson, near here, when he was attacked by two bandits who threw gunny sacks over his head as he emerged from an outside cellar way at his home last night. Guy was beaten into unconsciousness. Beside him was found a revolver which had jammed.

CHICAGO'S IDLE EXPECT CALL TO CAMP THIS WEEK

Names of 4,000 Unmarried Men Selected.

Action in mustering Chicago's first quota of 4,000 idle men for President Roosevelt's reforestation project is expected to follow immediately on the return today from the national capital of Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, and Joseph L. Moss, head of the Cook county bureau of public welfare.

Reynolds and Moss have been conferring in Washington with Frank W. Persons of the department of labor, on the local details of handling the forest recruits.

Names of 4,000 Idle Chosen.

No applications are to be filed by the idle, it was explained yesterday by Charles B. Goodspeed, in the absence of Edward L. Ryerson, chairman of the commission. More than 4,000 names already have been selected from the relief rolls of the county and downstate, he revealed, and the opportunity to join the force, which will be housed at Fort Sheridan, will be given these men first.

All are between the ages of 18 and 22, but none is the head of a family, Mr. Goodspeed said. The wages of $30 a month that will be paid, in addition to their board and room, will be allocated to their families.

Keep Family Heads at Home.

"It was felt best that no married men or fathers of families be sent away from their dependents," he stated. "Instead, a careful choice was made of one man from each family in which there were several dependents, so that the wages received would help to lift the burden for several persons. Single men who have no family ties are not being sent because the government cannot afford to pay them so much—they can be fed and housed at home far more cheaply."

Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, commandant of the Sixth Corps area, has received instructions from Washington to prepare Fort Sheridan to receive 7,100 men as a part of the reforestation project. Of these, 4,000 will be from the Chicago area while 600 more will come from Milwaukee.

Police Chief Refuses to Give Up Job to Fireman

Havre, Mont., April 9.—(AP)—Mayor H. R. Spooner's ingenious economy plan of supplanting the Havre police force with members of the fire department struck a snag today. Police Chief A. A. Pepin announced he had been hired for two years and will not give up his office unless forced to do so by legal action.

EX-ARCHDUKE OF AUSTRIA WILL WED IN GERMANY

[Copyright 1933: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, April 9.—Banns have been posted at the town hall of Nieder-Schoeneweide, suburb of Berlin, for the marriage of Leopold Woelfling, "private savant," and Frau Klara Hedwig Pawlowski, nee Groeger. Woelfling, the former Archduke Leopold Salvator of Austria, renounced his title in 1904 to follow his own bent, which led him into abject poverty. He was a son of the grand duke of Toscan and Hapsburg and a cousin of Emperor Francis Josef of Austria.

His uncle, Archduke Johann Salvator, also forsook his royal prerogatives to become a ship captain under the name of Johann Orth. He disappeared in South America. In 1902 Leopold Salvator's sister, Louise, then crown princess of Saxony, eloped with a French teacher and broke off all her relations with royalty.

Woelfling is 65. The collapse of the Hapsburgs robbed him of his small pension. Since then he has tried all sorts of occupations. Lately he has been lecturing on his experiences.

Vessels Collide in Fog; at Galveston for Repairs

Galveston, Tex., April 9.—(AP)—The Morgan line freighter El Coston and the Pennsylvania Shipping company tanker Meton arrived in port today for repair of damage suffered in a collision about 40 miles off Galveston in a heavy fog last night. No one was injured in the crash.

PEACEFUL RITES AT FUNERAL OF MINE WAR VICTIM

Spanish War Veterans Bury Arnold.

Duquoin, Ill., April 9.—[Special.]—Funeral services for Henry Arnold, one of the progressive miners killed in the battle with deputy sheriffs here Friday morning, were held here this afternoon under the auspices of Spanish-American war veterans.

A crowd estimated at a thousand people gathered at the home south of town, where a large force of state highway patrolmen and special deputies was on hand to prevent recurrence of trouble. No disorder was shown.

The coroner's jury had returned a verdict of justifiable homicide in the killing of Arnold and James Atess by deputy sheriffs. The deputies had gone to the Arnold home to question him in connection with the shooting up of the northwest part of town Thursday night by Progressive sympathizers and the gun battle ensued in which Arnold and Atess were slain. Deputy Sheriff Howard Rheingans, who figured in the fray, is still in a local hospital heavily guarded to protect him from an attack by friends of the dead men.

Five Held for Shooting Girl.

Five men—Emery Albers and Robert Shingleton, Americans, and Sam Ferro, Otis Battaglia and Barney Bossetto, Italians—are held for the fatal shooting of Lavern Miller, 14 year old school girl, Thursday night. The girl died today and the five men are confined in neighboring county jails and will be brought to Duquoin tomorrow morning to appear before the grand jury in city court.

Officers say that all except Ferro have admitted their connection with the shooting and that their prosecution will be swift.

The state's attorney's office announces that as the result of the death of the Miller girl the electric chair will be demanded for the alleged killers.

Organizers Deported.

B. H. Humphries and Joe Goett, Progressive state vice president and state organizer, respectively, have been escorted out of town by state highway police and ordered to stay away.

In the school election here yesterday the tickets brought out by the Progressive miners were overwhelmingly defeated both in the high school and city school contests.

BABY SUFFOCATES IN CRIB.

Ray W. De Meyer Jr., six months old, was suffocated yesterday in his crib at his home, 2125 South 4th avenue, Maywood. He was found dead by his parents, both of whom are deaf mutes.

Something More than Beer is back

Beer is back! In those three simple words a great American industry goes back to work. Hands long idle find new jobs. Faces empty of hope brighten to a new promise. Thousands upon thousands find honorable livelihood. A vast American market—a new frontier of industry reopens,—bringing sorely needed business to farmers, transportation and to hundreds of other industries. And with it, a new fountain head of tax revenue arises to add its dollars gladly to a nation in need.

Beer is back! But is that all? No! To cheer, to quicken American life with hospitality of old, the friendly glass of good-fellowship is back. Sociability and good living return to their own, once more to mingle with memories and sentiments of yesterday. America looks forward —and feels better.... Beer is back! Yes! But much more than that. Beer at its best is back—the brew that everybody knew best—the king of bottled beers that outsold any other bottled beer on earth.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

NO MAYOR YET.

The Democrats in the council, and Democrats on the outside who are responsible for Democrats in the council, seem to have lost a good deal of their zest for action in selecting a mayor. The argument to which the Republicans in the general assembly yielded was one presenting the emergency needs of the city and decrying excesses of partisanship. Thus, confronted with an obligation, the Republicans stepped out of the way and gave the Democrats the authority to elect a mayor of or outside the council and gave the act an emergency vote. There it is now, on the Democratic doorstep.

If immediate action meant rash action there could be some excuse for delay, but there is nothing to encourage any one to believe that the Democratic management is not playing politics when a suspension of that game was supposed to be the order of the day.

When the Republicans were obstructing the emergency legislation they were told that the city needed a mayor now. That statement applies to Democratic action. Candidates for the office, men available for it, have been under consideration for a month. Since the emergency act was passed the situation which rendered it imperative has remained unchanged. The Democrats have cooled off and apparently regard the need as a trivial one of little consequence. The best this party could do in making good on its promises and obligations could be very good. The Democrats will elect a Democrat, but they need not confess that they can't find a good one and that they cannot find one now. The Republicans, in yielding on the primary and the election, put a spotlight on the Democrats, to whom they handed the emergency authority. The question now is, how about it?

CORONER WALSH FEELS THE HEAT.

The action taken by Coroner Walsh following the shocking verdict in the Oser inquest may be interpreted as a confession of his own responsibility for that verdict. Oser was shot and killed in the offices of the movie operators' union by an official of the union named O'Hara. The verdict was justifiable homicide.

The foreman of the jury which thus sought to exonerate O'Hara was hand picked by the coroner himself. The foreman had served repeatedly on coroner's juries, is a resident of the ward of which Coroner Walsh is committeeman, and is said to be a precinct worker in the Walsh organization. At least one of the other members of the jury was also a professional inquest juryman, and some of the rest of them seem to have been chosen on recommendation of the Democratic organization.

It is not the function of the coroner to exonerate the innocent, but rather to discover the cause of death and hold any one who may reasonably be suspected of guilt. Walsh, through his influence over his deputy, would in any case have had to bear much of the responsibility for the verdict, but now that it has been shown that Walsh was in a position to influence not only the deputy but the jury as well, he cannot evade full responsibility for the outcome. His subsequent announcement that the jurors in the Oser case would not be summoned in future inquests is a blundering attempt to wash his hands of the whole affair. In fact, it only provides the final proof that the inquest from start to finish was under Walsh's direction. He dissociates himself from the verdict now that the public is aroused over it, but until popular clamor arose he remained silent.

There were witnesses who presented substantial evidence to the effect that Oser, the victim, was unarmed when he entered the union offices. In view of that testimony and the known reputation for violence and racketeering of the union which employed O'Hara, there was no possible excuse for exonerating him. To do so was to go far outside the evidence and far outside the probabilities. As Mr. Walsh was himself present at the start of the inquest and controlled the deputy who conducted it, and as the jury was hand picked, there is no need to look further in fixing responsibility for the verdict. If Coroner Walsh is not himself the ally of gangsters, racketeers, and gunmen he has surrounded himself with men who are. From the viewpoint of the public which he is supposed to serve it comes down to pretty much the same thing.

This should prove of more than passing interest to the Democratic leaders. Their organization cannot pretend that Walsh was handed to the party through the direct primary, because he was selected by the organization itself, first to fill the unexpired term of Coroner Bundesen and then to succeed himself for the full term. In the absence of evidence to the contrary it must be assumed that a Democratic committeeman and officeholder whose office has been found at the service of racketeers [illegible] the credit of his party. If this assumption is not made, there is no such thing as party responsibility and party discipline. When Walsh has been thrown out of office and out of the party councils the Democratic organization can declare itself free of taint with some expectation of being believed.

INCONSISTENCIES IN THE FARM PROGRAM.

The farm program of the administration as it has developed thus far includes the following measures:

1. A bill to raise prices of farm products to the pre-war level through taxation of consumers for the benefit of farmers and through acreage reductions.

2. A bill to refinance farm mortgages with reductions of both principal and interest.

Each measure considered by itself, and especially the first one, presents grave, though in some minds not insurmountable, problems. Together the two bills seem to make little sense at all. They are not complementary but mutually destructive. What the first bill does the second makes either unnecessary or impossible; and vice versa.

Thus, if farm prices are to be raised to the pre-war level, farmers should have less difficulty in meeting their mortgage obligations. Nevertheless, if the first bill succeeds in taxing the consumer of farm products a sum estimated at $800 million dollars a year for the benefit of farmers but, in addition, forces the same consumer in his role of insurance policy holder and investor to take a loss of many billions for the farmers. If Bill No. 1 raises farm prices it is neither necessary nor just to enact Bill No. 2.

Again, if the government succeeds in preventing farmers from losing their lands by foreclosure, it becomes impossible to justify any measures intended to raise farm prices. The farmer who is left in secure possession of his home, who no longer has reason to fear the sheriff's coming and who has no objection to worrying about tomorrow's dinner, is already in a position far superior to that of countless millions that to impose an 800 million dollar burden on consumers for his further benefit would be an act at once ferocious and superfluous.

Again, Bill No. 1 is aimed at reducing surplus production; but Bill No. 2, by lowering production costs, will encourage increased output.

Congress cannot consistently pass both measures. It does not follow, of course, that either bill on its merits deserves support; but if political considerations force the enactment of some kind of farm relief at this session there is little doubt that the second bill is preferable. It will do less harm to the farmers, and to their customers.

BEER, TAXES AND OTHERS.

Tax exhaustion leads to one of two things: one, reluctantly undertaken if undertaken at all, is reduction in costs; the other is search for new taxes. Inasmuch as each taxpayer has a number of tax levying bodies above him he finds that the search for new sources of revenue multiplies the same thing. Particularly are the federal government and the various states trying to get their percentages from whatever they can find.

This is true of taxes on incomes in many states, on automobiles and gasoline in all of them, on bequests, on sales, and now on beer. Tax reformers are working against discouragement, to bring restraint into the application of the state and the federal levies upon the various sources of taxation. The taxers have no responsibility to each other. They have the authority already by duplicate taxation and they [illegible] to do so.

Just now it is beer. A new source of revenue has been released and the federal government has taken the first shot at it. Thereafter come the states and after the [illegible] local community. At least three layers of taxation and three license requirements can be imposed on the new beverage, with the result that the taxes will defeat not only the revenue purposes they [illegible] but the social purpose of this [illegible] act, Volstead.

The social purpose is the release of a palatable, wholesome light alcoholic beverage satisfactory to appetites which have been denied by lawless substitutes. Its cost to the consumer is an important item. If it is taxed to death the taxes not only will dry themselves up but in the [illegible] they will impose upon the people [illegible] the intent of the modification of national prohibition.

The next revenue [illegible] may be caused by the descent of federal [illegible] and local collectors upon taxable [illegible] brought into the revenue field. They [illegible] fall comes down upon identical articles, [illegible] the next [illegible] will be one of [illegible]

[Illegible] Journal.]

We're inclined to think that the federal government is making a big mistake in one phase of its beer program. It is authorizing a mild beer. It is putting a tax on this beer that will make it necessary, in order that a profit may accrue, to charge 10 cents a glass. We're very much inclined to think that this policy means the defeat of two phases of the return of beer. One is that it destroys the moral effect that would [illegible] people to drink beer in preference to [illegible] The other is that it will increase, not [illegible] revenue.

Almost every American who has been unable to forget the little [illegible] makes his own beer—home brew. It costs [illegible] a fraction of a cent a glass. In our present [illegible] of unemployment the difference between 1 and 10 cents a glass for beer is pretty [illegible] would mean a loss of government revenue because the average run of people will prefer [illegible] making their own beer at less than a cent a glass rather than to pay 10 cents a glass.

Another reason is that almost everybody who likes to drink knows a [illegible] who can buy or make moonshine or synthetic gin at less than 10 cents a normal drink. One drink of one of these beverages would [illegible] three or four glasses of the [illegible] If the revenue were reduced to the point where it would be profitable to return to the old 5 cent glass there would be a pretty good chance that a [illegible] number of people in the United States would abandon synthetic or moonshine liquors and return to [illegible] beer. But at 10 cents a glass we very much doubt that they will do it. Having learned to [illegible] a drink," which in good health stimulates for the moment and, if not overdone, leaves no Old Man Remorse at your back door, many people will accept the return of beer as a mere [illegible] which they owe no conformity.

But we have a very strong notion that a 5 cent glass of good beer would be a reformatory institution. Most people would feel they [illegible] it, and they would buy it. Any [illegible] that will make it necessary, in order that a profit may accrue, to charge 10 cents a glass, we

AUSTRALIA ACTS TO HALT LOSS OF BIGGEST STATE

Commonwealth Stirred by Secession Vote.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SYDNEY, Australia, April 10.—[Monday.]—The state of Western Australia Saturday voted nearly 2 to 1 to secede from the commonwealth. Today both the state and the federal government are wondering what to do about it.

Joseph A. Lyons, commonwealth prime minister, who stumped the state and was virtually hooted out, expressed no surprise, but "deep disappointment," and said he will call a convention of the six states to decide the constitutionality of the secession referendum. He contends—as Lincoln did against the American confederacy—that West Australia cannot secede. The state says there is nothing in the commonwealth's constitution of 1901 to prevent such action.

Strange Results.

The vote itself presented extraordinary anomalies. Many people, doubting secession possible, but wishing it for economic reasons, voted for it, thus turning down the alternative, constitutional reform. In the parliamentary elections held at the same time, the Labor party, which opposed secession, benefited from the government's wage reductions and won a majority with 30 seats.

In the government coalition, the Nationalists, who supported secession, lost seven and retained eight seats, while the country party was stationary with twelve. Premier Sir James Mitchell, who said "West Australia cannot continue to pay the price of federation," was defeated along with two other ministers. William M. Hughes, wartime prime minister, who also stumped for Mitchell, today called secession "a futile gesture."

The Nation's Goat.

West Australia thinks itself the goat of the commonwealth. It has one-third the area, but only 14 per cent of the population and only 5 of the 76 seats in the commonwealth assembly. It is equal with the other states in the upper house, which is practically impotent. Thus it is of small importance to politicians, and the state claims more populous Victoria and New South Wales have received all the plums.

West Australia as a primary producer of gold, wheat, cattle, sheep, wool and timber feels imposed on by the costs of production which have been hoisted by customs duties for the benefit of the eastern states. West Australia is an exporting state with only one metropolis, Perth [200,000].

Labor Loses in S. Australia.

The state enjoys lower taxes and a firmer financial basis than the other states, but asserts it has been left out of the commonwealth irrigation and transport projects, and also suffers from the commonwealth's financial condition.

Neighboring South Australia also held its election Saturday, the government party [labor] losing to the liberal and country coalition. R. L. Butler's coalition won 30 of the 46 seats against L. L. Hill's laborites. All communist candidates were defeated. The new majority favors the commonwealth financial rehabilitation plan.

Police Officer's Nephew Found Dead in Evanston

Elof Ekman, 31 years old, 1229 Chicago avenue, Evanston, a nephew of Lieut Carl Ekman, chief of detectives of the Evanston police, was found dead yesterday on a parkway at Greenleaf and Chicago avenues in the suburb. A companion, August Akeson, told the police that he and Ekman had been drinking Saturday night in a house at 1608 Greenleaf avenue, Evanston. Lieut. Ekman led a squad in a raid on the premises, arrested the owner, Joseph Blasdowski, and confiscated two bottles of moonshine.

FRANCE SENDS HERRIOT TO U. S. AS DEBT PLEADER

Will Seek Moratorium at Roosevelt Trade Talks.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 9.—Regardless of Washington's repeated assurances that the forthcoming economic conversations there will turn mostly to the resurrection of world trade, France is sending former Premier Edouard Herriot across the ocean with the primary mission of saving it from the June 15 war debt payment due the United States.

Herriot, who has vigorously championed payment of the defaulted December installment, today accepted the mission. His government turned to him after President Roosevelt had broken diplomatic precedent by asking for him by name. It is understood he will sail on the Ile de France April 19. [Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain plans to sail for America on April 15. In all eleven nations have been invited to send representatives.]

Herriot to Be Made Minister.

Herriot set only one condition of his acceptance, that he be allowed the greatest freedom of action, subject of course to final approval of Paris. He is accordingly slated to be made a minister of state.

Herriot, it is understood, will be prepared to offer to make the defaulted December interest payment of $19,261,432, provided it is applied on the principal of the French debt and provided a moratorium is granted on the June installment. The foreign office believes that Roosevelt will be ready to agree to this arrangement after a personal contact with the rotund mayor of Lyons.

Choice Criticized.

Designation of Herriot as the French envoy, however, has evoked a storm of protest in the Nationalist press. Many of these newspapers proclaimed their resentment at Roosevelt's action in designating Herriot by name.

"Will Mr. Roosevelt, after having designated our ambassador, now assume the task of President Lebrun and give France a Herriot ministry?" inquired L'Action Francaise.

In the left press, however, Herriot's nomination and Roosevelt's initiative were highly praised. La Republique sees the United States, led by its President, about to inaugurate a great project for refloating the world. It expressed gratefulness to Roosevelt for seeming willing to overlook "our refusal to pay on Dec. 15."

Japs Welcome Invitation.

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

TOKIO, April 9.—Japanese officials welcome Washington's invitation to an economic conference because, they pointed out, it will give the government opportunity to make good declarations that it would continue international coöperation and it shows the public that Japan is not being isolated.

Japanese statesmen are convinced that only international action can remedy the paralysis of world trade.

Bennett to Talk for Canada.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., April 9.—Prime Minister Bennett will leave for the Washington economic parley during the Easter recess of parliament. The British preference feature of the Canadian tariff structure will be maintained, it is understood, but it is hoped that Canada can find a larger market for cattle, hogs, fish, and lumber in return for a lower barrier against American products.

Argentina Accepts.

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, April 9.—In announcing tonight that Argentina would accept President Roosevelt's invitation to participate in economic talks at the White House, the foreign office stated that Dr. Don Felipe A. Espil, ambassador at Washington, probably would represent this country.

4 YOUTHS CAUGHT IN STOLEN AUTO; ADMIT BURGLARY

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS.

Automobiles stolen, 94; recovered, 82; stripped, 12 [from police records for 24 hours ending at midnight Saturday]. There were no court cases.

Four youths arrested by Oak Park police early yesterday for the theft of an automobile confessed that before stealing the car three of them had broken into the home of O. F. Wagner, 127 South Central Park avenue, and stolen jewelry and clothing valuel at $2,000.

An Oak Park squad headed by Sergt. A. J. McAlear went to an apartment building at 903 South Cuyler avenue, Oak Park, Saturday evening after a tenant there had complained that his automobile had been stolen from the garage in the rear. Hearing a noisy party in another apartment the detectives rapped on the door, were invited in, and got the names of four youths who had left the party a short time before.

The boys were Thomas McDonald, 2743 Flournoy street; Ernest Cuture, 3426 Jackson boulevard, and David and Matthew Kissane, 2741 Flournoy street. The police squad followed them to the vicinity of their homes and caught all four as they were getting out of the stolen car. Three of them confessed the burglary, in which they said David Kissane did not participate.

Pledge Cleanup

Richard W. Hoffman and Edmund Placzek, elected on Saturday as trustees of the Sterling Morton High school district, embracing Cicero, Berwyn, and Stickney, yesterday pledged themselves to "clean up the terrible mess which exists in the school."

They were elected with the support of parent-teacher organizations, in opposition to a ticket backed by Frank Svoboda, present president of the school board.

Svoboda's rule provoked wide criticism a few months ago in the suburban school district when the board dismissed Harry V. Church, who had been superintendent of the high school for many years. Preceding the dismissal of Church a number of adult "guards" patrolled the corridors of the high school, which has more than 7,000 pupils. Educational authorities charged that the guards were Svoboda's political pay-rollers.

MOUNTAIN SLIDE SENDS PROFESSOR TO DEATH ON SKIS

BANFF, Alta., April 9.—(AP)—R. A. E. C. Paley, an international research fellow in Massachusetts Institute of Technology, was killed near here Saturday when he was pitched from a mountain peak by an avalanche his ski set in motion.

The body of the 25 year old English mathematician was recovered today after hours of digging in the crumbled rock and snow. Paley had climbed on skis to a ledge of fossil mountain near the top of the 9,600 foot peak.

Death Ends Joint Research.

Cambridge, Mass., April 9.—(AP)—The death of R. A. E. C. Paley, young English mathematician, in a skiing accident today in Canada, terminated a joint research in mathematical analysis he was conducting with Prof. Norbert Wiener at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Described by mathematical authorities at M. I. T. as the leading young mathematician of England, Paley had gone on a vacation two weeks ago.

POLAND CHARGES POWERS SUPPORT UKRAINIAN 'WAR'

Terrorism Is Traced to Foreign Lands.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LWOW, Poland, April 9.—A web spreading throughout Europe and even to the United States and Canada has enmeshed at its center, in Galicia, a corps of secret workers for Ukrainian independence to whom no sacrifice, whether of life or property, is too great for their cause.

The web was spun by Col. Konowalec, whose headquarterr are in Geneva. The Polish police and army officials have tried time and again to destroy it. But they fight against an unseen enemy and, despite all repressions, pacifications, imprisonments, and executions, nothing stops the work of the spider. The fabric destroyed is promptly repaired, and the fight goes on.

In this fight, conducted in Galicia by schoolboys and students, Col. Konowalec has mighty assistants in Germany and Russia, in Czechoslovakia and Lithuania.

After the defeat of the Ukrainians in 1919 the majority of the leaders were forced to leave Poland. They formed Ukrainian centers in Germany and Czechoslovakia. Later the exodus of Ukrainians increased following the Polish debacle in Kiev, and these joined in forming the terroristic military organization which carries on underground warfare today.

Despite the obvious hopelessness of a cause which means remapping part of Europe — an eventuality which seems possible only in event of another war — the fight for Ukrainian independence goes on. It imposes suffering upon thousands of innocent Ukrainians, the destruction of Ukrainian youth, and loss of much property. It reduces a large part of Poland to a constant reign of terror.

Arson and Murder.

The natural conditions make escape from Galicia easy, and Ukrainian youth throughout is fired with a passionate nationalism.

The cycle is one of constant repetitions. A complaint on behalf of the Ukrainian minority in Poland is made to the league of nations. Then a series of outrages, which gradually quicken into an epidemic of arson and murder, infests the country, to be followed by sharp repressions, trials, and fresh executions.

Then an intermission follows. It is necessary to repair the web, to find new funds, and to present new complaints to the league of nations. Then the vicious circle is covered again. Such is the condition in Galicia.

Poles Charge Foreigners Help.

The Poles charge that the plots are hatched not by the youth who put them into execution but by the general staffs of foreign nations hostile to Poland.

All the leaders reside abroad. The actual terrorists are usually young students. All of them are subordinate to a local chief. According to Polish police officers, there are about 70 of these local leaders. The number they control is hard to ascertain. At present they are a few hundred.

RUSSIA SERVES BRITISH SUBJECTS WITH INDICTMENT

Details of Charges Still a Secret.

MOSCOW, April 9.—(AP)—The six British subjects accused in the Metropolitan-Vickers case have been formally served with a joint indictment and warned not to discuss the charges with anyone save their Russian defense attorneys.

Accordingly, the specific details of the accusations of espionage, sabotage and bribery on which they were arrested still are unknown publicly. Furthermore, it has not been disclosed whether they will be made public in advance of their trial, which will begin at noon on Wednesday.

16 Russians Named.

It was learned, however, that the indictment consists of 77 pages, and names, in addition to the British subjects, about 16 Russians. It was not disclosed whether the others would be tried at the same time as the Englishmen.

Five of the British subjects who have been released on bail probably will remain at liberty for the duration of the trial, which is expected to last more than a week. This was interpreted as lending further support to the view of the authorities that W. H. MacDonald, the only one of the Englishmen not allowed bail, was considered to be the main culprit.

Five Out on Bail.

The six British subjects, employés of the English electrical firm, Metropolitan-Vickers, who were arrested in soviet Russia on charges of espionage, sabotage and bribery, are Allan Monkhouse, Charles Nordwell, John Cushny, W. H. MacDonald, L. C. Thornton and A. W. Gregory. All except MacDonald have been released on bail.

The Metropolitan-Vickers company has been engaged in electrical construction work in Russia for ten years.

SENATE TO VOTE ON LIBERALIZING OF DIVORCE CODE

Senator Graham to Call Up Bills This Week.

Efforts to pass his bills to liberalize the divorce laws of Illinois will be made in the senate at Springfield this week by Senator R. V. Graham of Chicago, president pro tempore of the upper branch of the legislature.

Sent to third reading last week, the two measures will be called for passage probably on Tuesday or Wednesday. They encountered little difficulty in the judiciary committee, and Senator Graham hopes his colleagues "will recognize their necessity" when they reach roll call on the passage stage.

Statutes Need Modernizing.

"These bills were presented," he said, "at the instance of lawyers and judges who feel the reforms are necessary. The divorce statutes are 60 years old. They need modernizing.

"One of the evils which the measures seek to abolish is the law which grants alimony to young and healthy wives who are able to work and support themselves.

"The bills stipulate reciprocity—that is, if a husband is out of work and the wife has work, a judge would have the right to order her to pay alimony.

"Another section," Senator Graham continued, "would protect husbands who have been put in jail for nonpayment of alimony when they were destitute and unable to pay. If the husband could show that he was unable to pay, he would not be jailed.

Go Deeper Into Debt.

"Members of the so-called 'Alimony clubs' in jail are not bettering their wives' financial status by being locked up. Furthermore, they go deeper into debt each day and they have no opportunity to seek work."

Another of the bills is aimed at the professional alimony seeker, by limiting separation to two years, after which a husband could go into court and obtain a divorce merely on the showing that he and his wife had lived apart for two years.

At present, by suing for separate maintenance, a wife may force her husband to make a large settlement in order to obtain a divorce, or be compelled to support her for the remainder of his life without being permitted to remarry.

GIRL AND 2 BOYS HURT IN AIRPLANE CRASH NEAR GARY

Two young men and a young woman were injured last evening, two of them seriously, when their airplane crashed on a farm 10 miles southeast of Gary, near Merrillville.

Those injured are Miss Anna Laudenbach, 21 years old, of 368 Pierce street, Gary; Nicholas Malula, 19, of Ebenezer, a suburb of Buffalo, N. Y., and Nicholas Jankovich, also 19, of 632 West 45th avenue, Gary. Miss Laudenbach and Malula were taken to the Mercy hospital in Gary suffering from skull fractures. Jankovich received minor injuries.

With Jankovich piloting the plane, the taree left the Beacon airport a few minutes before the crash. The craft, a Travelair monoplane, started a spin while at a height of 1,500 feet. Jankovich pulled the plane out of the spin but not in time to avoid the crash.

U. S. MONOPOLY OF ARMS MAKING IS URGED BY BUTLER

New York, April 9.—[Special.]—Nationalism which is "a cheap and tawdry patriotism" was denounced, together with "those powerful groups who manufacture munitions for private profit," in the annual report of the division of intercourse and education of the Carnegie endowment for international peace, made public today by Nicholas Murray Butler, as director of the division.

Dr. Butler's report favored "the growing movement to make the manufacture of munitions a government monopoly" as well as an embargo on arms shipment by all sixty signatories to the pact of Paris if any signatory nation proceeded to armed hostilities.

60,000 ASSYRIAN EXILES MAY LOSE CHANCE FOR HOME

Persian Offer of Refuge Blocked.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 9.—The struggle of the remnants of the once mighty Assyrian empire to find a corner of the world which they can call their national home promises to be frustrated again—this time by internal dissension.

The descendants of this great biblical nation of conquerors were caught up in the upheaval attending the world war. It dislodged them from the mountains of Kurdistan, where they had preserved their tribal autonomy for nearly 2,500 years under the Turks, and spilled them down into the lowlands of what became Iraq.

Persia Offers Asylum.

Their ranks thinned tragically by the war—there are only about 60,000 Assyrians left—and surrounded by hostile Arab tribes in a country in which they have been easy victims of malaria, leaders of this pure blooded nation have been going from door to door for nearly 15 years seeking a sanctuary in the fight against eventual extinction.

Recently it appeared that their quest was ended. It was announced by Anthony Hormuzd Rassam, a London Assyrian who served as a captain in the British army, that Shah Riza Khan had granted the Assyrians permission to make their home in Persia. The shah, said Capt. Rassam, promised them every tolerance. They would be granted religious freedom and would enjoy all the privileges of native Persians. Furthermore, they would be allowed to settle in highlands such as they were accustomed to.

In return, the shah required that the Assyrians become loyal Persian subjects and that they refrain from combining for political, national or racial purposes.

Internal Dissension Breaks Out.

Hardly had this announcement been made, however, when internal trouble in the form of factional politics broke into the picture. It originated among Assyrians in the United States.

The opposition is based on the argument that the league of nations will eventually allot a piece of Iraq for the exclusive use of Assyrians. Assyrians have pleaded their case before the league in many different sessions in the last decade.

Indeed, Capt. Rassam is now in Geneva, presumably in behalf of the Assyrian cause, but there has been little indication as yet that the league would heed the plea.

Driven from Nineveh in 606 B. C.

The Assyrians were driven from the grandeur and glory of Nineveh, their capital, about 606 B. C. They fled to the Hakkiara mountains, where they kept alive their ancient civilization up until the great war, performing the liturgy of their faith in Aramaic, the language spoken by Christ.

When Turkey entered the war on the side of Germany, the Turks first promised the Assyrians safety if they remained neutral. The sphere of the war spread, however, and eventually the Assyrians found themselves on the side of the allies, but completely cut off from help. Accordingly the whole tribe fought its way into Persia, where its warriors were issued equipment and fought on the side of the Christian Russian army.

The long trek was itself a tragedy. The Assyrians not only lost a home they had occupied for 2,500 years, but the priceless Aramaic documents were destroyed and the tribe itself lost 30,000 killed.

Deserted by League.

Then the bolshevist revolution destroyed the Russian Christian army and the Assyrians again found themselves surrounded by hostile Arab tribes. Their next retreat took them to the Mosul vilayet, where they remained as exiles in an alien country, but with British protection, until 1929, when the British moved to relinquish its mandate.

Woman Sues to Recover Auto Used in Gang Fight

Action to recover one of two automobiles which figured in a gun fight between two hoodlum gangs on Feb. 2, was instituted yesterday against Oak Park police. The plaintiff is Miss Margaret Ryan, 1313 North Austin avenue, described as a sister of "Red" Ryan, alleged member of the northwest side Touhy gang. She filed a replevin suit before Justice Martin McGrath. The hearing will be on April 14. The gun fight between the hoodlum gangs occurred at Harlem and North avenues. Both gangs abandoned their cars, and the automobiles were seized by police.

HOLY YEAR WILL BRING PEACE TO WORLD, SAYS POPE

Sees Marconi Workers on Palm Sunday.

VATICAN CITY, April 9.—(AP)—A faith that the Divine hand guiding the hand of man will during the holy year bring peace to the world was expressed today by Pope Pius in receiving 180 employés of the Marconi company in the Clementine hall.

His reception of the workers was the only public appearance of the day for his holiness. Meanwhile dozens of nationalities and various races were represented at Palm Sunday services in St. Peter, ushering in the most colorful Holy week ceremonies the Roman Catholic church has held in more than three score years.

Even the Great War.

The advancement of electricity, the pope said, is due to the guiding of this Divine hand, which hence is responsible for the development of the "marvelous machines" of this age. He declared that all great events, even the great war, are determined by the superhuman hand.

"Men thought they had achieved a perfect peace," the pontiff declared, "but instead they found to the contrary." He recommended prayer and penitences to hasten the coming of real peace.

From Singapore on Foot.

Pilgrims assembled from the four corners of the world joined the devout of Rome in commemorating the nineteen hundredth anniversary of Christ's entry into Jerusalem. Joseph Louis Wei, Chinese schoolmaster, had come the whole distance from Singapore on foot.

High mass was said in the basilica by Cardinal Pacelli, ranking priest. Rome's great cathedrals of St. John Lateran, St. Paul's and St. Mary Major also were crowded, while many of the holy year visitors chose to attend services in others of the ancient city's 400 churches.

NEW RAIL STRIKE PERILS SERVICE IN ALL IRELAND

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, April 10.—[Monday.]—(AP)—Employés of the Great Southern railway, which serves the Irish Free State, went on strike at midnight for higher wages.

The action was determined upon at a mass meeting of railwaymen here yesterday, when it was decided to repudiate a settlement already made between their union leaders and the railway company. About 5,000 workers are involved.

It appeared likely that the entire railroad service in Ireland may be stopped later today, since it seemed probable that the settlement of the Great Northern railway strike made last week may be repudiated as a consequence of the Southern workers' action. The Great Northern strike lasted two months.

BUILD REPLICA OF LINCOLN'S CABIN IN DANISH PARK

Get Logs from Emigrants in 48 States.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, April 9.—Seeing Abraham Lincoln as the true American, and his famous log cabin as the real symbol of what he stood for, the American committee of Rebild National park has decided to erect an exact copy of the great emancipator's humble home on this estate, which is regarded as virtually a piece of American soil.

The cabin will be opened July 4, 1934. Logs for the cabin have been presented by Danish emigrants living in all of the 48 states. They have been shipped to Denmark together with a model of the cabin, exact in every detail, which was constructed by A. M. Pedersen of Chicago.

Logs Have Arrived.

The tiny structure has been exhibited in Copenhagen, where it aroused much interest, and the logs have also arrived. They are now being trimmed.

The cabin will stand at the gates of Rebild park, where thousands of Americans from all parts of Europe gather each July 4 to celebrate Independence day. Inside the building the committee will place as a permanent exhibit relics kept by early Danish settlers in the United States.

Mrs. Owen May Take Part.

Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, who attended the celebration in the park last year, and who is slated to become the new American minister to Denmark, may be the leading figure at the opening ceremonies.

Ask Yardley & Co. what Herald Tribune Colorgravure can accomplish! They have seen interest leap—sales mount—costs recede, and dealers grow enthusiastic. "It's nice to get compliments, but it is far more important to get orders," says Mr. Curtis Campaigne, Vice-President of Yardley & Co. announcing his order to the Herald Tribune for an additional schedule of full pages during the entire year of 1933.

Read Mr. Campaigne's letter on the right. See how Yardley & Co. have proved the instant success of Herald Tribune Colorgravure. Maybe you are looking for just the thing the letter suggests, the added punch of color. It's vital! It's natural! You can almost pick your package from the page when it is shown in vivid, actual package tints.

Yardley & Co. are not the only manufacturers who have proved the immediate force of Herald Tribune Colorgravure: there's Borden's, who say "lowest cost per inquiry of any previous newspaper advertisement;" and Grace Line, who say "no advertisement we have ever used developed so much interest and comment" and completely sold out passage on two liners.

The New York Herald Tribune
New York, N. Y

New York, January 12th, 1933

Gentlemen:

Yardley's English Lavender has the steady acceptance of the American consumer throughout the year. Experience shows us that our sales culminate quite naturally in an appreciable increase of business at Christmas time. Because of the appropriateness of Yardley goods for gift giving, our customers have demanded more and more combinations for holiday sale.

We are happy to report that many thousands more Yardley gift sets were bought from retailers this past Christmas than in any previous year in the history of our business. And our retailers report that a great deal of credit for this should go to the full page advertising we ran in color gravure in the New York Herald Tribune.

We have been advertising in New York for a number of years, but never have we heard such favorable comment and had such cooperation from our trade, as we had this past season because of the gravure advertising in color.

It is nice to get compliments. But it is far more important to get orders. You will be glad to know that we were so pleased with the New York Herald Tribune color gravure advertising just run, we readily agreed to the proposal of N. W. Ayer & Son, Inc. that we run a schedule of such full pages during the entire year of 1933. You will shortly receive your order, if it has not already arrived.

Faithfully yours,

CURTIS CAMPAIGNE

CORR URGES NEW COUNCIL PLAN BY TOMORROW

Asks Committee to Hasten Return Home.

BY STANLEY ARMSTRONG.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hot Springs, Ark., April 9.—[Special.]—Acting Mayor Frank J. Corr of Chicago arrived here today with an urgent request that the city council committee on committees speedily complete its task of organizing the new council and leave with him for Chicago on Tuesday.

The reasons for the request were given to the five aldermen by Mr. Corr in an executive session that was called soon after his arrival. There, he informed them that the council should be equipped to handle a number of problems that are facing the city government by having its organization completed and its rules of procedure established as quickly as possible.

In his argument the acting mayor recited the obstacles that confront plans to provide pay days for teachers and other employes of the board of education. This led to a discussion of the legality of tax warrants signed by Mr. Corr, after which several of the aldermen expressed the opinion that the problem of paying city and school employés might hasten the selection of a mayor, whose authority in that office would not be questioned.

First Regular Session April 17.

The next regular session of the council is scheduled for April 17, at which time the steering committee would make its report. However, the likelihood of holding a special meeting on Thursday or Friday—if the committee arrives in Chicago on Wednesday—for the purpose of electing a mayor was discussed. But no decision was reached.

Arguments advanced against holding a special meeting were that the committee is in disagreement on a number of vital points.

Work on the slate at home, the aldermen said, would have to be carried on under personal pressure from their colleagues that would make a hodge-podge out of the council organization report.

It was pointed out also that at a special session the council would be functioning without any rules of its own, and that the election of a mayor to hold office for two years is of sufficient importance to justify a wait of two or three days for the completion of the steering committee's job.

Seeks Legislative Action.

Ald. J. M. Arvey [24th], chairman of the steering group, also discussed informally with the acting mayor the advisability of seeking legislation from the general assembly providing for the election of a president pro tempore of the city council every two years when a new council is inaugurated.

The president pro-tem would preside at the council sessions, Ald. Arvey stated, during the absence of the mayor from the city or in case of his disability or death. The president pro-tem would become acting mayor automatically in such cases, he argued, thereby preventing a recurrence of the confusion that followed the shooting of the late Mayor Cermak.

"Other cities follow a similar system," explained Ald. Arvey, "and I urged the idea on Mayor Cermak two years ago. The purpose is not to keep the mayor from presiding over the council, but to insure a smooth and continuous operation of the city government when the mayor cannot be present or the office is vacant.

"Acting Mayor Corr appeared to be in accord with the proposal, so the steering committee deems this to be a good time to obtain the necessary legislation. I do not want any one to think that the proposal is a reflection on the manner in which the acting mayor has presided because I and other members of the council know that he has done a good job."

WOMAN IN "IRON LUNG" LEARNING HOW TO BREATHE

Physicians attending Mrs. Caroline La Plante, 37 years old, 1826 South Cuyler avenue, Berwyn, who has been kept alive for ten days by a Drinker respirator, or "iron lung," were encouraged yesterday by a marked improvement in her condition. It is believed that she will be able to leave the respirator within a few days.

Mrs. La Plante, who is the mother of two children, is suffering from paralysis of the respiratory muscles. Her condition was aggravated by an inflamation of the brain, which has made it difficult for her to breathe by voluntary action. Physicians have been teaching her to breathe.

Yesterday she was taken out of the respirator for periods of a minute, during which she was able to breathe 80 times. Physicians hope to increase the periods out of the respirator and work toward recovery. Mrs. La Plante was stricken March 31 and taken to the Oak Park hospital. While there her breathing and pulse ceased. Life was sustained by artificial respiration while she was taken to the Frances Willard hospital, where she was placed in the respirator.

TAX ON AVIATION GAS HELD PERIL TO FLYING HERE

Air Line Official Calls State Proposal Unfair.

Lyndol L. Young, vice president of Aviation corporation, which moved to Chicago recently from New York, said yesterday that the progress of commercial aviation in Illinois will be seriously restricted if the proposed 2 cent state tax on aviation gasoline is adopted. The tax measure is now pending before a senate committee. It has aroused much comment in aviation circles.

"If this tax is adopted by Illinois and other states adopt similar measures, the air lines will not be able to carry the burden," he said. "The benefits proposed under the tax are merely repititons of facilities that are now provided adequately by the federal government.

Use Gas Over Other States.

"The unfairness of the tax is evident when it is realized that American Airways, our operating subsidiary, would be forced to pay the tax on many thousands of gallons of aviation gasoline that are not used inside the state. Of the twelve daily schedules, both in and out of Chicago, only three are intrastate operations. The other nine planes fly over the Illinois territory for only fifteen minutes on each trip."

Aviation corporation has brought a pay roll of more than $400,000 a year; an investment in real estate of $1,000,000; annual purchases of $2,500,000; bank transactions of $6,000,000 a year, and many other items of business to Chicago, Mr. Young said. Included in the purchases are 350,000 gallons of aviation gasoline a year. The proposed tax on this gallonage would amount to $7,000 a year.

Calls New Tax Unsound.

"In view of the amount of new business we have created for Illinois, the fact that commercial aviation is still in its infancy and the fact that the facilities proposed by the state are now provided by the federal government, the air lines oppose the gasoline tax vigorously. The air lines are willing to pay all just taxes, but this measure is unnecessary and unsound."

Maj. Reed G. Landis, chairman of the Illinois aeronautics commission, who has sponsored the state aviation gasoline tax, said yesterday that the improvements proposed under the tax include improvements to the Chicago airport; a more detailed weather reporting service; intermediate landing fields every 25 miles instead of every 50 miles, along the courses, air markings and emergency landing strips around congested areas.

COURTNEY ASKS FULL INQUIRY ON NITTI SHOOTING

State's Attorney Courtney said yesterday that he would ask a full investigation of all phases of the shooting of Frank Nitti, business manager of the Capone syndicate, by Detective Harry Lang, who was suspended from the police department Thursday and who is expected to surrender today and give bail on the charge of assault to kill. The prosecutor said he would require a report on the actions of Detective Harry Miller, partner of Lang, who was present at the shooting, which occurred last Dec. 19 in a downtown office building.

Testimony last week by Detective Chris Callahan was to the effect that Nitti was unarmed when shot by Lang.

Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty said he was ordered by Mr. Courtney to review all the circumstances of the shooting and to seek further information on the rumor that Lang had been paid $15,000 by Ted Newberry to kill Nitti. Newberry was found slain three weeks after the shooting of Nitti. Mr. Dougherty said he would seek Lang's indictment either today or tomorrow on a charge of perjury because of his testimony before the grand jury that Nitti had shot him.

Aurora to Move Clocks Ahead Despite Council

When the city council of Aurora failed to act on a petition to have the city go on daylight saving time during the Century of Progress exposition, factories, schools, and 95 per cent of the stores obtained the desired result through the efforts of the merchants' division of the chamber of commerce. An announcement from that group yesterday revealed that most of the business houses have agreed to move the clocks ahead one hour on the last Sunday in April, the same day that the change is effective in Chicago and its environs.

McCormack in Top Form at Concert Here

Gives Request Program as Season's Farewell.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

At the top peak of his voice and singing manner, John McCormack gave his last recital of the season at Orchestra hall yesterday afternoon. Under the circumstances he had chosen to make this, at least in part, a request program, which means that compiling a list of songs is somewhat more difficult in detail than in style. For Mr. McCormack has converted many songs into popular favorites.

For his Irish group, therefore, he chose "Oft in the Stilly Night," "The Ballynure Ballad," "The Fanaid Grove," and "The Minstrel Boy." For his ballads there were Teresa Del Riego's "O Dry Those Tears," Ernest Torrence's "Smilin' Kitty O'Day," Ethelbert Nevin's "Little Boy Blue," and May H. Brahe's "Bless This House." This was the printed list. There were others, and plenty of them, demanded by the audience.

One might also add a word for the popularity of Merikanto's "A Fairy Story by the Fire" and Rachmaninov's "To the Children," also the old German "Minnelied" and a lovely little lute melody called in A. C. Bunten's arrangement "Good Night, Dear." All these because of the McCormack great art became genuine and beautiful recreations. Edwin Schneider, Mr. McCormack's accompanist through a course of seasons, demonstrated that he is also a solo pianist of much ability by means of a selected group.

Egon Petri, the pianist, appeared in the ballroom of the Drake hotel yesterday afternoon in a Chopin program for the memorial fund of that great composer, arranged by the Polish Arts club and under the auspices of Dr. Titus Zbyszewski, consul general of Poland, and a group of Chicago patronesses.

A virtuoso of such brilliant attainments as Mr. Petri would logically present Chopin in his major aspects. It was therefore entirely fitting that he should play the Fantasia, the Ballade in A flat, the Scherzo in C sharp minor, the Sonata in B minor, the powerful Polonaise in A flat, to say nothing of the entire set of Etudes in opus 25 and various other briefer compositions. Mr. Petri's ability to play notes exactly as they should be played is a positive pleasure. But it is another and greater pleasure to recognize him as an intellectual and intelligent interpreter. He was greatly and rightfully applauded.

The annual spring concert of the Musicians' club of Loyola university presented an earnest and well trained string ensemble under the direction of Walter Dellers, a choral body of equal enthusiasm directed by Joseph N. Moos, Henry Hungerford, organist, and a considerable group of vocal soloists. The program was pleasant and unhackneyed, ranging from Purcell's "King Arthur" suite to a medley of popular songs.

Chicago Churches Mark Palm Sunday; Holy Week Begins

Impressive Palm Sunday services in the churches of Chicago yesterday opened the annual celebration of Holy week, which will culminate next Sunday in Easter rejoicing at Christ's resurrection.

Cardinal Mundelein presided at the special mass in Holy Name cathedral. The Palms which he and his priests blessed were distributed to members of the congregation and of other Roman Catholic congregations in the city, memorials of the garlands which greeted the Savior's triumphal progress into Jerusalem 1900 years ago.

Holy week services will be held in the loop at a number of locations, as well as in churches throughout the city. Bishop George Craig Stewart will preach each noon at the services arranged for the Grand Opera house by the Church club of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago.

Noon services at the Central Y. M. C. A., 19 South La Salle street, will be under Lutheran auspices. The Chicago church federation, comprising 850 Protestant churches, will continue its Lenten services in the Chicago Temple. Dr. John Thompson will preach today. The Christian Business Men's committee, which has conducted loop religious services for the last two years, has announced a series of special preachers during the week at the Garrick theater.

It will extend throughout the central states territory in an effort to obtain funds for the continuance of the Army's educational and relief activities. The plan announced by Commissioner W. A. Good Morning!

The title of the current Cohen and Kelly opus seems a bit superfluous. Cohen and Kelly are always in trouble. The turmoils vary in kind but not much as to degree.

And now a water front serves as battleground. Meet, then, Capt. Patrick Kelly, master of a tugboat, and Nathan Cohen, man of wealth, who seeks a month's rest and surcease from care as guest of ye captain. The change is forthcoming but the surcease mischievously wangles itself into INcrease. For Kelly, the fighting Irishman, is in a constant state of siege.

He has rough playmates, a divorced wife, who, flanked by a simpering and cash avid companion, comes alimony collecting, and a fair daughter who falls in love with a young U. S. revenue officer with whom Kelly is forever at sword's points. It's Bob's duty, you see, to search the tug periodically—and periodically Kelly goes berserker over the insult.

There you have the gist of the yarn.

"The Cohens and Kellys in Trouble" is a typical Charles Murray and George Sidney offering, save for the fact that there are no Mammas Cohen and Kelly. The picture has some laughs, a lot of action and water, and a horrible pill to swallow in the person and performance of Andy Devine as a deck hand.

Maureen O'Sullivan and Frank Albertson are refreshing in the most ordinary of romantic rôles, and Jobyna Howland, Henry Armetta, Max Davidson, and Maude Fulton bring vivid personalities to limp opportunities.

Also on McVicker's screen is an interesting "short" called "The Man of the Hour," which deals with the rise of Franklin Delano Roosevelt to the presidency of the United States.

When Mr. Roosevelt became President he unwittingly entered the motion picture business. Already his dominating personality has seeped into feature pictures—witness "GABRIEL OVER THE WHITE HOUSE"—and now screens throughout the country are presenting a "Faith in Roosevelt" trailer which should certainly inspire the man who is inspiring a nation. "Stand by him! Have faith in him!" is the pith of this message which will carry so far.

See you tomorrow!

She Wonders If Demanding Folk Are Wisest

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"It has been shown to me time and time again that the woman who gives the least of human kindness and generosity and who demands the most is the one who gets what she wants—and more."

"Eloise," maker of the above observation, is at present deliberating the wisdom of adopting a new code for herself. She's become a bit weary of the rôle come to be expected of her. Thinks she would be better off if she switched to the receiving side of the line.

Well, maybe she would! Maybe she wouldn't!

It's a large question whether these women who give nothing and demand all get any great happiness out of their accomplishment. As I view the human race, they seem to represent the least contented of mortals. They wouldn't be my idea of a pattern to model one's life after, if personal happiness is what one seeks. If it is possessions one wants—yes, I believe the demand system works fairly well. Not always, however.

A woman has to have a certain way with her to be catered to excessively. Or, an especial brand of good looks. And she has to have the good luck [for her] of falling in with the particular type of man who is willing to cater to her demands. And human nature being what it is, the very weakness of this type of male comes to be despised after a time.

There is a great difference between women who demand within reason and women who set out to get everything they can without giving anything in return. I firmly believe that women should make certain demands of their husbands as a purely disciplinary measure for the male, just as husbands should expect certain measures of esteem and respect extended them.

You can't make a man feel a responsibility toward his wife if she turns out to be one content with any old kind of treatment from him. A loss of respect is imminent.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

The Chicago company of "Of Thee I Sing," premier musical show of the year and perhaps the decade, came back to its home town last night for a week's stay at the Auditorium theater with the expected results—an audience of opera house proportions, a merry-go-round of impertinent wit, extravagant story and fantastic music, and gusts of laughter. For although the nation is no longer in the throes of a presidential campaign, the fable of Mr. and Mrs. Wintergreen's ascent to the White House, dragging the lowly vice presidential Throttlebottom after them, is a matter of more than topical interest. As long as we continue to have elections, this satirical and joyously clever frolic will remain alive.

Since its prosperous run in Chicago last fall, the organization has carried its message of brilliant impudence on tour all over the western half of the country, and wherever it appeared, theatrical business had a miraculous revival. It returns here without any of the customary signs of hard and long travel—a handsome stage spectacle as well as an anthology of humorous reflections upon our political customs, an entertainment for the masses as well as for the sophisticates, and a tour de force of light music that deserves an opera house environment.

The only change in the cast is Gaile Darling's succession to the rôle of Diana Devereaux, the "fairest flower of the southland," in place of Roberta Robinson, and this is hardly news to Chicago playgoers, for Miss Darling replaced Miss Robinson in the last phase of the engagement at the Grand Opera house. However, since she is new in the first-night sense, it may be said that she qualifies as the winner of the "Miss White House" title in a bathing suit contest, and plays and sings the character effectively, though without the cool pride and assurance of her predecessor.

All the others are to be greeted and cheered as old friends, admirably suited to their rôles and still bubbling with the mocking "Of Thee I Sing" spirit. Oscar Shaw is better than ever and his beaming smile has not been rendered obsolete by the start of a new chapter in American history. It is, as a matter of fact, more Rooseveltian than Hooverian. Harriette Lake is still an admirable choice for the heroine of a whoop-la, true love story. Cecil Lean's vigorous treatment of the character of the oratorical newspaper publisher and political boss reaches to the Alpine galleries of the Auditorium.

One could run down the line of the large cast, giving citation of merit to every name, for this "Of Thee I Sing" company, specially branded for Chicago, is a 100 per cent affair. When exhibited in dress rehearsal in New York, before an invited audience of Broadway cynics, the verdict was passed upon it: "At last the road gets a break!" That remark can stand as the substance of this second first night account of the only American operetta that can be compared, without reservations, to the masterpieces of Gilbert and Sullivan.

Sundown tonight will usher in the annual observance of the feast of the Passover, the chief holidays of world-wide Jewry. In synagogues and homes Jews will assemble tonight for the passover meal known for ages as the Seder. The principal food distributed during the rites is unleavened bread known as matzos, which recalls the "bread of affliction" eaten at the time of the flight from Egyptian bondage. Matzos was distributed free yesterday to the poor at the 24th Ward Democratic club, 3240 Roosevelt road. A fund for matzos was raised through voluntary contributions of the members of that club. The observance of Passover will continue throughout the week.

Spring's Here! Shop Windows Will Prove It

New Clothes Can Banish Old Worries.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

It must be spring . . . the first pale red strawberry tart appeared and disappeared weeks ago . . . when you walk north far enough you will see tight little wads of green decorating the boulevard bushes and, lastly, judging by the shop windows, the only spring signs that are visible to loop shoppers.

Straw hats, defying the law of gravity, juggled over the eyes of the stiff ladies of the windows, very light colored clothes have been draped over their angular, modernistic curves, and once again we dig ourselves out of thick, dreary winter clothes and go on wild buying binges.

If ever there was a year to get a big bang out of new clothes, this is the year . . . why not forget financial flurries, feeble fears and fancies and have the time of your life buying the things you have wanted for weeks and weeks. It doesn't help a bit to dress like a maiden aunt or to scrape and save your pennies when a flock of new clothes will make the greatest difference of a lifetime.

While these utterly devastating new things are hanging around all the shops and stores, the 1933 thing to do is to break loose and buy. You will find knockout things . . . dizzy, but delightful hats, snappy suits, and decorative coats and ensembles that positively will stop traffic. Start with a new haircut, a facial, a permanent, and then shoot the works!

Despite the fact that experts have proved and doubters have been converted into enthusiastic believers, a lot of us need to be deliberately prodded into action. And this year all action will cause spectacular effects. If you have mistakenly hoarded when you should have spent, if you have made yourself wear last year's bedraggled garments needlessly, you've no idea how shedding all those things and bursting into Easter plumage will help your weary soul and those of countless bored spectators.

What a new hat can do for any gal is history, what a complete new Easter uniform can do for indigo tinted horizons and very bored shoppers is something to take advantage of, and now is the chance.

Chicago shops and stores are filled to the roof with good looking new stuff that will practically make a potential siren out of the most drooping of wall flowers. Grand looking 1933 new spring things that are as different as anything you have ever wrapped around your clothes-hungry anatomy are ready for the rush . . . park the kids with a neighbor, slap your hat on your head, and join the crowd . . . buy all the things you need and add a few luxuries, just by the way of celebrating.

Since even our best critics admit that we spend 85 per cent of the money, since all ads prove that we, the shopping sex, shop for the world, this spring should see the end of the red ink supply, not to mention the beginning of new Alpine ascents on those rather mystifying "how's business" charts.

Years from Six to Eleven Need Special Tact

Management Should Change as Child Changes.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

"My little girl of 10 has a habit that worries me dreadfully. She doesn't answer when I speak to her. She must hear me, but she just doesn't answer. What can I do? This is about the only criticism I could make of her—she is really a dear child."

Of course, this is nothing to worry about. It is, however, one of the many things that crop up during the in-between years that were talked of in Sunday's article. A number of other phases of behavior were lined up yesterday and I promised to make a few suggestions for dealing with them.

You may remember I pointed out that these years of childhood between babyhood and adolescence were often neglected by writers and experts in their advice to parents. This is partly because neither the physical development nor the behavior is as striking during the years from 6 to 11, to put it roughly, as during either babyhood or adolescence.

Yet those in-between years are extremely important, and during them there is a rapid development of character and personality. This is noticeable to any parents who watch their children with interest. And those same parents will find that many difficulties spring up as a logical result of these changes and a general maturing.

Some of these difficulties can be classified but some are highly individual. The one general piece of advice I would like to offer for dealing with these interesting in-betweens is that you make it your business to study your child and make your management fit his particular needs and his very own personality as it unfolds itself before your eyes.

That very suggestion implies that your method of dealing with this unfolding personality must be flexible. You will find changes that cannot be handled successfully unless you, too, change your management with the changing phases. Sometimes you will need to be adamant, sometimes yielding, sometimes you will need to direct, sometimes merely to watch—sometimes you will need to talk, sometimes to be silent—sometimes to allow freedom, sometimes to exert authority. But always you will need to be understanding and to think first of what serves best your child's real happiness [not just that of the moment] and his well being.

Tomorrow we continue the subject of managing the in-betweens.

Enjoy Chopin Concert Given by Egon Petri

Society Attends Event of Polish Arts Club.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THERE were a dozen white hats and nine orchid corsages in the audience gathered yesterday afternoon in the large ballroom of the Drake hotel. Add to these several lengthy sprays of gardenias, dozens of the city's most distinguished patrons of music, and two hours of Frederic Chopin's compositions played by Egon Petri and you have the formula of one of the nicest parties this spring season will offer.

During the Polish high tea that followed comments on the pleasantries of Sunday afternoon concerts were exchanged. Why not more of them? was the question asked.

Yesterday's program was one of a series to be given this spring in many cities of the world to perpetuate the memory of Chopin and to raise funds for the restoration of the birthplace of the great musical genius near the ancient town of Lowicz in Poland. The sponsoring organization here was the Polish Arts club, a member of the national Chopin memorial fund committee, which has the famous Paderewski at its head.

The two persons, however, most directly responsible for this delightful afternoon, for bringing Petri here, were Mrs. Charles S. Dewey and Dr. Titus Zbyszewski, the Polish consul general. For the concert yesterday they occupied places on either side of the center aisle in the front row. Next to Mrs. Dewey, stunning in a dress of the new "smoke" crêpe, a veil of the same shade and sable brown accessories, sat Mr. Dewey.

Preceding the concert Mr. and Mrs. Dewey had entertained for Mr. and Mrs. Petri at luncheon. Their guests included the Howard Gillettes, the Paul Nitzes, Poland's new assistant consul here in Chicago, Edouard Kulikowski, and Dr. Zbyszewski.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Barney Goodspeed, who have the Petris as their house guests this week, had seats a few rows back with Prince and Princess Rostislav. Mrs. Goodspeed and Princess Rostislav were wearing two of the dozen white hats, Mrs. Goodspeed's contrasted with a suit of black wool and the Princess Rostislav's with gray.

Miss Emeline Bush with her mother, Mrs. William H. Bush, appeared in a new spring ensemble of gray, a gay figured blouse and matching hat. Then there were Mrs. Charles Wesley Dempster, fashionable in black with a sable scarf, and Mrs. Edward T. Leight, wearing beige with accents of Nile green.

Society Busy Hunting Houses.

As soon as crocuses start jumping by the inch and robin redbreasts return to town house hunting becomes the favorite sport of many of society's apartment dwellers. The young "Mike" Camps, with their two small children, have already moved from their Pearson street flat to a house in the southwest section of Glencoe, and Mrs. Camp's twin sister, Mrs. Arthur Meyer, will find a cunning little place awaiting her in the country when she returns from an eastern visit. The Meyers gave up their apartment on East Chestnut street when Mrs. Meyer went east. Since then Mr. Meyer has signed a lease for a house in Geneva to move in May 1.

The Changeling Bride

By Martha Ostenso

SYNOPSIS.

The Hendersons—Meryl and Margaret, sisters; Flint, their older brother, and Andrew, the father—have lived for twelve years in poverty in a fishing settlement on the shores of Lake Superior after losing their fortune in Chicago. Great-Aunt Letitia, formerly dean of a girls' school in Ohio, is the liaison between the Hendersons and a cultured past. Flint and his friend, Ned Bremner, hope to build up a great export business. A forest fire brings Blake Lawrence, injured and lost, to the Henderson cottage. There were two great names in nearby Agate Bay and its environs—Lawrence and Greer. When Blake returns to Agate Bay he takes Meryl with him to be his bride. Meryl learns after the wedding ceremony, through Lucia, a snobbish cousin of the Lawrences, that Blake married her as an escape from Christine, the wife of Julius Greer, with whom he had been in love. Meryl prepares to return home. Theresa, Blake's sister, persuades her to stay for six months for Blake's sake, whom she still loves, and not to hurt her people. Theresa promises to teach her social service work. The Greers give a dinner dance for Blake and his bride.

INSTALLMENT XXV.

HER FIRST EVENING GOWN.

On a rainy November evening Meryl stood before the ebony framed pier glass in the ivory and blue room which, with its adjoin-bath was her share of the southwest suite on the second floor of the Lawrence "town house." She gazed in redulously at her own reflection.

Her first evening gown, chosen yesterday under Theresa's guidance at the most exclusive shop in the city, was a creation of palest, filmiest gold chiffon which almost swept the floor. Practically unencumbered with a back, it had tiny sleeves which dropped deliciously off her shoulders—her first evening gown! Her eyes traveled the clinging length of the frock to her feet which were clad in gold slips of sandals—her first evening shoes. Then her gazed incredulously at her own reflection.

It was the color of the dress, Meryl thought, that gave her hair a shine almost unearthly. And surely the vermilion of her lips—which Theresa had assured her was an essential evening touch for one of her type—set off the amber pallor of her skin.

As suddenly as the dazzled feeling came over her, it vanished again. She moved away from the mirror and seated herself on the silk covered bed and ran her hand thoughtfully over the sleeve of the little ermine jacket which lay upon it. Directly across the room from her there was a door, and behind that door Blake was dressing. She could hear him moving about. His very step sounded miserable.

Blake hated the prospect of this function at Christine Greer's, this dinner dance in honor of himself and his bride. His face, when the invitation had been tendered them, immediately upon their arrival in town four days ago, had been inscrutable. And that inscrutability had cried out as no words could have done his bitter protest against a social order which demanded of human beings submission to so dreary and contemptible a sham.

Theresa's jeering cynicism toward Christine's motives—to which she had given discreet expression only in Meryl's hearing—had persuaded Meryl to the policy of resignation Theresa had hoped for. Theresa had been wise enough to make no derisive comment in Blake's presence. He might have rejected Christine's invitation point blank, had she expressed herself. For Blake, Theresa knew, was blessed with a singularly small amount of tact where women were concerned.

Blake's lack of tact was demonstrated to Meryl a moment after she emerged from her room, dressed for Christine's dinner party. He was standing in his doorway, waiting for her.

She had never seen him in full evening dress before. He, moreover, was looking at Meryl in decolletage for the first time. A second or two passed while they stared at each other, unsmiling.

"Well," he said at last, "you look astonishingly pretty."

"Astonishingly so?" she questioned.

He smiled. "One may be astonished," he observed, "when something surpasses even his fondest hopes." His dark brows met in a reflective frown. "You ought to make plenty of conquests."

"Thank you," she replied. "Would you rather have me look a frump?"

Blake grinned sheepishly, but he was not at all appeased.

"A really attractive woman is never safe," he said.

"You don't look any too safe yourself," she countered lightly.

He gave the little irked hunch to his shoulders, which had become so familiar to her. Then he drew from his pocket a small, black, ebony box. He looked down at it and seemed to hesitate, then he thrust it toward her.

"I got these for you today," he said hurriedly. "If you don't like them—don't wear them."

Meryl took the box and opened it. Within, on a satin cushion, lay a platinum wedding ring set with diamonds, a great, glazing solitaire, and a necklace of small, perfect pearls.

Meryl looked at them for a moment, unable to speak.

"I have never seen anything so beautiful, Blake," she said.

"Then—you'll wear them?"

"I don't want to seem ungrateful," she said. "But it's a shame to spend so much money on —" She paused, unable to continue.

"On something that will be used so short a time, eh?" he supplied curtly. "Well—don't let that worry you, Meryl. I'll charge it to publicity."

He smiled bitterly.

"To publicity, then!" she said swiftly, and slipped the two rings on her finger.

"I'm here to learn!" she laughed.

The tremble in her voice was lost on Blake. She was having trouble with the clasp of the necklace.

"Let me do that for you," he suggested.

"Please," she said.

He reached over and took the fragile, glowing strand out of her fingers. "Turn round," he said brusquely.

Meryl turned her back to him, and Blake, as he secured the emerald clasp, noted the gold twist of hair on the nape of her neck. A confusing unsteadiness came over him as he touched her skin, which seemed to him suddenly to be the color of sunlight.

"There you are," he said at last.

Meryl swung about and faced him. "Thank you, so much," she said composedly. "How do they look?"

He smiled, with a careless shrug. "Don't ask me," he replied. "I hate pearls."

"I see," she observed. "It's just one of the things —" She hesitated. He lit her cigaret and his own, and together they proceeded down the broad staircase and into the drawing room, where Theresa, a cocktail beside her, was waiting for them.

On the way to Greers Blake sat with his chin buried in his scarf, his eyes fixed on the back of his chauffeur's head. He scarcely heard Theresa's rapid conversation. He had not seen Chirstine since that day, immediately after his marriage, when she drove up in the street in Agate Bay and congratulated him. Neither had Meryl seen her. How, he wondered disturbingly, would Meryl react to Christine? For that matter, how would he react to her himself?

Many Movie Stars Blink Out in 10 Years

Only 18 of 99 Leaders in Current Films.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., April 9.—[Special.]—Ten years certainly makes a difference in the movies. Out of 99 names of actresses and actors listed in a movie year book as starred in 1923, only 18 remain in the movies as stars, and of the 18 seven are definitely on the threshold of retirement.

The 18 stars of 1923 who are still represented by films currently depicting them as stars are: Chaplin, Fairbanks, Pickford, Gloria Swanson, Harold Lloyd, Tom Mix, Buster Keaton, George Arliss, Jack Holt, Norma Shearer, Richard Barthelmess, Bebe Daniels, Marion Davies, John Barrymore, Warner Baxter, Hoot Gibson, John Gilbert, and Douglas Fairbanks Jr. (The latter contributed his first —"Stephen Steps Out"—in 1923.

Of this list of 18 Chaplin hasn't faced a camera in more than two years; Fairbanks is gradually retiring; he will be followed by his wife, Mary Pickford; Lloyd has turned out only one picture in nearly two years; Buster Keaton is out of a contract and partly inactive; Mix and Gilbert are definitely inactive; Gloria Swanson may not make any more, and Bebe Daniels probably won't, either.

Of those who were stars in 1923 but no longer are stars, some, like Norma Talmadge, her sister Constance, Elaine Hammerstein, Douglas MacLean, Wesley Barry, Florence Vidor, Jackie Coogan, Charlie Ray, Gladys Walton, Dorothy Phillips, Agnes Ayres, Mary Miles Minter, Mae Murray, May McAvoy, Reed Howes, Alice Calhoun, William S. Hart, Lillian Gish, Helen Holmes, Francis X. Bushman, Beverly Bayne, Nazimova, and Mrs. Rudolph Valentino (Natcha Rambova), never are seen on the screen any more.

Others—for instance, Betty Blythe, William Farnum, Ethel Clayton, Monty Banks, Clara Kimball Young, Viola Dana, Mary Carr, Herbert Rawlinson, Baby Peggy Montgomery (now grown up and trying for a new start as an ingenue); Bryant Washburn, Mae Marsh, Lupino Lane, Ben Turpin, Mabel Forrest, Franklyn Farnum, William Desmond, Johnny Hines, Priscilla Dean, Owen Moore, and Johnny Walker — have played subordinate parts—sometimes actual extra work—during the last year. Dick Talmadge still is something of a star, in a minor way. He acts in, finances and bosses his own, independents, and sometimes takes rôles of minor parts in other films.

Pola Negri has been out almost as long as Miss Ulric. Jack Hoxie went with the circuses. Douglas MacLean turned movie executive. Jackie Coogan is at college. Eddie Polo was last heard of engaged in some film venture in Italy. Ken Harlan became a night club host. Mrs. Valentino is living in the Balearic Islands, and still is described as an art follower.

Louise Fazenda, who was featured in short reel comedies in 1923, is passing the days in expectation of an addition to the family group of herself and Hal Wallis. Zasu Pitts, who also was featured in comedies ten years ago, is still a very much popular comedienne.

Gertrude Vanderbilt, once the toast of New York, is living quietly in Hollywood. She has been negotiating with a studio regarding incidents for a story based on the tempestuous life and legal fights of the late Bill Fallon.

Gross returns on Eddie Cantor's last film, "Kid from Spain," are expected to exceed $2,000,000, according to close business followers. In spite of the heavy return, Producer Sam Goldwyn will not wax rich in the film, because the expenses were too heavy. Another $2,000,000 gross record is anticipated for the musical, "Forty-Second Street," according to a California banker with access to such figures. Warner Brothers will make scads of profit on that one.

MINUTE MYSTERY

[Copyright: 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.]

AN INTERRUPTED WEEK-END.

Prof. Fordney, driving along a busy thoroughfare, suddenly slammed on the brakes and brought his car to a stop. He had just passed a huddled form lying in the street. Running back to the spot he bent over a woman about 50 years of age, clad in house dress and sweater, an ugly bruise on her forehead. That she was beyond help was quickly apparent to him; the body was cold, death having undoubtedly been caused by a car which left the marks of two tires across her chest.

Fordney instructed one of the officers, keeping the hastily drawn crowd back, to phone headquarters. An hour later the professor still was trying to locate some one who might throw light on the tragedy.

After tedious and patient inquiry he learned the woman was a Mrs. Bellamy, who lived on the outskirts of the town. The police finally located Nick Chester, a boarder of the dead woman's, who readily admitted having driven her in his car downtown. He said she'd got out two blocks from where Fordney had discovered her. On learning Mrs. Bellamy had not been wearing glasses when found, Chester suggested she must have stepped in front of a car and the driver sped on.

The professor sighed. He was not to find relief from the city heat this week-end! Well, his work came first.

"Now, why was Mrs. Bellamy wearing a man's sweater? And why had her body been thrown out at this particular spot? She certainly wasn't run over or killed there!" he muttered to himself disconsolately.

HOW DID THE PROFESSOR KNOW?

Maude Sippy Hill Tells Engagement.

When Mrs. Maude Sippy Hill invited two dozen of her friends to "shower" Miss Helen Tieken with linens Saturday afternoon at a party at her home at 5615 Woodlawn avenue, little did these guests think that their hostess was about to announce her own engagement. It came as a complete surprise.

Mrs. Hill, daughter of Mrs. Bertram W. Sippy, is to be married some time before the opening of A Century of Progress to Thomas Ross King, son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. King of Wilmette. It was appropriate indeed that the announcement of the engagement should be made at a party for Miss Tieken, who is to become the bride of Maurice Geraghty next Saturday, since Mrs. Hill and Miss Tieken have been long close friends and have traveled extensively abroad together.

Mrs. Hill is the widow of Dr. Thomas Clement Hill, who died just two years after her marriage to him in 1929. Her father was the late Dr. Bertram W. Sippy. Mrs. Hill took her undergraduate training at Vassar college and the University of Chicago and later her master's degree in psychiatric social service at Smith college. This latter training has served her in particularly good stead in her work for the Junior league since she has devoted many of her hours to occupational therapy at Billings Memorial hospital. A year ago Mrs. Hill was chairman of the league's second hand clothes sale. She has also worked strenuously in behalf of the Friends of Music and the Lighthouse for the Blind.

Mr. King is a graduate of the University of Michigan where he was a member of Alpha Delta Phi fraternity. He is engaged in the railroad supply business.

Drop Celebration of Two Birthdays.

Although they have a host of well wishers ready to drink their health, society's two famous "twins"—Arthur Meeker and Howard Gillette—will not have a joint birthday party this year. It is Mrs. Meeker's illness that prevents the celebration which would ordinarily have taken place tonight, half way between the two natal days.

For the last fortnight Mrs. Meeker has been confined to her home and Mr. Meeker has decided that a California trip will be the best remedy possible. So tomorrow, on Mr. Meeker's 67th birthday, the two of them will board the train for the west coast.

Yesterday was the beginning of Mr. Gillette's 62d year. And due recognition was paid him by way of a birthday cake at the luncheon the Charles S. Deweys had for Egon Petri.

A charming visitor who is to arrive within three weeks is Mrs. Virginia Peterson Ross, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Frederick Peterson of New York. She will be here only two or three days as the guest of the Philip B. Mahers. Mrs. Maher will give a dinner party for her, and there will probably be a number of small and informal luncheons and teas. Although Mr. and Mrs. Peterson have not yet officially announced it, Mrs. Ross is to marry Prince Paul Sapieha, a distant cousin of the Prince Andrew Sapieha who was in town so recently. Prince Paul is at present on his estate in Poland, so after Mrs. Ross has visited a few days with her parents in New York she will sail for London where she and Prince Paul will be married next month.

Sweets Will Visit Here.

Among the visitors to a Century of Progress in June will be Gov. and Mrs. Sweet of Colorado and their son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Channing Sweet. The foursome will make the trip by motor and during the several weeks they are here they will be the guests of the younger Mrs. Sweet's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilton B. Martin of East Walton place.

The directors and the cast of Harlan Ware's "Return to Folly," to be given a series of "premieres" on the north shore this month and next, have protected themselves against one problem that generally stamps a production as amateur. Instead of shifting scenery with the resultant uncomfortable delays, the same setting is to be used for all three acts.

Yesterday Miss Mildred FitzHugh, who is very much interested in the play as a member of the board of directors of Orphans of the Storm, which is to benefit by performances, called to give us this bit of news as well as the dates on which the play will take the stage. It will open the evening of April 25 at Durant institute in Lake Forest, move to Skokie school in Winnetka on April 28 and then have its third and last showing the night of May 4 at the Haven school in Evanston.

Society to Attend Play at Goodman.

All of society's "literati" are reserving the evening of April 22 to see Dr. Maurice Gnesin's production of "Leonardo da Vinci" at the Goodman theater. The play is by way of introduction to the new literary medium, the Midwest Review of Literature. David Itkin, who worked under Stanislavsky in the Moscow Art theater, is in charge of the rehearsals, and the players are all graduates of the Goodman theater.

The annual meeting of Branch 16 of the Army Relief society will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the Casino. The honorary president of the society is Mrs. Frank Parker, the president is Mrs. William H. Hubbard; the treasurer, Mrs. Harry H. Shearson, and the two secretaries, Mrs. Frederick T. Haskell and Mrs. Charles A. Thuis.

Consider Red Cross Program.

Another group of women will meet this afternoon at Mrs. Paul Walker's apartment at 900 North Michigan avenue to consider the program of the volunteer service committee of the Red Cross. Mrs. Walker is to arrive this morning from a week-end in French Lick.

The annual meeting of the Chicago chapter of the Red Cross is to be held Wednesday noon at the Congress hotel with Mrs. Charles Garfield King, Mrs. D. Morse Ely, Mrs. Richard T. Crane Jr., Mrs. Philip K. Wrigley, Mrs. John J. Mitchell, Mrs. William H. Mitchell, and Mrs. Leslie Wheeler as hostesses. Harvey D. Gibson, the active chairman of the New York emergency relief service, will speak.

Committees working for the success of the Sunbeam league's annual card party on April 18 are to report today at a luncheon at the Stevens hotel.

The Industrial Workshops are to have two spring showings of the beautiful lingerie and maids' uniforms, aprons and smocks, made by the women they provide with a livelihood. Next Thursday Mrs. Irving Florsheim is to open her home at 334 Wellington avenue from 11 to 5 for an exhibit of this work and on April 28 Mrs. Lawrence Stein will do the same. The Stein home is on Woodbridge lane in Highland Park.

Frederick B. Tuttle will leave by motor this morning for New York, where he will spend a fortnight visiting relatives.

After postponing their West Indies cruise several times the junior Edwin M. Ashcrafts with their daughter, Miss Virginia Ashcraft, and Miss Barbara Eldridge, are leaving town this morning for two weeks in Bermuda. Upon their return to New York Miss Eldridge will remain in the east to visit friends.

The Henry P. Shaws, who so recently returned from a holiday on a California ranch, are busy packing their furniture and shipping it west. In May they are to move to Pasadena.

The Wilson Lamperts' twin daughters, Lillian and Myrtle, are back at their studies at the Erskine school in Boston. Both will be debutantes of next season.

Striking Quilt Design Suitable for Man's Room

BY NANCY CABOT.

Worked with the autumnal shades of brown, russet, yellow, and green, this quilt is particularly appropriate for a young man's room. For the most striking result the leaves should be set with the stems all one way, so that the finished quilt has a wind-blown appearance.

For a pattern of this quilt design send 5 cents in stamps or coin to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service Office, One South Dearborn street.

BY MARY MEADE.

When madame takes up golf or when afternoon shopping sprees or late bridge parties send her dashing home but ten minutes ahead of the rest of the family things have to happen. Moreover they have to happen hastily if that hustling homemaker is to be able to answer "right away" to a ravenous family's first query of "When do we eat?"

Mixed grills, I've found, are one of the neatest ways of answering this question with a piping hot platter of deliciousness. All sorts of combinations are possible. Some may have been partly prepared before and simply popped into the broiler the minute the hat is sailed into the closet.

For instance, our first thought is for a gay spring grill of tomatoes, golden scrambled eggs, bacon, and toast that makes a most admirable hurry-up supper. If you wish you can run it as you would a three ring circus, scrambling the eggs on a burner, browning the bread on the toaster, and attending to the tomatoes on the broiler all in the same few minutes. But here is the recipe in detail:

SPRING GRILLED SUPPER.

3 tablespoons top milk
3 tablespoons butter
Salt and pepper to taste
3 tomatoes, peeled
9 slices toast
6 slices bacon

Combine the eggs, milk, and seasoning and scramble in the melted butter. For this use a frying pan and scrape the scramble from the bottom as it cooks, leaving it a flaky, golden mass. Meanwhile have the tomatoes broiling and the toast browning. The tomatoes should have been peeled, cut in half, sprinkled with pepper and salt, and then placed in a pan under a hot broiler flame until partly cooked. Six of the toast slices should be quickly cut into rounds and buttered and a broiled tomato half placed in each.

Now arrange these rounds on a hot platter. On top of each of the tomatoes pile a tablespoon of hot scrambled egg and over that lay a curl of broiled bacon. Cut the other three toast slices in triangles, butter them, and use with sprigs of parsley as a garnish for the platter. Everything must be hot and the whole grill should take no more than ten minutes to prepare.

One delectable accompaniment to it is a frozen cottage cheese and fruit salad with chocolate gingerbread, whipped cream, and coffee topping off the meal. A few minutes earlier in the day will be enough for the advance preparations.

Wool Coat-Frock Is High Favorite with Parisiennes

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Coat frocks of wool are high style members of the clothes colony of Paris. The smartest women and the most snobbish dressmakers wear and make them. In early spring they are worn with a fur boa, cape, or scarf, and later they go without fur.

The favorite wool for these dresses is a soft, angora surfaced material, though coat dresses done in blistered and cloque wools are not absent from the style parade. One color predominates the coat frock, and that is beige. Any of the forty-seven different shades of this color will do, from the palest to the deep oatmeal or caramel tones.

The Philippe et Gaston coat dress shown today is made of pale beige angora woolen with a very fine rib, and is one of the prettiest in Paris. The skirt is straight, and made to look narrow, with a box plait down the center front stitched to the knees, and released below to allow for stepping out.

At the shoulders in front there is a yoke, cut in one piece with the capelets that top the sleeves, and fitted into the neck with sunray tucks. These tucks also appear across the back of the bodice at the top. Two galalith buttons fasten the bodice in front, at the round neck, and two more close the self-material belt.

Around the hips there is a flat peplum which doesn't quite meet in front.

Leg Muscles Need Flexing and Limbering

Try This Little Stunt Every Day.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Today we enter the fifth week of our series based on West Point physical training rules.

I've been bragging right along about this series, telling you what an inestimable advantage is yours to get the benefit of a physical training series directed by officers of the United States Military academy at West Point where are turned out the finest physical specimens known.

Obviously I'm not the only one who thinks so. Letters are already pouring in telling of improved posture, a rejuvenated sense of being; yes, and in the comparatively brief period, newer, slimmer, neater waistlines. Many of them! Which is exactly what I hoped to hear!

Always, always in this course we've been working primarily for better posture. There's simply no estimating the value of smart, erect bearing in creating an impression of youth, efficiency, good looks. And—believe it or not—the "tall" bearing is a reducer. At the same time it contributes handsomely to the curved line of beauty that the chest-fallen, round-shouldered underweight craves.

Already a new foot-and-leg lithesness is indicated in the letters received extolling the benefits of this West Point series. This, as the result of the stretching work recommended and the muscle training involved in the exercises already given. But we can use more good leg and foot work. After all, the smartness of the walk depends upon the leg and foot muscles. The lightness of step wanted is acquired through strengthening and limbering the foot muscles.

So this week we want you to take up this foot work earnestly. If your legs are thick, thin, weak, heavy of movement, lighten and make them supple with these exercises directed particularly at them.

Hopping

WHITE SOX WHIP CUBS, 12-6; WIN SPRING SERIES

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 9.—Some persons interested in the care and feeding of athletes have decided that they will not permit the little boys, between the ages of 18 and 25, who go out for the 'varsity teams to gaze upon the foaming seidel, even under legal conditions.

Little boys at this stage of life are very delicate and do not know their minds so they require a lot of tut-tuting and mothering from their coaches and trainers. Of course, in case of war, they would be deemed quite fit to march and fight and fly and sleep in holes and live on coarse food and the responsibility for killing other persons would be theirs.

But that is a frivolous business, calling for no such fine condition or important decisions as 'varsity football, for instance. When a little boy of say, 22 years and 185 pounds, is out for a place on the football team he musn't smoke a cigaret or eat a piece of pie and he must not drink decimal beers or he will lose his figure and his place on the squad.

Character Building, Eh?

And his coach might go so far as to humiliate him publicly and break his heart. This comes under the head of character building and the proper terms of scorn, contempt and so forth with which to address a little boy who has secretly eaten a Charlotte russe may be obtained out of books on the subject. He is a traitor to himself and his team, his alma mater, his coach, his papa and his mamma and he will never amount to a damn in life unless he here highly resolves to break down and cry and stick his finger in his eye and turn over a new leaf and be a better man.

Such a scene occurred one evening in football season at the dining table where the waiters were dosing calories into the members of a visiting football team under the eye of the head coach, who was one of the venerable kind. The little boys were ordered out for a short hike after dinner and one of them said he didn't think he cared to walk as he felt drowsy. At this the old man flared up like a prohibition spellbinder, apostrophising Johnny Walker, and told him he was off the team.

My, My! Such a Fellow!

"I know why you are drowsy and so do you know," the old man thundered. "It is because you were disloyal. A traitor. Last night on the train you had permission to eat a dish of ice cream. But you ordered pie à la mode. You need not go for a walk and you needn't report for the game tomorrow. You may turn in your suit. We have no place for your kind on this team."

So the little boy cried all night and as the season wore on he got thin from pining and brooding and, finally, kind friends went to the old man and told him that that boy's heart was broken. So the old man forgave him and put him back in uniform in time for the final game and the little boy, instead of telling him where he could go with his suit and his football team, decided that he had learned a great lesson in life.

Beer or ale was rather commonly administered to the oarsmen and football players at many of the schools until prohibition came and, indicating that at least one football squad received an occasional ration of ale long after the adoption of the amendment, there was a tragic mishap one evening in a New York hotel.

The football team had arrived in town for tomorrow's big game and the old grads were howling and snake dancing through the halls of a downtown hostelry. The athletic association was spending a few dollars of its funds under direction of the graduate manager for a suite of rooms and a supply of hootch and everything was merry when in walked the bootlegger again, this time with a couple of assistants carrying several burlap bags of ale.

The graduate manager was not present, but his assistant was and he ordered the ale to be iced in the bathtub. An hour later the graduate manager phoned in from the team's headquarters to ask if any ale had arrived.

"O, yes," the assistant said, "and I have managed to save you two bottles. It was very good, indeed."

Boy, the Coach's Eyedropper!

Some of the male mothers of the athletes, being interviewed on the subject of decimal beer for their delicate darlings, have said that they might some time permit some boy to have eight or nine drops if he appeared to be run down or stale. But a boy who guzzles 15 or 18 drops will be off the squad, because that boy is nothing but a drunkard.

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

FROM time to time there appears in the public prints the suggestion that amateur boxing in Illinois would fare much better under the control of the state athletic commission than under the Amateur Athletic union, which now supervises and regulates the sport.

JOE TRINER.

These suggestions have come chiefly from professionally minded persons who have had little or no opportunity to study the problems of amateur boxing.

I have heard of no clamor for state control of tennis, golf, sand lot baseball, basketball, and other games which young people play for fun. The liberty of youth will be seriously affected when their attempts to play must be controlled by a state commission, especially one set up to govern professional sport.

There are abuses of the rules of amateurism in all these games, but they are eventually straightened out without resort to law. Amateur boxing is that way. It is amateur as long as the rules of the A. A. U. are observed. It is professional when conducted without A. A. U. sanction and the commission has the power to move in and assume control.

There is no need for alarm over the amateur boxing situation in Illinois while we have men like Avery Brundage, George Donoghue, Lyman Bingham, Walter Wright, and Fred Steers running the A. A. U. They have no commercial interest, for they serve without pay.

This group needs the support of the state commission to keep boxing amateur. The A. A. U. has no police powers. When a promoting club attempts to violate the rules of the A. A. U. it would be wholesome to have the commission make the sponsors show why they should not operate under a professional license. A closer working arrangement undoubtedly will be the outcome of the recent conference between Chairman Joe Triner of the commission and Avery Brundage of the A. A. U.

If amateur boxing in Illinois should be placed under control of the athletic commission, whose jurisdiction is professional boxing and wrestling, the amateur boxers of Illinois would in a sense be isolated from the rest of the world. Once removed from the A. A. U. they would be ineligible for the Olympic games, national, international, and sectional competition. The reason for this is that the A. A. U. is national in scope and is the United States member of the International Amateur Boxing and Wrestling Federation. Since these federations govern all international boxing only those boxers certified by the A. A. U. are eligible for such competition.

Further, amateur boxers registered in the A. A. U. from other states would not be permitted to meet amateur boxers from Illinois unless they in turn were certified by the Central association of the A. A. U.

The boxing commission, if it had control, naturally would have the power to suspend amateurs, including the collegians, for without this power it would be unable to enforce its rules. Wouldn't it be interesting to have the commission suspend a man from Northwestern who had just whipped a boxer from Wisconsin because the Illinois commission has no working agreement with the Wisconsin commission?

The real reason why there is agitation for the commission to take over amateur boxing is the probability of increased pay rolls. It would require quite a corps of inspectors and deputy inspectors for the commission to cover the various amateur shows. These are unimportant jobs, of course, but any political job is a job in the patronage system. The vote of a man in a small job counts the same as the vote of a man in a big job.

Johnny Vergez Hits 7th Homer of Season.

New York, April 9.—(AP)—The New York Giants finished their spring exhibition baseball series with the Detroit Tigers today and chalked up a 4 to 1 victory. The Giants won the series, six games to four. Carl Hubbell's airtight pitching and Johnny Vergez's seventh home run of the spring season featured the battle. Hubbell yielded only four hits in seven innings and struck out seven. Score:

HORNSBY OUT OF CARDS' LINEUP FOR CUB SERIES

St. Louis, Mo., April 9.—(AP)—Rogers Hornsby will be out of the St. Louis Cardinal lineup for at least two weeks, Dr. Robert Hyland, club surgeon, said today. An injury to a tendon in his foot bothered him several times during the training period, but he thought he had conquered it until the first of the exhibition games in Florida.

Last Monday Hornsby was sent to St. Louis and placed under the care of Dr. Hyland.

The ailment is a blow to the Cardinals' finances. The box office had counted heavily on the appearance of Hornsby, who still has a following in Chicago, where the Cardinals will open the season on Wednesday.

ARGENTINA BEATS CHILE IN DAVIS CUP ZONE FINAL

BUENOS AIRES, April 9.—(AP)—Argentina won the South American zone championship of Davis cup tennis competition today, defeating Chile, 3-0.

Argentina, which captured the first two singles matches yesterday, clinched the series by victory in the doubles today, Del Castillo and Zappa defeating Deik and Schoenher, 6-4, 6-2, 6-3.

Dawson Wins French Lick Golf with 220

French Lick, Ind., April 9.—[Special.]—George Dawson of the Glen Oak Country club won the second annual midwest medal play championship today with a total of 220, leading Chick Evans of Edgewater, last year's champion, by a margin of eleven shots. Douglas Casey of Riverside, Russel Martin of Flossmoor, and John Lehman of Olympia Fields tied at 232.

Starting his final round, Dawson led Casey and Evans by six strokes. This lead never was threatened. He reached the turn in 38 and came home in 36 for a total of 74, a startling performance over a water logged course on which the putting cups had been put on the high spots of the green.

Rain Sweeps Course.

A heavy rain swept the course throughout the morning and at one time the officials considered calling off the play. Soon after lunch the sun came out and shortly after two o'clock the leading players, Dawson, Evans, Lehman and Casey and Talbot of Bloomington, statred in a fivesome.

Dawson played steadily all the way, but Evans' putting was erratic and Lehman made mistakes on the greens. Dawson had the match pretty well in hand at the turn, principally because of long tee shots.

Westland Withdraws.

Russell Martin, playing in another foursome, turned in a card of 76, which landed him in a tie for third place. Scores of the leaders for the three days' play were:

Evans	77	75	79—231
R. Martin	80	76	76—232
John Lehman	70	74	78—232

Jack Westland of Sunset Ridge did not play the third round. A Glen Oak foursome consisting of D. H. Tweedie, D. Roscoe C. Upp, J. H. Morrell and John Hackett won the low net foursome prize for 54 holes.

PARKER DEFEATS LOTT, CAPTURES HOUSTON TITLE

Houston, Tex., April 9.—(AP)—Frankie Parker, the 18 year old tennis star from Milwaukee, today defeated the veteran George Lott of Chicago, 7-5, 10-12, 6-2, 6-2, to win the Houston invitation singles championship.

In yesterday's semi-finals Parker beat Cliff Sutter of New Orleans, the country's third ranking player, in five hard fought sets.

In today's doubles finals, Lott paired with Wilmer Allison of Austin, Tex., Davis Cup star and the country's second ranking player, to beat Parker and Les Stoefen of Los Angeles, 6-2, 10-8.

Jay Cohn of Chicago won the junior singles title, defeating George Dulling of San Antonio, 6-3, 6-4, in a convincing fashion.

Bonnie Miller of Los Angeles was the other champion crowned during the meet. She beat Genie Sampson of Chicago for the girls' singles title yesterday.

SULLIVAN SEES SOX PLAY; READY TO SIGN

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Billy Sullivan Jr., the White Sox member who works at his trade only when it doesn't interfere with his law course at Notre Dame, was at Wrigley field yesterday for his first glimpse of his 1933 teammates. Sullivan hasn't signed a contract, but intends to do so later, because the Sox officials have promised him he will not be called on for catching duty.

BILLY SULLIVAN.

Young Billy fears that catching might ruin his fingers, thus making it difficult for him to handle volumes later in life. If Billy doesn't catch he will have to wait until such time as Fonseca folds up at first base. It is the only position he can come close to handling, experiments have proved. Sullivan will join the team about May 30.

The great Art Shires, who is a first baseman by trade, came out to watch Charley Grimm and Lew Fonseca before deciding whether he would make application for employment with either club. Shires hasn't signed his contract with the Boston Braves, but they have given him the privilege of trying to make a deal for himself. Arthur will not turn to the minors until he has looked over the big league field.

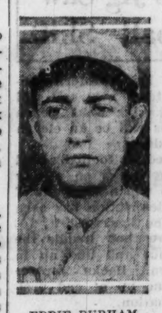
The Sox and Cubs have nothing to do today except practice at their respective parks. The customary throwing and batting drill will make up the program. The Cubs also will do a bit of rehearsing tomorrow, but the Sox will escape it. They are booked to leave shortly before noon for St. Louis, where they open the American league season Wednesday.

Babe Herman, the Cubs' slugger, kept himself on the bench on the theory that it wouldn't hurt him to rest up a bit more after twisting his ankle in Friday's exhibition at Kansas City. The Babe thinks he'll be in working order before the season's opener against the Cardinals at Wrigley field Wednesday.

Al Campion, the pass gate guardian who has been with the Cub organization since 1900, always has been an anti-prohibitionist, but as soon as beer was restored he decided to leap on the wagon. Al insists the quality of the new brew didn't cause the leap. He hasn't tried it.

The Cubs' record against American league teams in the last three seasons hasn't been impressive. They dropped four out of seven to the Sox in the 1931 city series. The Sox whipped them three out of four this spring. And, of course, nobody need be reminded of the four beatings administered by the Yanks in the world series last fall.

Manager Lew Fonseca of the Sox now feels that he has at least three men — Lyons, Gregory, and Durham — capable of taking their regular starts on the mound and winning their share of games. If these three can function steadily it will assure longer rests between starts for Sam Jones and Milt Gaston, both of whom will need it until the weather warms up.



EDDIE DURHAM.

The Sox fans always delight in rubbing it in on the Cub rooters. The former had their biggest opportunity in years yesterday and there wasn't much the National league adherents could say in reply except that it might have been different if Cuyler and Babe Herman had been at work.

Nuvolari Wins 1,000 Mile Auto Race in Italy

MISJUDGED FLY STARTS MALONE ON DOWNFALL

Haas with 3 Hits Leads Attack.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The reorganized and highly exuberant White Sox yesterday afternoon gave Pat Malone a terrific thumping to make it three straight over the Cubs in the spring series and freshen up the city championship title which they won in the fall of 1931. The score was White Sox 12; Cubs 6. About 18,000 braved the cold to view the spectacle.

The game ended the spring series between Chicago's major league teams. The Cubs won the first in Los Angeles, 13 to 7, the Sox the second in Los Angeles, 9 to 6, and as most fans know, the Comiskeys conquered here, 1 to 0, on Al Simmons' homer in the Saturday clash.

Pat Not Entirely to Blame.

Malone, though always a lad whom American leaguers love to plaster, was not altogether to blame for the Sox triumph, despite the fact the southsiders were leading 9 to 0 when Pat did his last pitching. Frank Demaree was responsible for the first two runs in an amazing bit of misjudging of a fly ball with two out in the third inning. A good many of the terrible things that happened to Malone from then on could be traced back to Malone's temperamental reflections on Demaree's faux pas.

Among the several things which Malone will have a hard time laughing off, however, is the fact that Jack Hayes knocked him for a homer with one on in the fifth inning. Jack is a nice southern boy and a mighty good second baseman, but he never has given anybody any lessons in socking homers up till now. Big Pat never will feel quite the same after that homer of Jack's, especially since it was hindered by the wind.

Haas Drives in 4 Runs.

In the first inning it appeared as if Pat might get a measure of revenge on his old arch enemy. Mule Haas, the fellow who smacked the homer off him when he was leading 2 to 0 in the last game of the world series of 1929. Mule was called out on strikes in that first inning, but he is the one who knocked the aforementioned fly which Demaree misjudged, and his singles in the fifth and sixth innings cheered Malone none. Mule drove in four of the Sox's dozen runs.

Though they never had much of a look in after the Sox got started, the Cubs had the satisfaction of finally breaking through with a run after 15 innings of scoreless competition with the Sox. This seemed to make some of the boys feel better.

From the fielding standpoint the game was well played, each side contributing only one error, and neither of the misplays was a glaring one. Both catchers appeared to be working with boxing gloves, the illusion probably being due to the cold. The only real bit of fielding brilliance was contributed by Luke Appling, who came up with three plays far above the mill run of shortstop endeavor.

Demaree Misjudges Fly.

The Sox started the scoring in the third. Dykes opened with a double which plunked to earth near the left foul line. Berry walked, after which Durham laid down a sacrifice bunt on Malone's first pitch. Hayes rolled one down the third base line to English and Dykes was run down between third and home, Berry reaching third. Haas lifted a high fly to short center for what should have been an easy third out. Demaree, however, misjudged the ball and it fell for a double, Berry and Hayes scoring. Fonseca popped to Jurges.

Then came three runs in the first of the fifth. Dykes was called out on strikes, but Berry drew his second base

MILWAUKEE PAIR WIN DOUBLES IN K. OF C. BOWLING

O. Vogelsang of Indianapolis bowled 646 for the only change in the singles. He tied W. O'Malley, Chicago, for sixth place. T. Gomolski of Chicago was the singles champion with 695.

Joe Norris' 1,901 total for the all-events remained on top throughout the tourney. He is from Detroit. The De Soto Majors of Chicago had 3,032 to win the five man title. Milwaukee and Louisville are bidders for the 1934 tournament.

Sox Wallop Cubs; Take Spring Series

on balls. Durham fouled to Grimm. Then Hayes lined a homer over the right field screen, scoring Berry ahead of him. Haas lined a single to center and scored on Fonseca's double to left center. Boss Lew got a little excited and failed to stop at second, whereupon he was run down, Stephenson to Jurges to Malone to Herman.

More Sox Runs.

Four more Sox scored in the sixth. Simmons started things with a single to left and stopped at second on Appling's single to left. The pair moved up on Hartnett's passed ball. Swanson walked, filling the bases. Dykes fouled to Hartnett, but Berry beat out an infield hit, Simmons scoring. Durham fanned, but Hartnett, in trying to double Appling off third, made a low throw, enabling Luke to score. Hayes walked, again filling the bases. Haas singled to right, scoring Swanson and Berry and putting Hayes on third. Haas and Hayes tried the double steal but the effort was busted up, Hartnett to Herman to Hartnett to English.

In their half of the sixth the Cubs ended the long goose egg chain which had spread over three contests with the Sox. Hack batted for Malone and was thrown out by Appling, but Herman beat out a hit over second. English bounced to Durham, who apparently lost count of the outs, for he started to throw to first though he had a setup for a double play. Shouts of his mates induced him to throw to second and retire Herman, but it was too late for a double play. McCarron then drew Durham's only pass, after which Stephenson doubled to left center, scoring English and McCarron. Demaree lined to Fonseca.

Henshaw Is Wild.

Grimes held the Sox to one hit, a single by Berry, during the seventh and eighth innings. Henshaw almost got through the ninth without damage. Haas walked with one out. Fonseca supplied the second out, and then Henshaw filled the bases with passes to Simmons and Appling. Swanson doubled to right, scoring Haas, Simmons, and Appling. Dykes beat out a hit to Herman, but Swanson was out when he over ran third.

Not a Cub reached first base off Gregory in the seventh and eighth. The Cubs got to him for four runs in the ninth. McCarron fanned. Fonseca tried to make a one hand catch of Appling's throw on Stephenson, but dropped the ball. Demaree walked and he and Stevie moved up on a wild pitch. Another wild pitch enabled Stevie to score and Demaree to reach third. Grimm walked and was forced by Jurges, Demaree scoring. Hartnett singled to left, Jurges stopping at second. Koenig batted for Henshaw and walked, filling the bases. Herman singled to right, scoring Jurges and Hartnett. Hayes threw out English.

SENATE KILLS BETTING BILLS FOR NEW YORK

Albany, N. Y., April 9.—[Special.]—All hope for enactment of any bills at the present session of the legislature to permit betting at the New York tracks vanished early this morning. The Wallace-Crawford bill to permit open betting at the tracks, sought by the Jockey club, has been safely consigned to the finance committee of the senate after passage in the assembly. Its fate is sealed.

Early this morning a similar berth was found for the Breitenbach bill proposing constitutional amendment to permit pari-mutuel betting. It was passed by the assembly yesterday.

Purple Team Perfects Jig Saw Football Shift

Opponents of Northwestern university's football team next fall will be called upon to solve what Coach Dick Hanley hopes will be an eleven piece jigsaw puzzle.

Hanley has drilled his football squad for the last three weeks on a new starting formation which for want of a more accurate description has been officially termed the jigsaw shift.

When they leave their huddle the players whirl about and line up in a jigsaw pattern. Backs replace guards, tackles line up at end positions in this formation.

At the quarter back's signal the players shift to the positions from which the play starts. For a while this shifting around puzzled even the Wildcats, but they already are reported able to fit the pieces together smoothly. Now it's up to the Wildcat opponents to work it out and to get the "picture" in the allotted full second's time which the shift rule gives them.

Hanley's chief difficulty to date has not been the fitting of the smaller pieces, but to get his two 230 pound tackles, Riley and Chambers, into the right spot at the right time.

Jigsaw fans and the public will see the new shift for the first time at the varsity-alumni game which winds up spring practice at Dyche stadium on Saturday, April 29.

Opening Pairing for National Polo Meet Announced

Pairing for the opening game in the national indoor polo tournament, announced yesterday, will bring the Chicago Riding club and 6th corps area trios together in a Class A contest Wednesday night at the 124th Field Artillery armory, Cottage Grove avenue and 52d street.

Both of these teams will enter the open class later in the tournament, but are considered to have their best chance for a title in the A class. Matches in the latter division are played on a handicap basis, giving the winner of Wednesday's game an equal chance with higher rated eastern teams, such as Winston Guest's Optimists, Elbridge Gerry's Aknustis, and Warren Sackman's Squadron G outfit.

The open tournament will be played "on the flat," and in those matches the local contenders, rating 15 goals, will have to start from scratch against trios handicapped as high as 22 goals.

In Wednesday's inaugural of the tourney, Capt. Maxwell Corpening of the riding club will be the highest handicaped player, rating six goals. His teammates will be Lieut. Larry Smith, five goals, and Prentice Porter, four goals.

The tournament took on added interest with the receipt of word from New York that Winston Guest, the game's premier player and the only man rated at ten goals, will bring his brother Raymond and Stewart Iglehart here to defend the open championship won last year by Guest's Optimists.

Capt. Emmerson, the 124th Field artillery's veterinarian, said yesterday that the two horses which were injured in Saturday night's games did not suffer broken legs as stable hands first reported. He stated that they incurred only sprains, which were responding to treatment.

BROWNING MEETS LEWIS TOMORROW AT THE COLISEUM

Jim Browning, whose publicity department lists among many claims for him the fact that he once lived on a farm, a circumstance which is said to be of the utmost importance in wrestling, will meet Strangler Lewis in the north hall of the Coliseum tomorrow night.

P. G. A. Draws Criticism for Ryder Choices

New York, April 9.—(AP)—The peace and harmony with which the Professional Golfers' Association of America hoped to surround its selections for the 1933 Ryder cup invasion of England was abruptly jolted today by Gene Sarazen's charge that the P. G. A. had made a "big mistake in ignoring Bill Burke, 1931 American open champion, for membership on the team."

"Burke seems to have been overlooked merely because he did not measure up last year to his sensational form of 1931," said Sarazen, "but he still ranks among the first five or six professional golfers in the United States.

"Bill could be picked alone for what he did two years ago, when he was chosen by Capt. Hagen in the Ryder cup matches at Columbus for the toughest assignment. Burke was put against the No. 1 British player, Archie Compston, and gave him a terrific lacing.

Stars in Ryder Series.

"As you know, Burke was really the outstanding star of that Ryder cup series, playing marvelously accurate golf, and followed that up by winning the national open at Toledo in a record playoff with George Von Elm.

"I took the open title from Burke last year, but Bill was still good enough to finish seventh, well up in the money. Leo Diegel was the only other member of the new Ryder cup team to finish ahead of Burke, who has been the biggest money winner of us all in the last two national championships."

Two Former Open Champions.

Sarazen and Capt. Hagen are the only former American open champions on the 1933 team. The others, selected by the P. G. A. under a sectional balloting plan, are Ed Dudley, Densmore Shute, Olin Dutra, Paul Runyan, Craig Wood, Horton Smith, and Leo Diegel. Dutra and Runyan, the newcomers to Ryder cup competition, both have played sensational golf within the last year. Dutra is the present P. G. A. champion.

P. G. A. OFFICIAL'S VIEWS

Albert R. Gates, business administrator of the Professional Golfers' association, last night said the 1933 American Ryder cup team had been selected on the "fairest possible basis."

In answer to the criticism of Gene Sarazen, who charged the P. G. A. had made a big mistake in ignoring Bill Burke, 1931 national open champion, for membership on the team, Gates said:

"We knew we couldn't suit everybody so we decided the best method would be to take a vote from the P. G. A. executive committee members and each of the presidents of the 25 sections of the organization. The team was selected on that basis. Burke was far down the list and we couldn't ignore others who had a far better winter season."

Gates said Tommy Armour of Chicago, himself ineligible for membership on the team because of his foreign birth, also had written in protesting the exclusion of Burke from the team.

Sparta Soccer Players Defeat Bricklayers, 4-2

Sparta defeated the Bricklayers, 4 to 2, in a National league soccer game yesterday at the Sparta stadium. In the closing minutes of the first period Vidano scored for the home team, and goals by Vleck and Matus increased this advantage to 3 to 0 early in the second half. Then the Bricklayers rallied and scored twice, McCowle and Littleford booting the ball between the posts. Another goal by Matus gave Sparta a 4 to 2 margin shortly before the finish.

Few Changes Made in Rules for Basketball

New York, April 9.—(AP)—The newly organized national basketball rules committee of the United States and Canada studied the playing code intently today and decided that only a few minor changes were necessary.

The committee took the position that the drastic changes made to eliminate stalling last year had worked well and that no further radical alterations were needed.

May Reënter Game Twice.

One change was made when the committee decided that hereafter players may reënter the game twice, instead of only once. It was pointed out the new rule would permit more frequent substitutions and lessen the need of keeping tired players in the game.

The committee decided also that the ten second rule, adopted last year to eliminate stalling, would apply hereafter on all courts, irrespective of whether they are 60 feet or more in length. In the same connection it was decided that the center line, controlling factor in this rule, would be mandatory on all courts 75 or more feet long, but that on lesser sized courts two lines, forming 40 feet front courts, might be used.

Reword Running Rule.

The committee also reworded the rule against running with the ball to make it more definite; ruled that an official must handle the ball on an out of bounds play in the offensive half of the court when the ball is to be awarded to a player on the offensive team; and ruled that in all games played in quarters the ball shall not be put in play at the start of the second and fourth quarters by a center jump but shall be treated as an out of bounds ball with possession belonging to the team which held it at the close of play in the preceding period.

Fighter Finds 'Toothache' Is a Broken Jaw

Paul Dazzo, former Golden Gloves bantamweight champion, now boxing professionally as a lightweight, will be idle for two or three months because of a fractured jaw. 3,021 TOTAL WINS A. B. C. FIVE MAN CHAMPIONSHIP

Mineralites Cash In with Tie for Tenth.

Columbus, O., April 9.—[Special.]—Flaig's Opticians of Covington, Ky., are the 1933 American Bowling Congress team champions. Their 3,021 total, registered last Sunday, stood up under tonight's final bombardment.

The Mineralites topped the 80 Chicago teams with a 2,916 total, finishing in a tie with the J. Sorrentino association team of Bayonne, N. J. The total was worth $430 to the Randolph leaguers.

The doubles and singles program will be concluded at 6:30 p. m. tomorrow.

First Team Prize $1,000.

The Covington team won the title with games of 1,023, 968 and 1,030. It is the second A. B. C. championship to go to the Kentucky town. Larry Shotwell won the 1930 singles title with an all time record of 774, on games of 237, 270, and 267.

The championship was worth $1,000 and five diamond medals. The Flaigs topped 1,596 teams in winning the title. The score is eighty-seven pins short of the 1932 winning total, scored by the Jefferson Clothiers of Dayton. While the total is not as high as most of those recorded during the last fifteen years, it has been high enough to win 19 titles.

Today in the doubles Billy Goldammer and Ben Bernicchi of Chicago started slowly in the doubles, but found the groove as they went along and wound up with a 1,265 total, thus assuring themselves of a piece of the prize money. Goldammer had games of 195, 215, and 225, while Bernicchi totaled 179, 215, and 236.

Five Teams Exceed 1,200.

Five other Chicago doubles teams this afternoon toppled more than 1,200 afternoon toppled more than 1,200 pins. They were E. Hart and C. Bunn, 1,256; R. Hayes and E. Boyle, 1,248; Eli Marcich and George Morrison, 1,243; Lou Levine and Bill Lenzen, 1,210, and Frank Walter and A. Butler, 1,201. Walter had high game for the Chicago doubles entrants with 248.

Andy Kortals, veteran Chicago bowler of Bruck's league, toppled 694 pins in the singles to lead the event for the day. He missed getting into the first ten by two pins.

Everett Scott, who holds the major league consecutive game record of 1,307, established with the Boston Red Sox and New York Yankees, crashed in with 1,957 to move into third place in the all-events. Scott had 608 in the team event, 693 in the doubles and 656 in the singles.

MICHIGAN SHUTS PLANT; CUTS COST IN INTRAMURALS

Ann Arbor, Mich., April 9.—[Special.]—Michigan's big intramural sports building is to be closed for the rest of the school year, Director Fielding H. Yost has announced. The shutdown, occasioned by the need of cutting down the $2,000 monthly operating costs, will result in only a partial reduction of the activities of the 1,700 students having lockers in the building, since most of the spring sports are carried on out of doors.

RISE IN GRAINS SPREADS CHEER OVER COUNTRY

Broad Buying Sends Prices Soaring.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

An advance in grain prices that had been expected for a long time developed suddenly last week. Confidence that the markets face a turn for the better has spread throughout the country, bringing in new buying by trade leaders and small buyers and prices moved up to the highest in months.

The belief prevails that while there will be sharp fluctuations at times, the trend will be irregularly higher. A large part of the buying has been based on talk of inflation of the currency and other factors that will result from farm legislation. Trading has reached the largest proportions in a long time.

Buyers of all commodities respond more readily on price setbacks, caused by profit taking, thus creating sharp rallies. A striking feature in the situation that has brought more confidence is the sharp upturn in cash grains and the maintenance of fair levels for hogs, while coffee and sugar have sold at the highest prices in months and cotton values are holding at fair levels.

Red Winter Wheat Rises.

Red winter wheat sold in the Chicago market above 60 cents last week and at proportionally high levels in all other markets, with no particular pressure of offerings. Flour trade has improved, and general business has taken on a new lease of life.

In addition to the strong cash wheat markets, there are indications that the winter wheat crop in the southwest and in parts of the red winter section of the middle west will have the lightest yield in years. Private crop reports on winter wheat, issued by Chicago statisticians, suggested an average of 371,000,000 bushels against 462,000,000 bushels harvested last year.

Expectations are that the government report, due late today, will show between 350,000,000 and 375,000,000 bushels. A year ago the estimate was 458,000,000 bushels. There will also be a report on farm reserves on April 1, which are expected to be less than those of 159,000,000 bushels last year.

Foreign Markets Lag.

Winnipeg and European markets have not followed the upturn in Chicago, with its net advance for the week of 2⅝ to 3¼ cents and about 15 cents from the season's low. Winnipeg was up ⅞ to 1 cent, and Liverpool ⅛ to ⅝ cent, compared with the close of a week ago.

A stronger situation is developing in the world's wheat situation, as supplies are decreasing and Argentine and Australian shipments have fallen off sharply. Crop prospects in France are less favorable and in other countries mostly fair.

May wheat in Chicago closed Saturday at 57⅛ to 57 cents or 2 to 2¼ cents below the week's high; July finished at 57¾ to 57⅞ cents, and September at 58⅞ cents. Prices for the week follow:

Cash Corn Up 12 Cents.

Cash corn prices are up around 12 cents a bushel inside of thirty days, giving the trade one of the greatest surprises it has had in a long time. Such an advance was not even considered when prices were around 10 or 12 cents in the country, and now farmers are getting about 25 cents and have been so delayed in their spring work in most sections that they are not selling freely. Unless weather conditions change radically corn planting may be delayed, as farmers have not finished their oats seeding, which has precedence over corn.

A few strong local professionals have bought corn futures freely on weak spots, causing sharp rallies at times. They are understood to have good sized holdings. It is said there will be several million bushels of corn moved out of Chicago to the east when lake navigation opens in about two or three weeks. Farm stocks are said to be large, which is a most important factor for the farmer, as the advance has added millions of dollars theoretically to his holdings.

Futures moved within a 4 cent range and closed with net gains of 2 to 2½ cents, May being 32½ cents, July 34⅝ to 34⅞ cents, and September 36¼ to 36⅝ cents. Prices for the week follow:

	May.	July.	Sept.

Oats, Rye, and Barley Higher.

Eastern interests who have bought rye futures freely for a considerable period, are said to have sold offers good all week and have disposed of fair quantities. The close was at net gains of 3⅝ to 4 cents for the week with May at 45⅝ cents and July selling at ⅛ to ¼ cent premium.

Oats are being given more attention, with cash interests absorbing receipts at the best premiums over May for the season. The close was at net gain of ⅜ to ⅝ cent, with May at 20⅛ cents; July, 20⅝ to 20½ cents, and September 20¾ cents at the close.

Barley specialists say there are good supplies of malt and barley. Some malt houses in the northwest are said to have been forced to stop buying barley because of their houses being filled.

All Railroads Agree to Sell Visits to Fair

The railroads of the entire country, according to a formal announcement made today by the western railways committee on public relations, have adopted a new low rate plan for the convenience of visitors to Chicago's Century of Progress exposition, whereby prospective visitors may purchase in advance and before leaving home hotel accommodations in Chicago, transfer from the railroad station to hotel and back again, tickets of admission to the exposition, and a sightseeing tour of the city.

Everything but meals is included in this new plan, which combines the several advantages of lower prices to the visitors, of relieving them of any inconvenience in securing hotel accommodations, and of enabling them to know before they leave home just what the trip will cost.

Visits from One Day Up.

These "visits" to A Century of Progress will be sold at every railroad station in the United States. They will allow stays in Chicago from one day up to five days or more. The prospective visitors will have a choice of 27 first class hotels in Chicago from which to select accommodations.

These hotels are grouped according to their normal scale of prices: For a one day "visit" the cost will range from $4.50 to $6.50, including taxi from railroad station to hotel; one night's lodging [single room]; a souvenir Century of Progress admission ticket, and taxi from the hotel back to the railroad station. For a double room occupied by two persons, including the above additional services, the cost per person will range from $4 to $5.50.

For a five day visit, including taxi both ways between station and hotel, a tour of Chicago, three admission tickets to the exposition and four nights' lodging, the cost will range from $14.75 to $22.75 for a single room and from $12.75 to $18.75 per person for two occupants of a double room.

Greeted at Station.

At every railroad station in Chicago special World's Fair departments will be installed, staffed by American Express travel men who will see that all incoming visitors secure their taxis to the hotels named on their coupons, receive their exposition tickets and whatever else they are entitled to. They will also provide information and, in general, serve as a Chicago reception committee.

This sale of complete "visits" to A Century of Progress is perhaps the most outstanding departure ever made on a nation-wide scale from the standard railroad practice. This new plan promises to be one of the greatest cooperative movements ever fostered by the country's railroad systems. It is instituted in addition to the substantial reductions previously announced in railroad passenger fares between Chicago and all points.

NEW DIRECTORS OF "KATY" MAY SHIFT CONTROL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 9.—Acquisition of control in the Missouri-Kansas-Texas railway by New York Investors, Inc., was indicated today in advices from St. Louis which said that William M. Greve, president of the New York company, together with Matthew S. Sloan, former president of the New York Edison company, had been elected directors of the railroad.

The two New York men were elected to succeed H. E. McGee, executive vice president of the railroad, and R. G. Babbage, who, besides being a director of the road, is chairman of the United States Realty and Improvement company. Officers of the company are to be named at a meeting of directors to be held here soon.

A block of 287,616 "Katy" shares was collected by L. F. Loree, chairman of the Kansas City Southern in his attempt to merge these two lines with the St. Louis Southwestern. Following a citation under the Clayton anti-trust act against the Kansas City Southern for this transaction, these shares were transferred to Ladenburgh, Thalman & Co. and the National City company. Today's change indicates that the National City company may have liquidated its holdings in the roads as a result of its divorcement from the National City bank.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 9.—The moderator for the railroads to be provided by pending national legislation should save the railroads $100,000,000 annually through elimination of duplicated facilities and services, according to John F. Harris, a director of the Southern Pacific company and of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad.

A conference on the proposed legislation is to be held Monday by President Roosevelt; Daniel C. Roper, secretary of commerce; William H. Woodin, secretary of the treasury, and Joseph E. Eastman of the interstate commerce commission, according to Washington advices. Mr. Eastman has been mentioned for the position of moderator.

Mr. Harris also pointed out that negotiations on railway wages would begin June 15, and he predicted that they would be cut by an additional 5 per cent or possibly 10 per cent. The managements are expected to ask for a further cut of 10 per cent but offer to arbitrate. A 10 per cent reduction took effect on Feb. 1, 1932.

Depositors of Summit State Bank to Be Paid

Payment in full will be made beginning today to all depositors of the Summit State bank in Summit, which suspended business March 3. The deposits amount to approximately $200,000. As a measure to prevent hoarding, depositors will be given checks drawn on the Argo State bank, which is controlled by the Corn Products Refining company, Argo. The company guaranteed payments of the Summit bank with the approval of State Auditor Edward J. Barrett.

ALL DEPOSITORS OF HARRIMAN BANK TO BE PAID

Cleveland Bankers to Sell Stock.

New York, April 9.—[Special.]—Depositors in the closed Harriman National Bank and Trust company will be paid in full "promptly" under an arrangement whereby the Manufacturers' Trust company will liquidate the affairs of the other institution, it was announced late tonight by Secretary of the Treasury Woodin.

The average net demand and time deposits in the Harriman bank in the week ending March 4, the last in which it was open, were reported to the New York Clearing House association as $24,679,000. The bank was placed in the hands of a federal conservator at the close of the national banking holiday on March 13.

Announcement of the successful agreement for payment of the depositors, which follows a period of internal conflict within the clearing house over whether it had a "moral obligation" in the matter, was made by Mr. Woodin from his home here just before midnight.

His formal statement did not make it clear whether or not the clearing house had finally agreed to provide the necessary funds as it had been called upon to do by counsel for a depositors' committee. Mr. Woodin could not be reached to amplify his statement and bankers familiar with the situation declined to discuss the matter.

Woodin Issues Statement.

Mr. Woodin had been in conference with a group of bankers for several hours before his statement and another by Harvey D. Gibson, president of the Manufacturers Trust company, were issued. Mr. Woodin's announcement of the agreement for the liquidation of the closed bank read as follows:

"Having looked into the situation of the Harriman National Bank and Trust company, the secretary of the treasury believes that the assets and claims of the Harriman National Bank and Trust company are adequate to meet its liabilities, and, feeling that the depositors should not be inconvenienced by any further unnecessary delay, he has requested the Manufacturers Trust company, on behalf of the treasury department and without risk to the Manufacturers Trust company, to undertake the carrying out of plans whereby the net deposits of the Harriman National Bank and Trust company will be paid in full.

"Funds necessary to accomplish this will be placed at the disposal of the Manufacturers Trust company. The detailed plans and procedure by which the amounts due to depositors of the Harriman National Bank and Trust company will be made available will be announced shortly. The Manufacturers Trust company has been selected for this purpose because of its wide and successful experience in liquidating other financial institutions."

Harriman Arraigned Today.

Joseph W. Harriman, 67 year old former president of the Harriman Bank and Trust company, is to appear before Federal Judge Frank W. Coleman tomorrow morning for arraignment on an indictment charging him with 14 false entries on the bank's books, totaling $1,713,225, for the purpose of deceiving bank examiners.

Mr. Harriman, who has been ill from coronary thrombosis at his home for months, has been ordered to appear by Judge Coleman despite an opinion expressed by four physicians last week that his appearance might lead to an acute and possibly fatal heart attack.

Action in Cleveland.

First was the sale of $5,000,000 worth of common stock in the projected new First National bank of Cleveland, which will begin tomorrow. Against this money the Reconstruction Finance corporation will place $5,000,000 in preferred stock subscriptions to form the capital structure of the new bank.

Second was the activities of Oscar L. Cox, conservator for the Union Trust company, and Sidney D. Congdon, conservator for the Guardian Trust company, who today took over the reins in the two unlicensed banks.

More than 200 workers, all volunteers, including the officials of the Union and Guardian, whose liquid assets will be taken by the First National, and members of the Cleveland stock exchange, will sell the common stock. It is hoped that as many as 30,000 individual subscriptions may be had.

Expect Quick Sale.

A. V. Cannon, who will be chairman of the board of the new bank, and J. R. Kraus, former Union chairman, who will be the First National president, said they hoped the stock would be subscribed to within a week or a week and a half so that the new bank will be open for business about May 1, liberating $60,000,000 in bank deposits.

Cox and Congdon announced that they projected extensive changes in personnel and sharp revisions downward in salary for the employés of the Union and Guardian who remain in the employ of the banks under the conservators.

Control for 62 Banks.

Columbus, O., April 9.—(AP)—Conservators were named tonight to take control of 62 state banks in Ohio which had not been able to obtain licenses under the national plan of progressive reopening. Most of the 62 banks were comparatively small. Their combined total of deposits was $48,980,401.

A large majority of all banks in Ohio have reopened for full operations since the general banking holiday.

FOREIGN TRADE DECLINE IS TEN BILLION A YEAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 9.—Foreign trade throughout the world has dropped at the rate of about $10,000,000,000 a year for the last three years, according to the national industrial conference board, which reports on a survey covering the period of the depression.

"The total value of foreign trade of twenty-four countries, which together account for about four-fifths of the world trade," the report says, "declined from $52,895,000,000 in 1929 to $42,187,000,000 in 1930; to $30,523,000,000 in 1931, and finally to $20,051,000,000 in 1932. The fall in the value of foreign trade from 1929 to 1932 amounted to $32,844,000,000, or 62.1 per cent. From 1931 to 1932 the decline was 34.3 per cent.

Creditors and Debtors.

"The twenty-four countries are divided into seven creditor and seventeen debtor countries. The creditor countries are those whose income from foreign investments is greater than the payment they have to make to foreign holders of their own securities. The seven creditor countries are the United States, Great Britain, France, Netherlands, Belgium, Switzerland and Sweden. Debtor countries are those that pay more to foreign investors than they receive from their investments abroad.

"In 1931 the debtor countries were able to reduce their imports by drastic restrictions that were introduced against foreign products by means of quotas, licenses, control of foreign exchange transactions and similar impediments to trade. In 1932, however, similar prohibitions were introduced by the creditor countries.

Debtor Nation Exports.

"From 1931 to 1932 the decline in the value of exports of the debtor countries was 36.5 per cent, compared with a decline in imports of 33.8 per cent, while the value of exports of the creditor countries declined 33.4 per cent, and that of imports 33.8 per cent. In most of the individual debtor countries the decline in exports from 1931 to 1932 was considerably larger than the decline in imports.

START PHOENIX SECURITIES CO. CONTROL FIGHT

New York, April 9.—(AP)—Removal of the present management of Phoenix Securities company, formerly the Prince & Whitely Trading corporation, is sought by interests affiliated with the International Utilities corporation, it was learned today. The latter is sponsored by Percy M. Chandler, New York and Philadelphia public utility financier.

Proxies to accomplish this purpose are being solicited by Burco, Inc., which purchased 100,000 shares of Phoenix Securities stock formerly held by the International company. Efforts to effect a merger of Burco and Phoenix proved unsuccessful, the Burco company alleges, due to the attitude of the Phoenix management.

A preliminary statement of Standard Gas and Electric company for the twelve months ended Dec. 31, 1932, shows net revenue of the company from its subsidiary and affiliated companies and other investments amounting to $14,028,321, against interest charges of $4,901,605, leaving a balance of $9,126,716 for preferred dividends.

After payment of the preferred dividends amounting to $6,371,225 there was a balance of $2,755,491, which is equivalent to $1.27 a share on the 2,162,607 shares of common stock outstanding at the end of the period, compared with $2.40 per share for the year ended Dec. 31, 1931. The balance of $2,755,491 includes $1,507,370 paid from surplus of the subsidiary and affiliated companies.

CHICAGO STORES GET FLOOD OF BUSINESS AS BEER COMES BACK

Coincident with the revival of the beer industry during the last week, local department stores, chain and independent groceries, restaurant and hotels and other retail establishments were rushed with a heavy volume of trade. The crowds in the stores were enormous. In some cases officials stated they were handling the greatest rush of business since 1929, according to trade observers of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

Wholesale turnover showed a marked pickup coincident with the season, market week sales sponsored by the Chicago Association of Commerce, the interest centering around the third anniversary of the Merchandise mart.

Retail sales were also stimulated to a great extent by the pre-Easter demand. A good number of buyers was reported in almost all lines as a response to the increased amount of newspaper advertising being used by the larger department stores, and in many instances the gain in sales was better than seasonal. There was also a slight increase in employment, due to special efforts on the part of store executives to redecorate their buildings in preparation for the World's Fair.

Steel ingot production increased more than one per cent. Orders for sheets for beer barrels and other miscellaneous demands are likely to further the gain in operations in the next few days.

Electric power output for the past week in comparison with the corresponding week of last year showed the smallest decrease in number of kilowatt hours since the beginning of 1933. There was also an increase in carloadings by two of the local railroads.

Sun Life Consolidated Gas Holding 297,313 Shares

Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, known as the largest owner of American common stocks, held 297,313 shares of Consolidated Gas of New York common at the end of 1932. Its block was unchanged from 1931. United corporation was the second largest holder of this utility's shares, owning 202,900 shares, unchanged, while Niagara Hudson corporation held 201,500 shares, also unchanged.

U. S. SECURITIES SHOW STRENGTH IN BOND MARKET

Foreign Liens Drop; Germans Lower.

New York, April 9.—(AP)—The bond market ended a rather squally week in fairly good condition.

Probably the most encouraging feature of the week was the quiet strength of United States government securities, most of which showed daily gains in the face of falling prices in some foreign groups and unsteady movements of various domestic corporation loans.

Reflects Easier Money.

The federal section as a whole reflected easier money conditions, progress of the administration's budgetary economies and the belief in most conservative banking quarters that currency inflation was remote and that the government's plans for halting deflation would be based upon sound financial principles.

The decline of German bonds was one of the retarding factors of hesitant trading. Reich issues of all categories slumped several points and most of them were unable to recover to any great extent. The weakness of this group was attributed partly to nervousness over the dwindling gold reserve of the Reichsbank and fears that, unless the country's trade balances improve, there might be a reduction of foreign debt service or, at the worst, even a moratorium on payments. Germany's political problems were also being watched closely.

High Grade Issues Steady.

Highest grade domestic utilities, industrials and rails displayed resistance, but there was considerable irregularity in the semi-speculative or secondary divisions. This was particularly true of the carriers. Chicago and North Western railway maturities, already in the ultra low price class, dropped 1 to 8 points in one session following reports that some reorganization plans might be announced by the road's management. Later denial of this report brought an equally sharp rally in this group, but other transportation loans failed to show any great improvement.

Sentiment for telephone, oil and rubber company issues was somewhat better. Bondholders were cheered by reports of a pickup in some lines of trade and industry, an increase in freight car loadings and a moderate improvement in electric power output.

German and British Banks to Co-operate

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

BADENWEILER, Germany, April 9.—It became known today in connection with the meeting of the directors of the Bank for International Settlements at Basle that Dr. Hjalmar Schacht of the reichsbank and Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, held a long conference at this Black forest spa Saturday in which they canvassed the world financial situation.

After the conference it was learned the two financiers agreed upon closer coöperation between the German and British central banks, particularly in regard to exchange and credit problems.

Just how this coöperation is to work out in practice is still not clear, but it is believed it may be invoked in connection with the problem of Germany's foreign debt. Dr. Schacht is understood to have told Mr. Norman the German government and the reichsbank would refuse to undertake any currency experiments as they intend to hold the German mark at gold par at all cost.

Ability to Pay.

At the same time the reichsbank governor is believed to have raised the question of Germany's ability to pay the charges on Germany's foreign debt and intimated that Germany might have to take further drastic steps to limit payments abroad in order to preserve the currency stability. It is recalled that several days ago Dr. Schacht told the reichsbank shareholders, "The transfer problem which we had ample occasion to study in connection with reparations now also appears in connection with the commercial debts." This is taken as a warning that unless the creditors reduce interest and amortization charges Germany may decree a transfer moratorium on the deposit of certain interest and amortization charges in marks with the reichsbank. If this should occur, repercussions against German credit would be inevitable and it is believed Dr. Schacht and Mr. Norman discussed ways and means by which the Bank of England could assist the reichsbank.

Schacht in Basle.

BASEL, Switzerland, April 9.—(AP)—The German reichsbank's recent repayment of part of a credit to the federal reserve bank, the bank for international settlements, and the banks of France and England was described today by the reichsbank president as a move to give the institution greater freedom of movement.

Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, head of the reichsbank, discussed the repayment on March 4 of $16,000,000 of an $86,000,000 credit at a meeting today of governors of the issue banks who are here for the annual meeting of the bank for international settlements.

Dr. Schacht said he considered this was the only way for the reichsbank to procure more gold and gold currencies, and added that the management of his institution had firmly resolved to defend the status of the German mark.

WILL PRESENT ILLINOIS LIFE CONTRACT TODAY

A contract for the reinsurance of the 75,000 policy holders of the Illinois Life Insurance company by the Associated Mutuals of Boston is to be presented to Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson today. The latter company, represented by the James S. Kemper company of Chicago, was the successful bidder in the competition to reinsure the Illinois Life, which failed with $140,000,000 of insurance in force. Judge Wilkerson expressed impatience last week with the delay in agreeing upon a contract and ordered Receiver Abel Davis and the Associated Mutuals to come in today with one.

INFLATION TALK CAUSES RALLY IN WALL STREET

BY FRED HARVEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 9.—Warmed by the fires of currency inflation talk, the share market has been simmering gently higher for the last week. The composite averages have risen nearly 2 points and the industrial group has done even better, advancing from 82.19 on Saturday a week ago to 86.07 at the close of business yesterday. Plus signs have predominated in the final tables of every trading session of the week but one.

Many traders in Wall street are convinced that "dollar devaluation" is on the books and that its inevitable effect must be a substantial rise in stock prices along with those of commodities and everything else. Whether inflation is the correct solution of the nation's ills, just how it may be brought about, whether by lowering the gold content of the dollar or otherwise, and when it may be inaugurated, are matters that the speculation community waves aside as being beside the point.

Effect on Values.

What matters, from the trading viewpoint, is the effect on security values. Any sort of inflation would be expected naturally to make for higher quotations—for a time at least—but how extensive the advance might be and what its speed no one presumes to guess.

Many well informed commentators, indeed are just as thoroughly convinced as the inflation enthusiasts are of their theory that no kind of currency expansion scheme would "take" with business conditions in their present anemic state and that any pronounced effort to force such a project by whatever means might have anything but the desired effect on the markets generally. In other words there is a decided difference of opinion in Wall street as most everywhere else on the matter.

It is this difference — along with some misgivings regarding other projects known or supposed to be on the "new deal" program—that has kept the rally from being the wholehearted affair it might have been. The move to investigate investment banking houses and the proposed regulation of the stock exchange have acted as a damper on enthusiasm in some quarters and the knowledge that there have been no developments in the business and industrial field anywhere that could pass muster as a possible starter for a belated spring upturn has made for caution and restraint all around the circle.

Railroad shares perked up toward the last of the week after a sinking spell brought on by rumors—later denied — of impending receiverships. This group still wanders more or less as a lost orphan through the day-by-day trading sessions. However, and until something in the way of real artificial relief is forthcoming for the roads students of the situation do not anticipate any dazzling performance from their corner. It is generally recognized that the carriers cannot really "come back" until reviving business begins to throw revenue —paying freight—their way.

LOSS OF TEXAS CORPORATION PUT AT $2,161,840

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 9.—[Special.]—The Texas corporation reports for 1932 a consolidated net loss of $2,161,840 after all charges and reserves, but before a reserve of $3,000,000 to cover estimated losses on notes and accounts receivable and $2,565,650 to cover the proportion of previous years' losses of companies not consolidated, which were deducted from earned surplus. This compares with a net loss of $9,954,478 in 1931.

The income account and balance sheet include the Indian Refining company and the Texaco Salt Products company, not previously consolidated. Earned surplus was reduced from $102,618,466 at the beginning of 1932 to $84,974,441 at the close, dividends of $9,851,261 for 1932 having been paid out of this account.

Amount of Assets.

The balance sheet as of Dec. 31 last shows current assets of $160,954,310 and current liabilities of $27,527,989, compared with $182,434,963 and $26,948,458, respectively, at the close of 1931. The net decrease of $21,480,653 in current assets was due, in part, to a decline of $11,513,541 in inventories of crude and refined oils and of $11,719,319 in loans secured by marketable securities, the latter item having been wiped out entirely in the 1932 balance sheet. Cash increased $5,293,304 to $26,402,446, and marketable securities $54,525 to $10,779,113.

The funded and long-term debt amounted to $109,804,744, compared with $117,845,877, a reduction of $8,041,133 during the year. Fixed capital assets, including patents and trademarks of $1,293,285, totaled $570,555,133, including reserves of $286,637,122, making net fixed assets $186,637,122. Net fixed assets at the close of 1931 were $301,719,735. Total assets were $519,754,865, against $543,329,526.

Gross Earnings Steady.

Gross operating earnings of the corporation for 1932 amounted to $137,369,695, compared with $138,827,076 in 1931. These earnings, however, do not include state gasoline and federal excise taxes amounting to $49,831,500 in 1932 and $40,910,797 in 1931. Operating expenses, including taxes and intangible development costs, totaled $101,580,577, against $108,057,485, making gross income $35,789,117 in 1932, against $30,729,591 in 1931.

Non-operating income declined $1,156,664 to $3,161,790, but interest charges increased to $7,106,959 from $6,740,065 in 1931. Reserves for depletion and lease amortization and depreciation, retirements and other amortization were $34,493,342, against $38,520,435. Common capital stock outstanding was unchanged at 9,851,636 shares of $25 par value.

Expenditures on Plant.

Expenditures for plant account, including relacements, amounted to $13,042,951, R. C. Holmes, president, states in his report to stockholders. Mr. Holmes says that during the year the company bought stock in the Hydro Patents company, which controls the hydrog ation process in this country, and completed the purchase of all outstanding stock in the International Refining company, a Montana corporation. The company also through its French subsidiary acquired a substantial interest in Societe des Raffineries de Petrole de la Gironde, which has completed and put into operation a refinery at Bordeaux.

Gross crude oil production of the company amounted to 32,787,863 barrels, compared with 33,627,464 in 1931. The crude oil runs to stills increased by 1.5 per cent from 1931 to 59,521,388 barrels, and the gasoline yield averaged 50.3 per cent compared with 51.1 per cent in 1931. Mr. Holmes places the industry's yield in the United States in 1932 at 44.7 per cent and explains that the reduction in the percentage yield was due to the introduction of a superior gasoline product.

GOTHAM PONDERS WOODIN'S PLAN ON LIBERTY LOAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 9.—Speculation as to whether Secretary Woodin plans to announce by next Saturday the calling of the $6,268,000,000 of fourth Liberty 4¼ per cent bonds for payment on Oct. 15, 1933, in whole or in part, if at all, forms the principal topic of conversation in government bond circles at the moment. The issue closed the week at 102 8-32ds, which would indicate a minus yield if the issue is to be paid off in October.

Today several specialists in United States government bonds reported that they were advising their customers to purchase the fourth 4¼s on the assumption that they would not be called, basing their predictions on the avowed desire of the treasury to refinance its unwieldy amount of short term debt by issue of intermediate or long maturities.

Other specialists were less positive in their views, indicating that certain series of the loan might be called. If this were done, drawings of the letters of the alphabet corresponding to the lettered series of the loan would probably be made instead of the arbitrary calling of A to H or A to M.

STEEL INDUSTRY BUYS MATERIAL FOR EXPANSION

Pig Iron and Scrap Trade More Active.

Heavier purchasing of pig iron and scrap features the iron and steel markets, according to the magazine Steel. In some instances, purchases have covered leading consumers' requirements for the rest of the year.

"Not only is the volume of orders larger than recently, when fears of price inflation started a moderate buying movement, but shipments have also been increased substantially," says Steel.

Steel ingot production for the week has mounted two points to 17½ per cent, with a broadening consumption on the part of miscellaneous manufacturing industries, particularly by automobile builders. More important gains are noted in finishing mills in the Pittsburgh, Youngstown, Cleveland, and Chicago districts.

Iron and Scrap Active.

"Lack of a surplus of iron and steel in the middle west, and in the east, where there have been heavy drains for export, has led to large sales," says the magazine. "The Southern railway's offering of 200,000 tons, which was available for more than two years, has been absorbed by a syndicate of dealers, 89,000 tons going to a West Virginia steelmaker, and some of the remainder for export.

"Following the American Radiator and Standard Sanitary corporation's purchase of its pig iron requirements for this year, and the sale of 15,000 tons of gray forge iron to an eastern Pennsylvania foundry, pig iron prices display a much firmer tone.

"Pittsburgh and valley furnaces are stabilizing prices, with bessemer up 50 cents a ton. Cleveland furnaces have raised their prices 50 cents for outside delivery. Scrap prices are up 50 cents to $1 at Pittsburgh."

March Steel Output Sags.

Steel ingot production for March averaged 32,812 gross tons daily, in comparison with 44,378 tons for February, but did not reach the low points of last July, August, or December, says Steel. Showing the same resistance, pig iron production for March did not break through last year's low.

"Automotive production apparently has bridged the gap caused by the bank moratoriums," says the magazine. "Schedules have been increased by the leading manufacturers, with prospects that the number of cars to be made this month will approximate that of last January, when the industry was preparing for spring sales."

Railroads, awaiting the government's program, are not active in the market. Steel pipe shipments to southeastern fields have been sharply reduced by production holidays and restrictions on drilling.

Chicago Buys Pipe.

The largest municipal purchase of pipes in months has been closed by Chicago for 9,910 tons of cast.

"Prices generally exhibit a stronger trend," states the magazine. "The reported $2 a ton advance in galvanized sheets, however, has not been put in effect."

The iron and steel scrap composite of steel has advanced for the fourth consecutive week, 13 cents to $6.71. The finished steel composite remains at $44.90. The iron and steel composite is up 2 cents on advances in pig iron.

MIDWEST STATES PLAN TO JOIN IN ECONOMIC GROUP

Topeka, Kas., April 9.—(AP)—Plans for formation of a midwest economic council will be discussed by representatives of eight states—Kansas, Iowa, Missouri, Illinois, Colorado, Nebraska, Ohio and Texas—at a meeting here tomorrow.

The proposed council will have as its purpose a discussion of foreign trade and international relations in their particular reference to the well-being of the people of the midwest, said Marco Morrow, Topeka publisher and chairman of the economic council of the Kansas state chamber of commerce.

The state chamber's economic council has invited nearly 30 representatives of the seven other states to meet with it at Monday's preliminary conference. They will arrange a program for an early conference of representatives of agriculture, industry and business.

"The problems of the midwestern agriculture and industry," Morrow said, "are intimately and irrevocably bound up with the foreign relations sustained by the nation. Their early adjustment is of vital importance to every individual in this region. Such adjustment can be accomplished only through enlightened opinion. We believe the profound importance of the international problem justifies us in maintaining that this area should have a voice in its settlement."

Brazil May Form Mortgage Bank for Coffee Growers

RIO DE JANEIRO, April 9.—[U.P.]—Finance Minister Oswaldo Aranha announced today that he was studying the establishment of a national mortgage bank to help relieve coffee planters in Sao Paulo and other states. The coffee relief plan, he said, will not constitute a moratorium but will provide new credit facilities to enable payments on mortgages over a period of 10 years at a fixed rate of interest.

WORLD BUSINESS BETTER IN SPIRIT, BUT IS CAUTIOUS

U. S. Survey Shows Several Brighter Spots.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 9.—Italian industrial activities have increased since April 1, the department of commerce says in its weekly review of business and economic conditions abroad. Spanish business was pictured as hopeful in tone, but lacking definite improvement owing to dullness in the heavy industries and agricultural difficulties. Reduction of Hungarian imports resulted in an unfavorable trade balance in January. In the Union of South Africa the trade tone is optimistic, though buying remains cautious.

Regarding business conditions in other countries the department's report says, in part:

Argentina—Exports of the season's crops proceeded more slowly during March than was expected. The consequent hoped for improvement in the supply of foreign exchange failed to materialize. An upward swing in cereal prices toward the middle of the month brightened the outlook appreciably, but the trend was not sustained.

Australian Sales Tax Rises.

Australia—Returns from sales taxes throughout the whole commonwealth during the last half of 1932 reached £4,785,000, compared with £3,767,000 for the last six months of the preceding year. Money continues to become cheaper and real estate is definitely assuming a more favorable trend.

Austria—Austrian budget results in 1932 shows a deficit of about 15 million schillings, compared with 322 million schillings in 1931. This was accomplished by a radical reduction of expenditures from the high of 2,330,000,000 schillings in 1931 to 1,920,000,000 schillings in 1932. Revenue in the same period declined from 2,008,000,000 schillings to 1,905,000,000 schillings. [A schilling equals about 14 cents.]

Brazil—Trade and industry showed a slight but sustained advance in March and conditions in other lines of activity were encouraging. Manufacturers adhered to normal operating schedules, domestic collections were effected without difficulty, and sales of goods were satisfactory after a short lull following pre-carnival holiday buying.

Chinese Trade Improves.

China—Shanghai business activities in March presented a distinct improvement over the previous two months, with increased activity in real estate transactions and building. Substantial orders are being booked for all types of small merchandise from the United States, but importers are hesitant in making forward commitments because of uncertainty in the Sino-Japanese outlook. Import firms have benefited by the American holiday, which resulted in a higher silver exchange, and Chinese dealers entered rush orders for American products.

Japan—A heavy import excess has characterized Japan's foreign trade since the first of the year. Up to March 10 the unfavorable trade balance amounted to 144,135,000 yen against 108,302,000 yen for the corresponding period in 1932. Larger imports of raw cotton and other raw materials have offset the slight increase in exports of raw silk and silk textiles.

THREE BUILDING MATERIAL FIRMS STRONG IN CASH

New York, April 9.—(AP)—Some companies in the building industry, despite lower earnings due to the sharp drop in construction activity throughout the country, apparently have been able to maintain liquid positions and strong capital structures.

Recent reports of three of the larger concerns—American Radiator and Standard Sanitary, Johns-Manville, and United States Gypsum—disclose that in each case cash and the equivalent at the end of 1932 exceeded current liabilities and practically covered, in addition, funded debt and preferred and minority stock interests.

At the close of last year, American Radiator had working capital of $44,314,000, against $56,297,000 at the end of 1931; Johns-Manville, $9,039,000 against $10,659,000, and U. S. Gypsum, $17,467,000 against $16,981,000. Analysts point out that the positions of these companies were maintained in the face of a 90 per cent drop in residential building since 1928.

Walter Brown Made Head of Concern in Cleveland

Cleveland, O., April 9.—(AP)—Election of Walter F. Brown of Toledo, postmaster general in the Hoover administration, as president of the Cleveland Automatic Machine company was announced at the company's annual meeting. Brown, formerly vice president and a director, succeeds the late A. E. Garford of Elyria, O. He recently was elected chairman of the Hudson and Manhattan Railroad company.

Organize New National Bank in Galena, Illinois

Galena, Ill., April 9.—[Special.]—A new national bank is being organized in Galena to take over the merged assets of Galena National and Merchants National, two of the oldest and largest banks in Jo Daviess county. Stock is now being sold and it is expected the new bank will be started shortly with capital of $160,000 and $40,000 surplus.

Pennsylvania Anthracite Output Higher in March

Harrisburg, Pa., April 9. — (AP) — A spurt in anthracite mining was noted for March, with production totaling 4,500,000 tons, compared with 4,275,000 tons in February. The department of mines said, however, that the production was below March, 1932, when the state turned out 4,789,000 tons. Bituminous production was 5,775,000 tons.

MEN.

WE WILL SIGN UP 8 ADDITIONAL MEN IMMEDIATELY AT OUR LOCAL BRANCH, WHO WILL UNDERTAKE A FIVE-YEAR PROGRAM OF EARNINGS AT $34.00 PER WEEK, WITH ADDITIONAL CASH PROFITS IN SAVINGS FOR THE FIVE-YEAR PERIOD OF $9,600.00.

This program of earnings and savings is something entirely new. It is a definite and practical plan for the man who wishes to cover the overhead expenses of himself and his family each week and save a substantial additional profit. It is to such men we offer this opportunity. We prefer married men with established homes they must maintain. This is a permanent arrangement and we are not looking for the man who is not serious-minded about his future and about getting ahead in an honest, industrious manner.

You cannot make money here unless you earn it. But if you are capable of understanding and following instructions and if you are one who likes to practice to gain skill and judgment in what he does, and if you are a worker willing to pay a working price for success, then we recommend that you come in Monday morning for an interview. It costs nothing to try. The training is free. We will furnish full equipment with no deposit required. There is no expense.

While this is specialty sales work, yet the men selected need not have had any previous sales experience. If you have adaptability and an earnest desire to learn the business and get ahead in it, we can give you the information and teach you all the methods necessary to success, quickly.

We require men to be of good reputation, active and alert. This is a straightforward offer of sincere intent to worthy men who are in need of good, substantial positions. We have tried to state the facts and requirements clearly. Please do not apply for these positions unless you feel you can meet the requirements. Applicants will be personally interviewed Monday morning, April 10, at 9 to 1, at 430 Hyde Park Bank Bldg., 53d and Lake Park-av.

MEN—MONDAY!

If you call Monday between 9 a. m. and 1 p. m. you will have found a wholly new prospect in life. First of all we do not have any applicants for downtrodden, discouraged or forgotten men, but only for the DETERMINED, ALERT type who believe that PERMANENT INDEPENDENCE merits a full day's honest work, day after day. We wish men who are interested in growing incomes, paid weekly, without any investment, deposit or purchase. This large company successfully transacts business world-wide and leads wherever its products are known. Throughout the period of the depression it has gained constantly, creating one new record sales month after another and one record sales year after another.

There are many men in this business succeeding consistently—regularly—many who are increasing their incomes. V. J. C., formerly an upholsterer, who has made as high as $2200 in a single day in this business, enjoys regular good pay checks. Here are two recent weekly checks—one for $89 and one for $97. F. W., formerly a plasterer, received $70 and the next week $85. Many men make $20 or more in a day. S. M. made $45 in one day—and these men newly started in the business have shown good earnings right at the outset: J. C., J. S., G. T. C., F. G. H., A. McE., and many others. These are not picked specimens of earnings, but merely samples taken from many pay checks. Some men make but $25 their first week, or maybe only that much a week for their first few weeks; others start right out with nearly double that income.

If you have responsibilities and wish to secure something that will last, that is not governed by seasons or layoffs; if you are willing to work 52 weeks in every year and are not controlled by weather, storms, or anything else, then we will give you such opportunity as we believe you can take care of. If you can CLICK we will make a place for you and have successful men train you. Be here between 9 and Monday, April 10. Call at Room 329 Madison-Kedzie Bldg., 9 S. Kedzie-av.
